IMPORTANT CONFERENCE.

Representative Democrats Assembling at Albany.

A Movement as to Presidential Nominations.

Opinions of Judge Church on the Present Party Crisis.

THE WEST TO HAVE THE CALL.

Ineligibility of Governor Tilden Discussed.

ALBANY, May 24, 1876.

A large number of leading democratic politicians from different parts of the State are in Albany to-day, and it is evident that a movement of some importance is going on which enlists the sympathy of the representative men of the party. Among those who have been seen around the hotels this morning are A. P. Laning, of Erie county; James S. Thayer, of New York; Dewitt C. Littlejohn, of Oswego; Canal Commissioner Walrath, ex-Lieutenant Governor Beach, Henry Tilden, the Governor's brother; ex-Attorney General Champlin and others, reminding one of the days when a Legislature is in session. The general topic of conversation among them has been the Presidential nomination and the probable position of the New York delegation at St. Louis, and the prevailing sentiment appears to be opposed to the pressure of any New York candidate on the National Convention and in favor of the support of a nominee who will be likely to unite the democracy of New York.

This, it is thought, cannot be accomplished by the nomination of any New York candidate who has yet been named, and hence the feeling seems to favor the support of an outsider by the New York delegates unless some New York name against which no local prejudice exists should be presented by some other State, as Governor Seymour's name was presented by Ohio in 1868.

VIEWS OF JUDGE CHURCH.

Being desirous of ascertaining the views of the leading democrats now here on the Presidential question, and the Court of Appeals being in Session, the HERALD correspondent visited Judge Church to-day, on the adjournment of the Court of Appeals. Judge Church, who positively declines to enter upon any political discussion or to submit to what the newspapers style "interviewing" so long as he occupies his present position at the head of the highest judicial tribunal of the State, was nevertheless quite willing to express his personal views on the political situation. Judge Church has been four times elected to public offices of honor and trust, and has on each occasion run ahead of his ticket, his majority for Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals having been about 90,000, yet he has never been an office seeker, and has twice declined to allow his name to be used as the democratic candidate for Governor when he could have demanded the nomination. In 1868 Judge Church was unanimously presented to the Democratic National Convention, in New York, by the New York delegation, as their first choice, without any solicitation or effort on his part to secure the honor. Judge Church, in conversation to-day, remarked that while his political sentiments remain unchanged and fully accord now with the principles of the democratic party, with which he has always acted, his feelings of mere partisanship have become much modified since his occupation of a seat on the bench, and he finds that he can now look with more toleration upon the views of his political opponents, and has no doubt that the large majority of people of all political parties honestly desire to promote the good of the country. He believes that a change of administration is indispensable to reform the abuses which have become chronic and which it would be impracticable for any new republican administration, however honestly disposed, to wholly remove. The Chief Justice believes that without in the least disturbing the settled issues of the war or the constitutional amendments, the South can be restored to a state of prosperity by kind treatment, by stimulating a feeling of mutual interest and by leaving the people of the South to enjoy the blessings of self-government to the same extent to which they are enjoyed by people of other portions of the country. Upon the duty of lightening the heavy burdens of taxation now resting upon the people Judge Church was very emphatic. In other official positions, he says, he has given that subject much attention, and he is deeply impressed with the importance of returning to the practice of the strictest economy in public as well as in private affairs, so that the civil service may be restored to its former purity and the people be better fitted to appreciate and honor a simple republican form of government.

PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATES.

Judge Church declines to discuss the personal merits or prospects of candidates, that being a matter on which individual opinions will necessarily differ, and which belongs exclusively to the National Convention. At the same time he does not hesitate to say that he thinks if the West can agree upon a candidate the nomination ought to be cheerfully accorded that section, and in this connection he was gratified to observe that the names that have been mentioned in connection with the Presidency are all those of gentlemen of capacity and integrity. He expresses the utmost confidence in the delegation from this State, and has no doubt that they will act judiciously for the harmony and welfare of the party and of the country.

NO APPREHENSION OF A BREAK.

In regard to the correspondence of the HERALD from Columbus, published to-day, Judge Church, in reply to a question, stated that he has no apprehension of a break or division of the democracy on any issue on a candidate, as he confidently anticipates that the action of the St. Louis Convention will be acceptable to all sections of the country. The whole nation has a deep interest in the growth and prosperity of the West, and New York, above all other States, must be the close friend of that important section of country, for the development of the West means the increase of the metropolis in population, wealth and importance. There can be no diversity of interest, there should be no irreconcilable antagonism of views between the West and our own State; and no doubt, as the HERALD says, salutation and deliberation at the National Convention will bring about a harmony and a union which will prove beneficial to the party and to the country.

NO FEELING OF RIVALRY.

Although Judge Church refuses to express any opinions as to the merits and prospects of the several candidates for publication, not deeming it becoming his judicial office to thus seem to throw himself into the campaign, the kind expressions he used toward all whose names were mentioned to him show an absence of all feeling of rivalry or jealousy on his part, which may well commend itself to those who take a more active interest in the nomination.

A SURPRISE PARTY.

Albany has been the scene to-night of a sort of political surprise party which may have important influence on the canvass of the democratic Presidential nomination, and cannot fail to seriously impair, if it does not entirely destroy, Governor Tilden's chances of success at St. Louis. A number of representative democrats from different parts of the State having found themselves together in this city, some in attendance on the Court of Appeals and some on other business, determined to hold a consultation with a view to considering the political situation and take into consideration what measures can be adopted to prevent the disruption of the democratic party in this State and the risk of defeat in the nation through an injudicious nomination at St. Louis. They got together at the elegant mansion of Judge Parker, about nine to-night, and there exchanged the views in an informal but spirited and very decisive manner. Among those present were Judge Allen, of the Court of Appeals; Judge Danforth, of Schoharie; State Treasurer Ross, John V. L. Pruyn, Judge Amasa Parker; ex-Mayor McConihe, of Troy; Mr. Pierson, of Troy; Mr. Ross, of Cayuga; ex-Governor Hoffman, Erastus Corning, Judge Miller; ex-Mayor Eli Perry, of Albany; Mayor Bleecker, Mr. Banks, ex-Lieutenant Governor Beach, ex-Speaker Littlejohn; Colonel North, of Delaware county, and others of equal prominence in political life, some thirty-five or forty in all. It was evident, from the general tone of conversation on a comparison of views, that all those present regarded the nomination of Governor Tilden, for the Presidency, as likely to seriously impair the probability of a democratic victory in New York in November, and was regarded by all as an act of justice to the Democratic National Convention, to the party and to the country, to make some sort of a protest against degrading the important contest about to take place into a mere struggle of one man for office. The opinion was expressed that Governor Tilden ought not to attempt to take advantage of the action of a bare majority of the New York State Convention directing the New York delegation at St. Louis to vote as a unit to force himself on the party of the Union against the wishes of a large majority of the democrats of his own State and at the risk of thereby perpetuating republican rule.

After much informal conversation, and when the united sentiment of the gentlemen present had been ascertained and found to be in harmony, a more formal consultation as to the best means of bringing the real facts of the situation in New York to the knowledge of the democracy of the Union was had, and the views of the leading gentlemen at the meeting were requested on this point.

SEYMOUR OR CHURCH.

Hon. J. V. L. Pruyn stated that he had spent some days recently at Washington, and during his stay there he had been asked by many prominent Southern and Western representatives and citizens what his views were in regard to the best nomination that could be made at St. Louis. He had replied to these inquiries only in one manner. He had told his Southern and Western friends that New York did not lay any claim to the Presidential nomination at this time. The candidates had been taken in two former elections from this State, and now New York not only felt that the West had the right to claim the candidate, but New York felt that the party here would unite solidly and enthusiastically upon any good candidate that the West might desire to propose. If they wanted Thurman or Hendricks or any other acceptable and available Western man, or if they chose to make Bayard their candidate they would find that the democracy of New York would give him the electoral vote of the State. But if they thought proper to take the candidate of New York, of their own free will, then he could assure them of his conviction that Governor Tilden was not the man they would select, since his nomination would certainly impair the chances of a democratic victory in New York, and would in all probability insure the party's defeat. He did not care to go into a criticism of Governor Tilden's administration further than that canal reform in the State of New York was, in his judgment, far too narrow a platform on which to base the canvass for the Presidency of the United States. Neither had he stated to them who he thought could carry the State of New York, although he believed that it could be carried by Horatio Seymour or Chief Justice Church, should either of those gentlemen be chosen by the Convention. He had not attempted to advance, nor was he anxious to advance, any individual's cause, being only desirous of impressing upon the democrats of other States the fact that New York does not ask for the nomination for herself, and is willing to unite enthusiastically in the support of any proper candidate who may be agreed upon by the other States whose title to the nomination is better than her own.

GOVERNOR TILDEN IN 1868.

Ex-Governor Hoffman said he was pleased to find that Mr. Pruyn was in perfect accord with Governor Tilden on at least one point. Mr. Pruyn had given it as his opinion that Chief Justice Church could carry the State of New York, and he begged to read an extract which had just met his eye, from the proceedings of the Democratic National Convention, held in New York city in 1868. It was the speech of Governor Tilden, made in that Convention on the occasion of the nomination by him of Chief Justice Church as the democratic candidate in that year. He would read the extract for the information of the company:—

> Mr. SAMUEL J. TILDEN—The State of New York, by the unanimous vote of her delegation, nominates to this Convention one of her most distinguished citizens, a gentleman honorably associated with her public officers for many years past. Trained and experienced in executive administration, of decisive and energetic will, a gentleman who has been repeatedly submitted to the ordeal of a popular vote in the State of New York and had always come from the trial with distinguished success, and who, if he should be the nominee of this Convention, would help us to achieve in this State a more brilliant triumph than any we have ever yet accomplished; a gentleman whom we can cordially and sincerely recommend to the convention and the country as fit in all respects to fulfil the greatest civic trust in the world—the Chief Magistracy of our great Republic—(cheers)—at whom as a candidate would be unassailable and available. The delegates from the State of New York submit to this Convention the name of Sanford E. Church, of New York. (Great cheering.)

The reading of the extract excited considerable amusement among the gentlemen present.

JUDGE PARKER'S VIEWS.

Judge Parker said that there appeared to be one sentiment entertained in common by all present to-night, which was that at this important crisis in the affairs of the nation it is the duty of all good democrats who desire the union of the party in this State and its success in the nation to use their best efforts to place the true facts of the situation in New York before their fellow democrats in other States of the Union, so that the threatened danger of a disruption of the democracy of New York and the consequent loss of the State and the nation might be averted. New York's great influence should be felt in the Convention and in the election, and no individual interests ought to be allowed to stand in her way. This being the case, it was important to adopt some practicable mode of action by which the sentiments of leading and representative democrats could be placed before the country and before the Convention. It had been suggested by Governor Hoffman that the best way to arrive at this result would be through means of a manifesto to be signed by about one hundred recognized and representative democrats, and published in the papers all over the State, but he believed that Governor Hoffman had now some doubts as to the practicability of getting up such a manifesto, and he should like to hear the views of those present on the subject.

Ex-Governor Hoffman said he had thought some time ago, before the meeting of the Utica Convention, that a manifesto of that kind was desirable, but the case was different now. A number of the most prominent of the democrats who would have signed the document then are now on the St. Louis delegation, and while they are as much opposed to Governor Tilden's nomination as ever, there would be an evident impropriety in their putting their names to it now. Besides, the time was too short to get all the names that could be obtained, and to put forth a manifesto not containing a large number of names would give a false impression of the extent of the opposition to Governor Tilden's nomination. He asked Mr. Littlejohn's opinion on the subject.

OPPOSED TO TILDEN.

Mr. Littlejohn said that he had been at first favorably impressed with the idea of a manifesto, but he thought there was some force in Governor Hoffman's objections. He was certain, however, that some steps ought to be taken to place the true situation in the State of New York before the Convention and the country in justice to other delegations and to the party. This is not a time to risk success, so necessary to the future prosperity and happiness of the country, by any half way or hesitating policy, and as a delegate to St. Louis he did not hesitate to avow his opposition to Mr. Tilden's nomination, believing that it would lose us the State and the nation.

Governor Hoffman inquired what course the New York delegates opposed to Mr. Tilden would pursue in the Convention.

Ex-Speaker LITTLEJOHN—The gentleman may rest assured that the minority of the delegation will render a good report of themselves at St. Louis. He declared his intention to insist that at the proper time some one of the minority shall rise in the Convention and explain that the thirty-five votes cast for Mr. Tilden by this State are cast only on compulsion, and protest against the Convention being misled into the supposition that the delegation or the State is really united in his support. He held that this statement could be made in order at the proper time; and although he should prefer its being done by some other delegate, yet if no one else offered he would do it himself.

Cries of "That's talking business!" "That's practical work!"

After some discussion as to the proper time of making this statement to the St. Louis Convention, Judge Danforth made a few remarks, declaring that there is not a single earnest Tilden man to be found in Schoharie county, which gives a democratic majority of 3,000.

Judge Parker suggested that it was important that the New York democracy should be fully represented at St. Louis, and he therefore suggested that those present should state whether they intended to be present at the Convention, and that some means should be taken to induce some other leading democrats to go. Almost all those present signified their intention to go to the Convention, and a committee of five was appointed to correspond with the prominent party men in the several counties of the State, to ask that they attend at St. Louis, or in case of their inability, that they write letters to the New York delegation, setting forth their views, and stating their judgment as to the wisest course to be pursued in regard to the nomination.

THE MEETING ADJOURNS.

After further conversation on the prospects and policy of the party, the company broke up with an understanding that another meeting shall be held after the Cincinnati nomination has been made, so that a more definite plan of action at St. Louis may be arranged.

Erastus Corning has already engaged a large suite of rooms at the Linden House.

The meeting did not adjourn until eleven o'clock.

The prevailing sentiment was in favor of such a policy at St. Louis, without regard to individual candidates, as will insure a united democratic party in this State and rescue the national government from republican hands.

Canal Commissioner Walrath, of Madison county, who was present at the meeting, declares that Governor Tilden has placed on the canals, despite his reform professions, some of the worst men that have ever been associated with the old ring.

Mr. James S. Thayer, who was in Albany to-day, declares himself strongly in opposition to Mr. Tilden; and Mr. A. P. Laning, of Erie, who is generally cautious, has evidently a decided leaning the same way.

ATTORNEY GENERAL TAFT.

The expected arrival in this city last night of Attorney General Taft led to the conclusion that some important business was bringing him hither. A HERALD reporter called upon the newly appointed Minister to England, ex-Attorney General Pierrepont, in order to get such information upon the matter as he might be able to give. As soon as Mr. Pierrepont heard the object of the reporter's visit he said, "I am able to give you all the information upon the point in question which you could get from Attorney General Taft if he were here. We have come to New York upon the Lawrence business, and with that England is, as you know, connected. She delivered up Lawrence to us but refuses to deliver up Winslow, and it is in connection with the Lawrence case that we are here. More I cannot at present tell you, but I can add that I shall be starting for England in about twenty days."

STATE CONVENTIONS.

ILLINOIS.

THE REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION—A STRONG PARTY PLATFORM—BLAINE INDORSED NEARLY UNANIMOUSLY—HOW THE DELEGATES STAND.

SPRINGFIELD, May 24, 1876.

The Republican State Convention was called to order by Hon. C. B. Farwell at noon to-day. About 600 delegates were present. General Green B. Raum, of Pope, was chosen temporary chairman.

After the appointment of committees the Convention adjourned until two o'clock.

The following were chosen delegates at-large:—Joseph Robbins, of Adam; R. G. Ingersoll, of Peoria; G. B. Raum, of Pope; George S. Bangs, of Cook.

After the appointment of the State Central Committee the nominations were proceeded with. The first ballot resulted largely in favor of Shelby M. Cullom, of Springfield, for Governor. The names of Beveridge and Ridgeway being withdrawn, the nomination was made unanimous.

The following additional nominations were made:—For Lieutenant-Governor, Hon. Andrew Shuman, of the Chicago Evening Journal; Secretary of State, George H. Harlow; State Auditor, Thomas B. Needles; State Treasurer, E. S. Rutz; Attorney General, J. K. Edsall, the present incumbent.

The Committee on Resolutions reported a platform, of which the following are the points:—

Reaffirms the principles of the republican party and equal rights; declares a policy of leniency towards those recently in arms against the United States, which has resulted in placing in power in the Lower House of Congress a political party dominated by ex-Confederates, and which has caused the death by violence of at least 5,000 Unionists and negroes a false one, and it is the duty of the government to protect Union men throughout the South by all means in its power; an Executive is demanded whose public life is a guarantee of the alacrity and fidelity with which he will discharge these great public trusts; laws should be passed authorizing the speedy funding of the United States Optional bonds into longer time bonds, bearing lower rates of interest. It is the duty of the government to redeem every promise it has made in absolute good faith, and we therefore look with confidence to the National Republican Convention to solve the difficult problem of the currency that the credit of the nation shall remain untarnished and a just regard be maintained for the rights and interests of all of the people, East as well as West, North as well as South. The republican party has given the people the best system of paper currency ever devised, and we would deprecate any legislation that might, by any possibility, cause a return to the system of paper currency in existence before the war.

The resolutions further express confidence in the administration of President Grant, which has impartially punished the guilty, whether in or out of the party. They condemn the policy of the democratic party for removing Union soldiers from places of honor and trust and replacing them with rebel soldiers, and urge the republican masses of Illinois to show the same devotion in the coming election as they did when they elected Lincoln in 1860 and 1864, since this crisis is perhaps not less important.

Speeches were made by Hon. Shelby M. Cullom, Dover Beveridge, the latter of whom endorsed Blaine for President.

The Convention, which was most harmonious throughout, then adjourned sine die.

The first choice of forty of the forty-two delegates is Blaine; of the two excepted one will be represented by Blaine alternate, and the other will go with the majority. The second and third choice of all is very much divided between Conkling, Morton, Hayes, Wheeler and Bristow, with preferences about in the order named.

MINNESOTA.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION YESTERDAY—A UNANIMOUS SUPPORT OF BLAINE, AND THE DELEGATES INSTRUCTED TO VOTE AS A UNIT.

ST. PAUL, May 24, 1876.

The Minnesota Republican Convention was fully attended. Lieutenant Governor Wakefield was elected President, and M. C. Russell and Edward Richards, Secretaries.

The following delegates to Cincinnati were elected:—At large, Ex-Governor Ramsay; district, Lieutenant Governor Wakefield, W. H. Yale, W. G. Ward, John T. Ames, Albert Knight, L. Bogen, R. B. Langdon, D. M. Sabin and N. P. Clarke.

The following were nominated Presidential electors:—Ex-Governor Davis, ex-Governor Miller, General Edgerton, C. K. Finseth and L. Bogen.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

At this point Finnock Pusey, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, came forward and read the following:—

> The republicans of Minnesota hereby reaffirm those great principles of free government which were declared by the Fathers of the Republic 100 years ago and whose final triumph in our day has been consecrated by the sacrifices of the late war. We are in favor of the unity of the nation, of the constitutional rights of the States and of every citizen thereof; the preservation of the great results achieved by the war; the grateful recognition of the heroic defenders of the Republic in the hour of its supreme peril; thorough retrenchment and reform in every branch of the public service; the fearless and uncompromising exposure of corruption and malfeasance in office, a pure, honest and efficient government; the preservation of an untarnished national credit, hard money or its equivalent—paper convertible into coin; the education of every child within the borders of the Republic through a system of common schools absolutely free from sectarian or partisan control. We believe it to be the sublime mission of the republican party, in the inspired language of the martyr President, to take care that this government of the people, for the people and by the people shall not perish from the earth and, therefore, without regard to past differences, we earnestly and cordially invite all who believe that the administration of the government should not be confided to the men that through years of bloodshed strove to destroy it, and all who seek an economical administration by thoroughly honest and capable officials to unite with us in fraternal and considerate co-operation for the accomplishment of these great ends. We emphatically condemn the dishonesty and treachery of every official who is faithless to his trust, and approve of the injunction of the President to "Let no guilty man escape," and of recognizing a vigorous prosecution of all reforms which tend to purify the civil service and elevate the character of the Government as the supreme duty of the hour. The republicans of Minnesota expect and demand of their delegates in the National Convention the support of a candidate for the Presidency whose character and history shall afford the strongest guarantee of his courage, ability and zeal to carry forward the great work of purification until corrupt men and corrupt systems alike be eradicated from the government.

In addition to the above the following resolution was adopted almost unanimously:—

> Resolved, That recognizing in the Hon. J. G. Blaine, of Maine, a man of tried integrity, of uncompromising loyalty, of commanding ability both as a leader and a statesman, and a fearless, unfaltering advocate and defender of the principles which have preserved the Union and given undying lustre to the party of which he is to-day the most admired representative, we take pleasure in recording this fact, that he is Minnesota's proud preference for the office of President of the United States, and while we pledge ourselves to cordially support any pure and upright republican whom the Cincinnati Convention may nominate, we nevertheless express it as our conviction that no other candidate will develop the enthusiasm or call out the number of votes that would be polled by the American people for the noble champion of their rights, their liberties and their honor.

A resolution instructing the delegates to vote as a unit on all questions was lost.

MISSOURI.

PROCEEDINGS AT THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION YESTERDAY—BLAINE IN THE ASCENDANT—CONKLING SHOWS LITTLE STRENGTH.

ST. LOUIS, May 24, 1876.

Accurate information just received from Jefferson City shows that of the thirty delegates elected to the Cincinnati Convention by the Missouri Republican State Convention to-day thirteen are for Blaine, eight for Morton, five for Bristow, two for Conkling and one for Hayes, and one who is uncommitted and claimed respectively by Morton and Bristow's friends. The resolution indorsing the administration of President Grant was adopted after a sharp debate, during which there were applause and hisses mixed. Postmaster Filley heads the Morton delegates. Conkling showed very little strength at the Convention, but it is claimed by his friends that most of the Morton delegates will vote for Conkling as second choice. The country delegates are all for Blaine. General John B. Henderson is a delegate from the State at large and heads the Blaine delegation.

NEBRASKA.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION—THE DELEGATES INSTRUCTED TO VOTE FOR BLAINE.

OMAHA, May 24, 1876.

The Republican State Convention reassembled at half-past eight o'clock this morning.

After a lengthy and excited discussion on the admission of the contested delegations from Douglas county they finally came to a vote which resulted in the exclusion of both delegations.

The Convention concluded its permanent organization by electing General C. H. Stanwick, of Otoe county, chairman.

The following were elected delegates to the Cincinnati Convention:—R. G. Brown, of Clay county; N. R. Pinney, of Otoe; L. W. Osborn, of Washington; H. S. Koley, of Webster; C. F. Bayha, of Cumming, and A. Nance, of Polk.

They were instructed to vote for Blaine. Of their number five are known to be anti-Hitchcock and one (Mr. Bayha) as a Hitchcock man.

The new Central Republican Committee is anti-Hitchcock by a large majority.

KANSAS.

TOPEKA, May 24, 1876.

The Republican State Convention, for the election of delegates to the National Convention, met here at two o'clock to-day. Colonel W. R. Whiteman was chosen temporary chairman and D. J. Evans secretary. A committee on permanent organization was appointed and the Convention adjourned till four o'clock. The sentiment of the Convention is strongly for Blaine, but probably the delegates will not be instructed.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION YESTERDAY—A BLAINE GATHERING WITH A MINORITY IN FAVOR OF BRISTOW—MR. RAY CHAIRMAN—DESCRIPTION OF HIS SPEECH.

CONCORD, May 24, 1876.

The Republican State Convention in this city to-day was eminently a Blaine affair, but still the Bristow sentiment was a minority not to be despised or underestimated when one reckons on the basis of current opinion. Among the New Hampshire republicans in general the gathering was the largest of a political nature that had been held in the State for many years, and the interest manifested in the proceedings showed that people are not inclined to intrust the coming Presidential contest entirely to the manipulation of politicians; in fact, there were many incidents of the gathering which went to show that "ring" rulers are not so potent here as in the days of yore, and none was more significant than the defeat of Bell Chandler, who left his business in Washington to come on here and secure an election as delegate in the interest of Mr. Blaine. He was the direct representative of the main candidate here; and although the party in the State was kindly disposed toward Blaine, still they would not swallow his friend and counsellor, Chandier. He would not decline to become a delegate candidate till just before the Convention came together; then he only surrendered his claims at the urgent request of many of the best friends of Blaine. If he had stubbornly refused to withdraw, as it was supposed he would, the Convention would have been a perfect pandemonium, instead of a quiet affair, which it really was.

Daniel Hall, of Dover, chairman of the State Committee, called the Convention to order in a graceful manner, and in a very happy address counselled harmony and good feeling in the proceedings which were about to commence. He then announced the name of Ossian Ray, of Lancaster, as the man whom his committee had thought fit to invite to act as President, and Mr. Ray was accordingly chosen. In accepting the position he indulged in some flowery and biographical observations. Mr. Ray evidently did not electrify the Convention, or infuse the enthusiasm into it which he anticipated; in fact it seemed to be regarded as ill-timed in spite of its oratorical eloquence. The name of Abraham Lincoln, which was incidentally and effectually mentioned in the biography of the republican party, was respectfully and heartily applauded; but "bloody shirt" passages, with which it so profusely abounded, were received with only contemptuous silence from hundreds of stanch republicans, who were listening when he talked about nomination, the best men, and so forth. There were marks of approval and there was also reverential applause when he urged that in nominating a Vice President a man with the integrity of the lamented Wilson should be selected. A declaration which was generally indorsed was one that Mr. Wilson's name added thousands and thousands to the republican vote in 1872. Ray's scathing and flowery criticisms of democrats were listened to with silent interest, but the applause was not noticeable until the speaker closed with an eloquent and hopeful view of the future of the republican party.

ELECTION OF DELEGATES.

With commendable promptness the Convention went at once into ballot for four delegates at large. To the surprise of all there was an election the first time. The gentlemen honored were:—Daniel Hall, of Dover; Ira Colby, Claremont; C. H. Burns, Milton, and Natt White, Concord. Burns is the only one of the number whose first choice is Bristow, the others being impregnated strongly with Blaineism. The Bristow candidates who were run against Blaine delegates were ex-Governor Straw, Manchester, and Charles Doe, Rollinsford. The delegates at large, however, are only four out of the ten to which the State is entitled, the remaining six being chosen by a sub-convention, composed of the representatives of several Congressional districts, and was held immediately after adjournment of the General Convention.

In the Manchester district ex-Governor Straw was chosen, who will, in connection with Jesse Gault, Hookset and Mr. Burns, constitute the only strength Bristow will have on the first ballot. The New Hampshire delegates selected from the second are Alonzo Mitte, Farmington; George Martin, Portsmouth, and from the Third district Thomas C. Rand, Keene; B. B. Whidden, Lancaster, all of whom are friendly to Blaine. The other delegates are ostensibly unpledged, the only instructions given them by the Convention being to use all honorable means to secure the nomination of those whose names shall inspire confidence and enthusiasm, and whose election will be an unfailing assurance to the country of a pure and efficient administration.

MAINE.

AUBURN, May 24, 1876.

The Second District Republican Convention to-day renominated for Congress Hon. William P. Frye by acclamation.

Hon. Enoch Foster, Jr., and W. P. Frye were nominated delegates to the Cincinnati Convention. Resolutions favoring hard money and James G. Blaine for President were adopted.

BANGOR, May 24, 1876.

At the Fourth Congressional District Republican Convention to-day C. A. Boulette and J. B. Mayo were chosen delegates to Cincinnati. Strong resolutions were passed indorsing Blaine.

VICTORIA'S BIRTHDAY.

CELEBRATION BY ENGLISH IMMIGRANTS AND OLD VIRGINIANS.

PETERSBURG, Va., May 24, 1876.

The British settlers attended divine service this morning at St. Stephen's Episcopal church, where the rector read prayers for Queen Victoria and President Grant. St. Stephen's Church is a wonderful illustration of the power of the Episcopal Church to elevate and refine the colored race, and the attendance of the settlers shows that in New America they have not forgotten that desire to improve the negroes which is the ancient inheritance of the old country.

The annual meeting of the British Association of Virginia was held this morning, when the officers were elected. It was decided, with great enthusiasm, to meet again in Petersburg next year. Henry Jacob, Esq., a prominent settler, delivered an admirable address on British colonization in Virginia, in which he declared that it was now proved beyond doubt that Northern and English farmers could make farming pay well in this State. He said negro labor was the best and cheapest in the world, and that Virginia needs men of capital and enterprise and not mere laborers.

At four o'clock Mayor Gregory repeated the welcome address he delivered yesterday, many new settlers having arrived.

Lord Derby this afternoon telegraphed a kindly acknowledgment of the cablegram sent through him to the Queen.

The grand banquet to-night, D. B. Tennant, Esq., in the chair, was a magnificent success. Never has there been a finer entertainment in the Old Dominion. State Senator Allan, responding to the toast of "The President," said he hoped to see the time when every American would take off his hat to the President, as Englishmen do to the Queen, from respect to the highest office in the nation.

Queen Victoria was toasted with unbounded enthusiasm, Consul General Myers, of Norfolk, responding for Her Majesty in a very patriotic address.

General Harry Heth, the hero of the Confederate charge at Chancellorsville, responded for "Our Guests," and declared that the English government was the best on earth. Hon. T. W. Hoenninger, responding for "Our German Settlers," paid a glowing tribute to the lamented Prince Consort of England. The banquet closed with "Auld Lang Syne," and thus ended the most memorable celebration of an English monarch's birthday which has occurred in America since the Revolution.

HAYES, OF OHIO.

The Coming Man or Not at Cincinnati?

SKETCH OF HIS CAREER.

A Talk on Men and Measures in Ohio.

No New York Politicians Wanted.

CONKLING VERSUS TILDEN.

Where the One Stands and the Other Doesn't.

COLUMBUS, May 22, 1876.

The republicans of Ohio are for Hayes more numerously and decidedly than the democrats are for Thurman. A few of the republican delegates in the northern part of the State are for Blaine, a few in the southern for Morton and one or two around Cincinnati for Bristow, but the great bulk cry out for Hayes, and of course the vote of the entire delegation will be cast in his favor, at least on the first ballot. They will stick to Hayes unless it be demonstrated that he cannot win. In the East, from time to time, we were accustomed to get, beginning with the high top note of General Sherman and running down the gamut, furtive hints and rumors that Hayes would make a strong candidate for President, that Hayes was the secret choice of the West, that he was a man of great, though unrevealed, political strength; a man of great, but unrecognized ability, and that, in short, he was the coming man, the "Great Unknown," recently discovered and brought to light. To people in the East is a vague and nebulous quantity. We know there must be some such man, and that he must have performed some achievement to send his name afloat up and down the land as a candidate for the Presidency; but the name gives us no clew to his personality, to his weight or capacity, to his deeds or possibilities. We are familiar with all the other candidates, the courtly Conkling, the gallant Thurman, the fiery Blaine, the reforming Tilden, the restless Morton, the virtuous Bristow, the high toned Bayard; but Hayes touches us nowhere. Yet it is not a remote possibility that this, to us, obscure man may be the republican standard bearer for the Presidency. Far more unlikely things have happened. The circumstances being favorable and my curiosity being piqued, I took a stroll into the State House this morning, with a view of having at least who is beyond question Ohio's favorite son. I found Governor Hayes busy signing papers in his private office, and when I subsequently left him it was with the conviction that for a Presidential candidate he was the most unconcerned one I ever met. His head and face are good; the former high and expansive, the latter well filled out by an ample light brown beard. Judging by his eyes he has studied long and hard. What particularly struck me was his voice, its fibre and resonance. I had heard that in the war he was one of the most dashing officers of the Western army, and that no bugle blast could thrill the soldiers' souls like the ringing tones of Hayes' voice sweeping along the lines. There was that quality in it as he spoke that indicated the man of grit and resolution, and yet it was the voice of a modest, unpretentious man who, by unanimous report, would decline to cross the street, if it took him out of his way, to be President of the United States. There was none of that nervous evasiveness about him in the presence of an interviewer peculiar to most political candidates. He talked of the situation as unreservedly as if he had no more concern in it than his questioner, and this was very refreshing. His delivery was easy, clear and fluent.

THE NAME OF HAYES

A LOOK AT THE MAN

BRIEF SKETCH OF HIS CAREER.

Hayes is a well built, pleasant faced man of fifty-four years. Unlike Governor Tilden he is married and has a family. He was born in Delaware, in Ohio, and spent a good many years of his life practising law in Cincinnati, where he had a large clientage, and where he also filled the position of City Solicitor for some time. He served all through the war, going in as a private and coming out as a major general. During his service he was offered a nomination to Congress, but declined, saying the post of honor then was the front of battle. After the war he served two terms in Congress from the Second Cincinnati district. Next we find him entering the field as candidate for Governor of Ohio against Thurman, whom he beat, and then in two subsequent campaigns, including that of last fall, he laid out two other noble chieftains of the democracy, George H. Pendleton and William Allen. Hayes has been Governor of Ohio three times. The success that has attended him so far, especially his victory of last fall, when Bill Allen and the greenback men made the earth tremble with their shouts for more rag money, is a prominent element of his strength with the republican party of the State, who reckoned that if he could do so well on a small stage he might do even better on a large one. Without seeming to show it, he has manifested much adroitness in the various campaigns in which he has been engaged, and managed last fall to snatch victory from the jaws of defeat by the manner of his dealing with the financial question. The republicans have been playing the double shuffle with the rag baby all through this State; for, small as they claim the number of greenback men to be within the ranks of their organization, they are still dreadfully afraid of losing them. Besides being a politician, Hayes is a man of extensive reading and well posted on standard literature.

A DISCOURSE ON DEMOCRATS.

"The republicans, I suppose, are on the high road to victory, Governor," said I, "after that Cincinnati Convention?" "I am not sure of that," he replied, "in fact there is little that is sure in politics. They talk of a bolt of the greenback democrats at St. Louis; but you'll see no bolt. The pride of party and the prospect of winning the government will keep them together. There is not enough of intensity and bitterness in this fight to lead to a bolt, besides, suppose the greenback fellows have their way in the convention, how will the others feel? One side has as much right to bolt as the other. No, that's not the way they manage these things. Talk is cheap until the time for action comes. They will get around the question in their platform, though, however skilfully that is done, the people must see through it and it will weaken the party." "Have you no greenback men in your party in Ohio?"

NOT ENOUGH TO BOLT.

"A small number, not enough to bolt or go outside of the organization in revenge for being disappointed in the platform or the candidates, but the majority of the democratic party are greenback, though most of the influential and thinking portion are the other way. Except General Ewing and a few others I know of none that stand forward as uncompromising champions of the greenback party, though its numbers are large, chiefly, however, belonging to the working class, who are led to believe money would be had for the asking if inflation prevailed. Pendleton is not like Ewing, who is really the head and front of the idea. Pendleton kept as far aloof as he could from the controversy last fall. I suppose he thought it was a losing game. Ewing is bold and outspoken, and though we regard him as wrong we admire his fearless attachment to an idea he considers right."

THURMAN A STRONG MAN YET.

"What, in your opinion, are Thurman's chances under the circumstances?"

"I think Thurman is stronger than the opposition to him. I don't want to be understood as saying a word against Mr. Allen, who is an old friend of mine, but we know he is not the equal of Mr. Thurman in ability or political experience. Mr. Allen has come out of a retirement of a quarter of a century, while the other has been actively engaged in the arena of politics all that time. Mr. Thurman is a man whose capacity is recognized on all hands as a lawyer, and his career in the Senate his friends need never be ashamed of. I don't know so much about Mr. Hendricks, but they are certainly the two most formidable in their party in the West."

CONKLING AND TILDEN IN OHIO.

"What chance has Conkling or Tilden out here?"

"Conkling has certainly a better chance than Tilden in their respective parties. Conkling stands straight and square on the platform of his party and has always stood there, beside being known as a powerful worker in the organization, a man of high attainments and unblemished character. Tilden hardly knows on what platform he stands. He is certainly not on that of the democracy of Ohio nor of Indiana nor of half the Southern States. Any respectable native republican would get more democratic votes in the State of Ohio than Tilden. Beside that, this people don't like New York politicians, no matter whether they are democratic or republican."

WHY SHOULD EAST DESPISE WEST?

"Ah, I see you are clannish out here and want your own people all the time."

"On the contrary it is the East that is clannish. There is a certain expressed bitterness of feeling once in a while against New England and New York, but it hardly makes the difference of a vote. There is a natural degree of complaint that the East takes so little pains to understand the West. Now we know all that is going on East. We take your New York papers, the HERALD and the rest, but who ever heard of an Eastern man taking a Western paper? Every article of any significance that appears in the HERALD, Times, Sun or other prominent Eastern paper is copied in our Western papers, and in this way we are always posted on the sentiment of the East; but do we ever see, except upon extraordinary occasions, a single article in a leading Western paper copied into an Eastern? There is a feeling East that the West is not worth understanding except in the hog and hominy sense, as a great reservoir of pork, corn and grain, with the people in ignorance of the principles of government, the amenities of life and the things that make civilization enjoyable."

BLAINE AND THE REST.

"Do you think Governor Blaine is stronger in Ohio than Conkling?"

"I can't well answer that. Blaine has a great many friends here among New England men, and he is a popular man besides. Conkling stands high in the organization, and is greatly respected. As far as Ohio is concerned if either gets the nomination of the National Convention for President he may count on the solid republican vote of Ohio."

MORTON STOCK AT PAR.

"How does Morton stand in the State?"

"Morton stands well. He has done good service for the republican party of the State, and they are not likely to forget him. He has helped us in many a tight pinch."

"But, is not his inflation policy against him?"

"It was not inflation that he helped us on last fall. It was the other side was inflation. He went our whole platform, and if you read it you will see there was nothing inflation in it. Yes, Governor Morton has numerous friends in Ohio."

"How about Bristow?"

"In this section of Ohio he is not much heard of, though he ought to be strong in his native State."

"I won't ask you how about yourself, Governor, but there is some talk East just now that you would be a strong candidate." This was too much for a man so modest as Governor Hayes. His answer was a look of blank astonishment, and after a little more general talk we shook hands and parted.

BAYARD, OF DELAWARE.

[From the Lexington (Ky.) Daily Press.]

As the conventions of the two great parties approach the question is constantly asked, Who will be the nominees? and strenuous efforts are being made by the friends of each to give prominence to favorites. Already eulogistic biographical sketches of Tilden have been published far and wide, while Hendricks, Thurman and others have been prominently noticed. We are of those who would make Senator Bayard, of Delaware, President, and are unable to see why he should not make quite as good a race as any other democratic aspirant. Surely, in all the elements requisite for an Executive of whom the party and the country might be proud, he is primus inter pares. His Senatorial record contains the best guarantee as to his future course. The honor, dignity and authority of every department of the government of the United States would be fearlessly maintained at home and abroad, while the rights of States and citizens would be respected and secured. Corruption, extravagance and every phase of dishonesty would meet with prompt and certain punishment whenever detected, and the good name of the Republic be rescued from its present degradation. Acts rather than professions are the tests by which to judge public men. Senator Bayard's course during seven years in a hopeless minority stamps him as the executive leader of his party. The more it is scrutinized and the more thoroughly it is investigated the more certainly will that fact appear.

No great reform movement was ever suggested that he did not advocate; no great wrong was ever attempted that he did not denounce and expose. His labors on the Ku Klux and Custom House investigations were simply herculean, and almost destroyed his health for a time, but he never failed to be at his post. Other men labored spasmodically. His labors were unceasing, and always with an eye single to the good of his country, and his whole country. His hatred and contempt of mean or corrupt men is so profound and pronounced, and his judgment and knowledge of them so perfect, that few of either class would be able to approach and deceive him. We have said this much, not to eulogize, but to invite investigation. His public and private record will bear it. Slander, detraction or calumny never reached him—he was always above suspicion. Mr. Tilden may be a reformer. We think he is as much so as a New York politician can well be, but if his record, or that of any other man named on either side, is compared with that of Bayard, and the decision determines the Presidential election, the Senator from Delaware will be the next President.

The seductive influences of power, and they are as varied as they are potent, have no allurements for him. His associates are democrats, however plain and unpretending they may be, and while he is courteous to all he has never been silenced by the social intimacies and obligations which have sealed the mouth of too many prominent democrats when the corruption, extravagance and usurpation of the administration demanded exposure. All public men will testify that they relied upon Bayard more than on all other Senators to lay before the country from his high place the maladministration of the radical party.

It is whispered among the friends of other aspirants who dare not deny the superior executive ability of the Senator from Delaware, that he has sympathized too deeply with the Southern people to obtain Northern support. It is true that he has done all possible to protect the rights of Southern States and people from oppression and plunder; he would not be a fit candidate for President before a democratic convention if he had not; he would have defended and maintained the rights of Massachusetts and New Hampshire under like circumstances as zealously as he has those of Georgia and Alabama. If the friends of others can show wherein he has acted in any manner unbecoming a democratic statesman, let it be done; if their favorites would have acted otherwise, let them show in what regard. The attempt would be fatal to their aspirations. Mr. Bayard said lately in the Senate that he had never done an act or uttered a sentiment inimical to the federal government or the integrity of the Union under the constitution.

Every democrat, North and South, unless it be some parasite who clings to others, hoping for unmerited reward at public expense, will support him, and it is extremely doubtful whether any other democrat so fully commands the respect and confidence of such liberal republicans as continue to demand a change of administration in the interest of honesty, economy and respect for constitutional rights and obligations. True, he was the only democrat who, at Baltimore a few years ago, had the courage to protest against the action then taken; but he stood by his party when it acted, and those he differed with doubtless respect him more for his manly course than they would if he had pretended to believe what he did not.

The truth is that the objection urged so persistently, that no man shall be nominated for any high national position who has shown sympathy or kind feeling for the Southern people or who lives in any former slave State, does not come from the republicans who would, in any state of the case, vote with us for anybody; it comes, and for some years past has been encouraged and kept alive, by the lower order of democratic demagogues in the North, who, conscious of their own want of merit in a fair contest on principle, seek to limit the area from which the candidates must be selected, and the number even within that limit, by excluding absolutely fifteen States, and all the truest, best and most manly among themselves as the only chance they have directly or indirectly to obtain place or power. The sooner the democracy frown down and denounce all such objections and mean suggestions, the better it will be for the party and the country.

Again, it is urged that Delaware is too small a State, and that her political influence is too insignificant; that we must look to the great controlling States for a candidate. We have looked to New York each time for the last twelve years for a Presidential candidate, backing her with distinguished citizens from the great States of Ohio and Missouri for the second place. The results have not been gratifying.

Did the insignificance (if you please) of his State prevent the Senator from Delaware from taking position in that body as the leading champion and advocate of constitutional liberty and law, of honesty, economy and equal rights to States and people? What Senator or Representative from any of the great Northern States has been his peer? Who among them is better and more favorably known to the people of the United States? We think at this time the smallness of his State is a recommendation. It disarms jealousy and destroys those local antagonisms so often fatal in great States. New York is to-day so divided into rings and factions that it is almost safe to assert that Senator Bayard or any highly respectable democrat residing outside of the State would receive a more cordial and united support from the democracy of New York than Mr. Tilden or any democrat residing in it. We all know how Ohio was divided and distracted last fall; the wounds are yet fresh, and no one of her own public men could cordially unite all the elements of opposition to radicalism there, while many honest men would, unwisely if you please, like to punish New York for what they believed was improper interference in their State race. The bitterness developed at the Convention in New York in July, 1868, by the unfortunate antagonism between distinguished citizens of Indiana and Ohio for the nomination there, would in all probability break out afresh in certain contingencies at St. Louis. From all such complications the Senator from Delaware is free. The people of the whole country have confidence that he would carry out fully what the New York Democratic Convention the other day declared as their settled conviction:—"That a return to the constitutional principles of frugal expenditure and the administrative purity of the founders of the Republic is the first and most imperious necessity of the times, the commanding issue now before the people of the Union."

THE ROLL OF HONOR.

A. T. Stewart's Bequests to His Employes.

MAGNIFICENT AWARD TO FIDELITY.

Three Hundred Names on the Record of Remembrance.

Nearly a Quarter of a Million of Dollars Freely Donated.

Names, Length of Service and Amounts Paid to Each.

For some time it has been known among the employés of Alexander T. Stewart & Co. that Judge Hilton was busy investigating the records of the house to ascertain the names of those in the service of Mr. Stewart at the time of his death, and who had been thus for the periods of ten years and twenty years, referred to in the letter to his "dear wife."

Of course many claims were investigated, and we are assured that whenever there existed a doubt as to the time of service, arising from missing payrolls or otherwise, and inquiry had to be resorted to, instead, in every such case, according to the directions of Mr. Stewart, the employé had allowed him the benefit of any doubt. A few instances of this kind occurred where two or three months determined whether the party was or was not entitled, but in each instance the amount was awarded.

On application for a list of the recipients under Mr. Stewart's letter, Judge Hilton expressed doubts whether it should be given out, but finally and on reflection concluded that those who had so long and faithfully served Mr. Stewart were entitled to a public as well as private recognition, and he has permitted a copy to be taken, which we print below, giving the years of service, the names of the recipients and amount paid to each. Where sums are paid beyond the amount which the years employed entitled the person, it was because the services of the party were regarded, for some reason best known to Mr. Stewart and Judge Hilton, as entitled to special consideration. The record is called by Judge Hilton the "Roll of Honor," and it certainly is such—honorable alike to the long list of names upon it and to the memory of the merchant to whom they were endeared by years of business intercourse. The payment was in every case made by the check of the firm of A. T. Stewart & Co. to the order of the party, inclosed in a beautifully engraved note from Mrs. Stewart, as follows:—

"Mrs. Alexander T. Stewart takes great pleasure in recognizing the long and faithful services of Mr. B. C. Hardenbrook, in the employ of her late husband, and presents the inclosed check for $5,000, with her best wishes.

"NEW YORK, May 20, 1876."

The foreign employés will have their amounts sent out by the next steamer, and those at the various branch houses of the firm in England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Prussia and Saxony will receive equal consideration, as Mr. Stewart intended. Every employé for the periods stated has now been recognized and rewarded; every legacy given by the will has been paid and satisfied; the business progresses as was intended, and all moves on in order. The Women's Hotel, the Garden City Water Works and improvements, the completion of the Grand Union Hotel at Saratoga, the construction of the great carpet mills at Glenham, the Memorial church for the merchant's tomb, with parsonage and school house, all progress silently, as it were, but, as we are assured, none the less surely, and one by one other measures and purposes will be developed, as time will show.

THE "ROLL OF HONOR."

The following is the "Roll of Honor," and, as will be seen, it embraces the names of about 300 employés who had been for over ten years in some capacity engaged in any of the stores of Mr. Stewart in this city, or in the branch houses in Manchester, Paris, Lyons, Berlin, Chemnitz, Glasgow, Belfast or Nottingham. The total amount of money necessary to pay the legacies mentioned by Mr. Stewart was $205,750. This, with the legacies specified in the will, swells the grand total to $305,750:—

Approved and payments directed as above, May 18, 1876. CORNELIA M. STEWART.

Since the bequests were paid Judge Hilton has been receiving communications from those to whom they were made expressive of the appreciation in which the gifts are held by the employés in A. T. Stewart & Co.'s stores. It is said that the award of these moneys to the clerks of long standing in the firm's employ has produced a strong feeling of confidence among the employés generally, and that it is especially noted by heads of departments how quickly has been dispelled the old and long-used idea that Mr. Stewart's clerks were not the best paid and in a general way the best located clerks in the city. It is said that Judge Hilton has a still further duty to perform in perpetuating the memory of the deceased merchant prince in ways which shall be alike beneficial to the community and a lasting monument of his own personal respect and affection for Mr. Stewart.

THE STEWART ESTATE—HOW A MILLIONNAIRE'S POOR RELATIONS ARE FOUND AFTER HIS DEATH—AN AMUSING BATCH OF LETTERS PROVING KINSHIP.

Owing to the rumor which has recently been circulated that certain parties, claiming to be relatives of the late Mr. A. T. Stewart, were about to institute legal proceedings in order to secure what they regarded as their proper share of his estate, a representative of the HERALD called upon Judge Hilton yesterday afternoon with the view of ascertaining whether the story was true or false.

The reporter found Mr. Hilton in his private office at the wholesale store, down town, and after introducing the object of his call the Judge conversed with him as follows:—

JUDGE HILTON'S STORY.

"I never knew that a 'combined attack' of 'presumptive or presumptuous heirs' was about to be made upon the will of Mr. Stewart, or upon myself, until I read it in the columns of one of our morning newspapers to-day, nor do I know anything about it now. I have referred all who have called upon me in relation to it to the newspaper office from which the rumor sprung."

"But," said the HERALD reporter, 'have you not, since Mr. Stewart's death, been in receipt of letters from parties claiming relationship with him?"

"Letters!" exclaimed Judge Hilton, laughing heartily, "Why, certainly; I have received them by the dozen. It is safe to say that they came from almost every quarter of the globe. They began to arrive long before the death of Mr. Stewart, and since his funeral they have been pouring in upon me in a steady, unbroken stream. I received three only this morning."

"Please tell me more definitely where the letters came from?" said the HERALD reporter.

"I cannot. They drift in from all points," responded the Judge. "From the East, West, North and South; from England, Ireland, Scotland and America; from Manchester, Liverpool and London; from Peoria, Louisville, Chicago, &c."

"What is the character of these letters?"

"They are of every variety. No two are alike. Yet in each, the writer essays to prove beyond the shadow of a doubt that he or she is a relative of the late Mr. Stewart, and is consequently entitled to some share of his property."

"Do you keep these letters?"

"Yes, of late I have been keeping them. Formerly they were all destroyed."

"Have you any convenient now?"

"Yes, a great many."

Hereupon the Judge picked up a huge mass of letters. There must certainly have been at least fifty in the parcel. They were of all sizes—some enclosed in huge envelopes, with imposing stamps of business firms upon them, some in envelopes of rose, orange and lavender tints; some enclosed in wrappers closely resembling the bosom of a exposed for sale along the Bowery, and others, daintily white and, considering the long distance over which they had traversed, marvellously clean.

DOLLAR PERCALE SHIRT,

"All these," said the Judge, "may be regarded as comparatively recent arrivals. They have come in since the funeral."

"How do you regard their authors?"

"As perfect swindlers."

"But the letters are very funny. You have no idea how ridiculous the majority of them are. Neither Mark Twain nor Artemus Ward ever wrote richer things than can be pointed out in this most peculiar and extraordinary correspondence."

"Won't you please read me a few of them, in order that I may catch an idea of their purport?" requested the reporter.

"With pleasure," the Judge answered, untying the tape and running his hands through the letters. "Let me take them as they come. I have them from nephews, nieces, cousins—in fact, it would seem from relatives both near and remote."

The Judge then proceeded to open a square envelope, which bore a foreign stamp, and about the edges of which there was a heavy band of mourning. It was from Manchester, England, and was addressed to Lady Stewart. It was couched in language of regret. From its lugubrious verbiage one would certainly be led to imagine that it must have been written in sorrow and in tears. In its opening paragraph the writer endeavored to express her sincere grief at the demise of

HER UNCLE.

"I have never seen him since he left Manchester," she wrote, "and was in perfect ignorance of his whereabouts until I read the news of his unfortunate death." She closes her sweet epistle by announcing in the most emphatic manner that Mr. A. T. Stewart was her uncle, and that she hopes her portion of his wealth will speedily be remitted.

The next letter was from the West. The writer generously enclosed her photograph, and her private character was indorsed by the Postmaster and cashier of the bank of her native place. There was no necessity for this indorsement, however, for the portrait clearly indicated that the woman was over eighty years of age. She, too, was in "sackcloth and ashes" because of the stern visitation of Providence, and gracefully supplemented her commiseration by the perfectly natural query concerning the exact amount of dollars and cents that was due her.

The next letter was from a nephew, a gay young man residing in the State of Illinois. He wrote a terrific hand, and expressed himself in the most concise and business like manner imaginable. He speaks to Judge Hilton like this:—"Push my claim forward as speedily as possible, collect all the money to which I am legally entitled, and I'll give you just half the sum total for your trouble."

The fourth letter which the Judge read to the writer was from Alice (somebody), who resides in "Old Kentuck." She is not a relative exactly, but she has such startling facts within her possession concerning the business affairs of Mr. Stewart and his partner, that unless a satisfactory sum is immediately settled upon her she will at once make a revelation that will be sure to forever blast the future prospects of the firm. This lady lives in Bourbon county, and hence the cause of her peculiarly savage and erratic letter the average male reader will readily understand.

FROM THE NORTH.

And then there has come to the Judge a fifth letter. It comes from the north and is cold and severe. In it are no tears. The writer has consulted with his lawyers. He "knows his rights and knowing dare maintain." He's a "relative on the wife's side," and sternly insinuates that he cannot possibly receive his money soon enough. Judge Hilton must certainly remit the sum due this pugilistic young gentleman at once by telegraph, otherwise he will fall a victim to the vengeance of provincial lawyers—a vengeance, by the way, which may occasion Mr. Rice a great deal of trouble to ward off.

And then there are numerous other letters—as, for example, one from the destitute relative; another from a cousin who lost "both legs in the civil war;" another whose property was swept away by the Chicago fire, and another who ought to have been wrecked on the White Star steamer Atlantic. These statements are not exaggerations. Had Judge Hilton kept all the letters which have from time to time come into his hands from parties claiming relationship with Mr. Stewart they would in number exceed a thousand. Not only do letters of the character given above reach him, but they are also daily received by Mrs. Stewart.

Judge Hilton, very properly, gives them no answer. Though during business hours they are an annoyance to him, their extreme ludicrousness amuses him when he is at leisure.

"Mr. Stewart," said the Judge, "failed to find these relatives while he was living, although he was exceedingly earnest in his endeavors so to do. All these parties are swindlers and will receive no attention whatever."

Consequently those other 10,000 or 15,000 individuals who are now engaged in framing their arguments to prove that they are relatives of the deceased had better abandon their undertaking, as the will of Mr. Stewart is to stand as its author seemed to intend it should.

THE PACIFIC MAIL FIGHT.

Nothing could more surprise the speculators who procured yesterday's HERALD than the announcement therein that both Mr. Trenor W. Park and Mr. Rufus Hatch were left out in the proposed direction of Pacific Mail. Mr. Park's position was tersely defined by himself in the quotation that "it was better to be king maker than king;" but it seemed hard that Mr. Hatch, who had been the representative rebel against Gould both in Wall street and the courts, should not profit by the adage that "to the victors belong the spoils." That gentleman, however, expressed himself as pleased with the programme as laid down, so that nobody else should complain. One of the gentlemen named for election by the Park combination as director was questioned, and expressed himself to the reporter as follows:—

"Of course I shall only consider myself elected when a proper vote of the stockholders is had. I am a practical steamship man, and shall in the new board—if I hold a place there—discountenance all stock jobbing tricks and speculations, which have made Pacific Mail a scoff and a byword among business men."

Mr. Trenor W. Park told the reporter that he was entirely satisfied with the situation of affairs, as were his associates in the Panama Railroad Company. "I am going now to my home," he said, "in Vermont, to be absent several days, but you may depend upon it everything is working harmoniously between the lately conflicting interests. As to the stories started in Wall street that the cause of the decline to-day in Pacific Mail stock is owing to sales to the 'bear' or Twenty-third street party by the late combination, or to law proceedings instituted to obstruct the new arrangements, they are all entirely without foundation. As to Gould, I know nothing of his movements outside of Pacific Mail, and would not like to express an opinion whether he can unload his Union Pacific stock or cover his 'short' contracts in New York Central."

JAY GOULD'S MANIPULATION.

A member of a Broad street firm went into the market to-day and purchased 1,000 shares of Union Pacific stock at sixty; it almost immediately sold at fifty-nine, and when the gentleman was questioned by bonâ fide owners he explained his conduct by saying:—"I bid sixty; nobody was in the crowd and I sold them myself and sent the report over the stock indicator."

"Pig on Bacon," replied a broker. "Nice way to deceive the public as to quotations," remarked another. "No wonder we have no business," suggested a third.

WHAT THE VANQUISHED SAY.

A broker was visited who has been prominent in the late Pacific Mail fight on the Gould side. He said:—"Jay Gould has not lost so much money as is rumored. He found he was on a sinking ship and deserted it. When the report of the condition of the company becomes known to the stockholders they will wish they had not been made catspaws of by Trenor Park to draw his chestnuts out of the fire. I am doubtful now if they will get a board composed of any business men, and think it likely that to quiet the bellowing bull Rufus Hatch they will make him managing director again."

BURGLARS AT WORK.

The residence of Mr. Michael Doyle, in Wayne street, near Henderson, Jersey City, was entered at an early hour yesterday morning by burglars, who carried away a large quantity of clothing, leaving Mr. Doyle scarcely a garment to cover himself. Entrance was effected through the front door.

BROOKLYN SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

PARADE OF FORTY-FIVE THOUSAND CHILDREN—A MAGNIFICENT SPECTACLE.

The forty-seventh anniversary of the Brooklyn Sunday School Union was held in that city yesterday, and in point of numbers and display was unequalled by any effort of the kind in former years. The number of children and Sabbath school teachers who took part in the parade was between 45,000 and 50,000. The Protestant churches represented were 150. The schools were divided into eight divisions, each section being led by experienced men in these ceremonies. The weather was fine. As agreed upon, at eleven o'clock the bells of the City Hall and on Lookout Hill, Prospect Park, were rung twice as a signal. The flags were displayed in profusion from the City Hall and County Court House, while thousands of private residences also displayed bunting in honor of the occasion. But little business was transacted either in the public offices or in the stores after one o'clock. All the public schools of the city enjoyed a holiday. At two o'clock services were commenced in the respective churches except those of Prospect Park and Bedford avenue. The latter two divisions went through their exercises in the open air, their programme commencing at half-past two. The order consisted of singing, Scriptural reading, hymn, prayer, psalm, address by the pastor, singing and benediction. The exercises being concluded, the line was formed, and with bands playing, banners waving and Scriptural guidons flying, the children marched forward.

PROSPECT PARK DIVISION.

This division, which numbered 9,600, paraded on the lawn at the park, under the leadership of F. D. Blake, assisted by E. M. Barnes and G. H. Stiles, twenty-seven churches being represented. The parade at the park was the most attractive and beautiful of the day. Thirty tents were erected on the long meadow. The meadow was enclosed by ropes, and none others than the children and teachers were permitted on that site. Near each tent refreshment tables were spread. In the centre of the ground a stand was erected, from which several prominent visitors viewed the scene. The Twenty-third Regiment Band played a good selection there. At two o'clock the band marched to the right of the stand and 600 children, carrying small silk flags, took up position in line behind them. The other schools fell into line and marched three times round the meadow. After the march they formed about the stand and sung a centennial hymn and other airs.

THE HEIGHTS DIVISION

marched through Clinton, Montague, Pierrepont and Joralemon streets, the route being densely thronged, and frequent applause being given to the little ones and their teachers. There were twenty-nine schools in line, numbering about 10,000 souls. Several of the classes were composed of adults in this division. The display of flags on the houses along the route was liberal. The churches represented were thirty-three in number, marshalled by F. M. Edgerton, assisted by G. W. Brush and Frank Healy. An address was delivered at Plymouth church by Rev. J. Hyatt Smith, and R. R. Raymond read the Scriptural lesson. As the Plymouth schools passed the residence of Rev. Henry Ward Beecher they paid the honors of a marching salute to the residence of the pastor and cast floral tributes upon the door steps. Miss Florence Tilton walked with the school children in the ranks of the Church of the Pilgrims.

CARROLL PARK DIVISION

paraded on Clinton street and Union street, and presented a very fine appearance. The crowd of spectators was great. Captain Ferry and thirty officers preserved order. The schools in line, numbering twenty-six, were marshalled by Daniel Wadsworth, assisted by Joseph Haselhurst, G. B. Forrester and J. T. Tower. Handsome arches were erected on the line of procession. A boy dressed as a Continental, carrying a centennial banner, and two little girls attired as the Goddess of Liberty, was an attractive feature in one of the schools.

BEDFORD AVENUE DIVISION.

This division, after the exercises in the churches, repaired to the place of parade on Gates avenue, where the sections were formed into line under direction of Marshal William Adams, assisted by Deputy Marshals H. J. Redfield and M. W. Brigham. The churches represented were twenty in number. This division, which paraded 5,301 scholars and teachers, was under the care of Captain Rufus Craft and forty patrolmen. The line of march was Gates avenue and St. James place to Greene avenue. The route was handsomely decorated with flags, and the windows and door steps of the houses and the sidewalks were crowded with people. The line was headed by thirteen little girls of the Greene avenue Presbyterian Sunday school, who were attired in the colors of the country's flag, red, white and blue, in representation of the thirteen original States of the Union. There was also a child representing the Goddess of Liberty, seated in a lifeboat on a wagon decked with colors and flowers, drawn by boys of the infant class of the Marcy avenue Baptist school. The Classon avenue Methodist school had the honor of the company of George and Martha Washington (brother and sister representing them) in the costume of 100 years ago. Another attractive feature of the parade was a representation of Columbia, seated in a decorated wagon, drawn by boys of the Franklin avenue Presbyterian church, who were dressed in the uniform of the soldiers and sailors of 1776.

WASHINGTON PARK DIVISION,

which was marshalled by E. C. Parkinson, numbered twenty-three schools, representing 7,100 children and teachers, and was guarded by Captain Leich and thirty-five patrolmen.

TOMPKINS PARK DIVISION

was led by Marshal McLean and numbered thirteen Sabbath schools. The number of children on parade was 3,400. An elegantly decorated platform was constructed in the centre of Tompkins Park, from which the musical exercises were conducted by Mr. L. W. Beasely. An address was delivered by Rev. Matthew Hale Smith and Mr. Thomas Payne.

NEW YORK AVENUE DIVISION,

marshalled by Henry Heath, who was assisted by W. Barnett and H. C. Ostrander, represented eight Sunday schools. They paraded about 1,400 children.

BOWRONVILLE DIVISION,

which was the eighth and last, and was not mentioned on the general programme, consisted of the Protestant churches of the Eighteenth and Twenty-fifth wards, and was under the marshalship of A. M. Earle.

Acting Captain Dunn, of the Twelfth precinct, and twenty-five men represented the police in the order of the parade. The children in this division numbered 2,200.

After the parade the schools assembled in their own churches, where they partook of refreshments, and after a brief prayer the fatigued children were dismissed.

THE FRIENDS.

A preparative meeting of Friends was held yesterday in their place of worship, Rutherford place, previous to the annual assemblage of the members of that denomination, the first public session of which is to take place Saturday next. A considerable number of Quakers have already arrived in the city in anticipation of that event.

The meeting was attended by the boys and girls of the school close by under Quaker control. A number of venerable ladies and gentlemen occupied seats on an elevated platform at the end of the floor. All remained at least a quarter of an hour wrapt in apparent deep and silent meditation. The stillness was complete. At length Elder Thomas Foulke arose. He repeated the first words of the Lord's Prayer, and said that it was the design of infinite wisdom to regard mankind as His offspring and children—a relation most tender, and which must cause a never ceasing feeling of gratitude. Whatever we may profess the nearer we approach the Eternal the purer is our Christianity. The speaker counselled resignation to the will of God. Whatever cup the Father presents to us, whether filled with joy or grief, is equally good. Whatever our station in life is we should cheerfully accept it, and make it the best we can. Obedience to and love of earthly parents was urged. The relation of child to father is a precious and holy one, and if we love and obey our earthly father how much more should we love and obey our Father in heaven.

At the close of the services two business meetings were held—one by men and one by women. They are called the Lord's work. In conversation with members of the society the writer was informed that it was very difficult to keep the younger members of the denomination up to the simple and unadorned habits and attire of their parents. They succumbed to the influence of the vain follies of the world, and many of the youthful Quakeresses would insist, despite all, in being in the fashion. There was a growing tendency to relax the rigidity with which the Friends adhered to mere outward peculiarities and to conform more and more to the general custom in dress, language and manners. They still, however, thought that in a correct walk in life there should be nothing for show, nothing for pleasure. The yearly meeting will be attended principally by Friends from Long Island and New York in addition to the city congregations.

ASCENSION SERVICES.

Christ's ascension into heaven, which occurred on the fortieth day after His resurrection, will be to-day celebrated in most of the city churches. At Christ church there will be service, with an orchestra and a chorus of fifty voices. At St. Ann's church, Eighteenth street, near Fifth avenue, there will be services at seven and half-past ten A. M., four and eight P. M. Dr. Osgood will preach in the evening. At Trinity church there will be three services. At seven A. M., holy communion; nine A. M., morning prayer, and at eleven A. M., second celebration of the holy communion. The choir has been strongly reinforced for the occasion by a band of thirty-five pieces. Mr. Henry A. Carter will direct the orchestra, with Mr. A. H. Messiter, organist, as leader of the choir. Prior to the eleven o'clock service Mr. Ayliffe will ring appropriate chimes.

THE LATEST ROMAN CONSUL.

Charles McMillen, Medical Officer of the Fire Department in this city, yesterday offered his resignation to the Board, and it was accepted. He has been appointed Consul General to Rome.

PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

FOREIGN MISSION INTERESTS OF THE CHURCH—REPORTS AND DISCUSSIONS—MASS MEETING LAST EVENING.

At the opening of the session yesterday morning a motion was made that the session be devoted to prayer and praise, under the direction of the Moderator. The motion was not sustained.

The standing Committee on Foreign Missions reported that the Board has missions in Africa, China, Siam, India, Persia, Syria and parts of Europe and islands of the sea. It has its missionaries also in Mexico, Brazil, Chili and other countries of Central and South America.

The receipts of the Board from all sources for the year ending April 30 have been $517,688 69; the expenditure, $515,593 62. The debt of the Board on April 30, 1875, was $38,283. The debt on April 30, 1876, was $36,187 93. This statement shows that the income of the Board exceeded the expenditures proper of the year by the sum of $2,095 07.

In the missions among the Indian tribes of this Continent there are 1,595 communicants and 283 pupils in their day and Sunday schools. In the communicants number 2,300 and 40 pupils are in the schools. In South America there are 771 communicants and 402 pupils; in Africa, 483 communicants, 281 pupils; in Asia, 769 members, 7,910 pupils in the mission schools; in Siam, 62 members, 104 pupils; in China, 1,157 members, 781 pupils, not including the missions to the Chinese in California. In Japan the communicants number 118 and the scholars 195; in Persia, 760 members, 1,102 pupils; in Syria, 498 members and 2,282 pupils. The committee suggest that it is time the Church gave to this cause an average of one cent for each baptized person in the Church. It recommends also the establishment of women's boards of foreign missions within the bounds of every Presbytery. Every church should be required to contribute to this cause; monthly concerts should be sustained and missionary conventions held. More than 2,000 churches in this Assembly had not given a cent to this cause. The committee suggest that the missions to English-speaking Jews in the United States be discontinued and the money be expended in some other field. The missions among the North American Indians should be strengthened as speedily as possible, that this race die not out without having heard the Gospel. The committee, in this connection, also ask the Board of Foreign Missions to protest against the transfer of the Indians from the Interior to the War Department of the government. Such a transfer, they say, would be unjust and cruel. Drs. Lowery and Rankin, Secretaries of the Board, addressed the Assembly in a very hopeful manner for the present and prospective condition of foreign missions. The venerable Dr. Simeon Calhoun, of Syria, also addressed the Assembly on the question. For forty years he has resided in the Turkish Empire and thirty-two of those years on whence he can see the chief places of note mentioned in New Testament Scripture. When he went there the land was dark. You could not find a woman in all that land who could read. Now they have churches in Galilee, Lebanon and other places, and, as the trustee of this Board, he holds the deeds for sixteen parcels of land, including one in Jerusalem, adjacent to the tomb of David. Thirty years ago he founded a seminary in the village of Arbo, where he resides, for the training of young men as teachers and preachers in the Arabic tongue. They have had pupils there from Sidon and Galilee and Nazareth, &c., and these have gone out to teach and preach the Gospel of Christ among other denominations than the Presbyterian. They give one hour a day to the study of the Bible, and they do it without dictionary or concordance.

THE GOODLY LEBANON,

Dr. Calhoun read extracts from letters of missionaries in the Sandwich Islands and from Dr. Jessup, laboring among the Maronites, and giving an account of religious awakenings in those fields.

Dr. George W. Coan, of Oroomiah, Persia, who has been twenty-seven years in that country, addressed the Assembly on his work in that land. The only paper published in all Persia is issued from his mission press monthly. He superintends the native churches and pastors, directs schools for teachers and prepares books and tracts, &c., for the press and the people. During the famine there recently $175,000 passed through his hands, the British Minister and Sir Moses Montefiore sending large sums to be distributed by him and his Christian helpers, and not a dollar was misappropriated. He hoped no such word as retrenchment would be sent to that country. The Assembly then adjourned till evening, when addresses were made on this general subject by Revs. Chamberlin, of Brazil; Lindsley, of Oregon; Lowery, secretary of the Foreign Committee, and others; but, as the question could not be finished, it was agreed to hold a public meeting in the Tabernacle next Sunday evening in this interest. The missions among the American Indians will be considered this morning.

The relation of the Presbyterian Church to the Germans will be considered on Friday, and representatives from corresponding bodies will be received this evening.

METHODIST GENERAL CONFERENCE.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 24, 1876.

Bishop Haven presided in the Conference to-day.

Majority and minority reports of the Committee on Lay Delegates, providing for lay delegates and lay representation in district conferences, were taken up, discussed and without decisive action laid on the table.

A report of the Committee on Missions, recommending the organization of annual conferences in China, India, Sweden, Norway and Italy, was debated and adopted.

A report of the Committee on Education, recommending and providing for the establishment of free lyceums and evening schools, was considered and adopted.

H. R. Revels, D. D., was elected editor of the Southwestern Christian Advocate at New Orleans. Dr. Revels is the colored ex-United States Senator from Mississippi.

The remainder of the day's session was taken up in routine business.

HEBREW COLLEGE CONVENTION.

A THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY TO BE ESTABLISHED.

The Convention of delegates for the foundation of a Hebrew theological seminary met yesterday at the Harvard Rooms, Forty-second street and Sixth avenue.

The original call proceeded from a number of Jewish rabbi in this city and elsewhere, and a committee was appointed representing the different shades of Judaism. The committee sent a circular throughout the country to the most eminent and best known men of the Hebrew faith, to which answers were solicited as to the best means of establishing an educational institution for the diffusion of Hebrew theology and science. The Convention yesterday included delegates from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Brooklyn, among those present being L. Haas, D. Marks, Ignatz Stein, D. Dinkelspiel, Moritz Ellenger, H. Berliner, L. May, A. Limberger, L. Rosenfeld, A. Benjamin, M. S. Isaacs, A. R. B. Moses, G. Nathan, H. Gomez, H. Harris, Solomon Furst, J. Coleman, S. Silbermann, A. Addler, David Teller, Louis Mayer, Simon Rosenfeld and H. Felsenthal. Mr. M. S. Isaacs called the meeting to order and nominated Mr. Lewis May as temporary chairman.

Mr. May, in returning thanks, said he had the fullest confidence that this temporary organization would result not only in the formation of a permanent union for the foundation and maintenance of a Jewish institution of learning, but in an organization which would, for all time to come, be the nucleus of Jewish life, Jewish ideas, Jewish civilization on American soil, the Zion of the Western Continent. They had with them the representatives of the most influential congregations of the country, the ministers, whose learning and zeal had brought American Judaism to that high position of progress and vitality of which they were all proud. They had with them the good will, the enthusiasm and the sacred zeal of men whose determination was almost a guarantee of the success of any enterprise. The United States congregations, presenting a united front irrespective of their differing views dogmatically, had taken the initiative in calling them together for the accomplishment of a grand work—grand because upon it rested the future of Judaism in this country. They had corresponded with nearly all the eminent Jewish ministers in this country, and their views, with other correspondence, would be laid before the meeting. It was for the meeting to take up the work in earnest. In the name of the United States congregations he bade them welcome. He hoped God would inspire them with wisdom, that their labors might be productive of such results as in the wise dispensation of Providence would be most conducive to the laying of the corner stone for the grand temple of learning, wisdom, humanity and religion which they were desirous to erect.

Mr. M. S. Isaacs was appointed temporary secretary, and read several responses to the circular which had been sent out.

Messrs. Felsenthal, of Chicago; Rosenfeld, of Baltimore, and Limberger, of New York, were appointed a committee for the election of permanent officers, with the following result:—President, Lewis May; Vice President, L. Seberman; L. Haas, S. Rosenfeld, M. I. Isaacs and M. Berliner, Secretaries.

On motion Messrs. Erlinger, Meyer, Felsenthal, Nathan and Coleman were appointed a Committee on Resolutions, and the following gentlemen were chosen as a Committee on Organization and Laws:—Messrs. Haas, Silbermann, Rosenfeld, Benjamin and Ausbacher. These committees retired for deliberation, to report later on.

Mr. May announced that in case it should be determined to erect a Hebrew college Temple Emanuel would contribute $2,000 a year to its support.

The Convention then took a recess.

EVENING SESSION.

The Convention reassembled at half-past seven o'clock. Mr. Ellinger, on behalf of the Committee on Resolutions, stated that as yet no definite action had been taken.

Mr. May said that it was his desire to select the members of the various committees from outsiders for the purpose of obtaining the sentiments of all the delegates, since those from New York were pretty well agreed on the subject.

The Convention adjourned until half-past seven o'clock this evening.

A LIGHTNING TRIP.

From Ocean to Ocean in Eighty-Four Hours.

Jarrett & Palmer's Fast Transcontinental Train.

THE HERALD AS THE PIONEER OF RAPID TRANSIT.

The Fourth of July, 1875, was made specially memorable by the inauguration of what may justly be called a great revolution in railroad travelling. The HERALD, desirous of supplying the Sunday wants of its numerous readers in the country districts of New York State, determined to gratify them at any cost, and the result was a lightning train from New York to Suspension Bridge, leaving the Grand Central Depot at a quarter to three A. M. and arriving at Suspension Bridge at half-past one o'clock P. M. The enterprise proved a remarkably successful one. In Harper's Weekly, November 27, 1875, a graphic account of the first trip of the HERALD train is given, with illustrations. We reproduce the article here:—

THE NEW YORK HERALD TRAIN.

The experiment of running a Sunday newspaper train between New York and Niagara Falls, a distance of more than than 470 miles, in eleven hours, for nine consecutive Sundays, was carried out successfully last summer. The average rate of speed was about fifty miles an hour, more than an hour being lost in stoppages and other detentions on the route. On several occasions engine 110, which drew the train from Syracuse to Buffalo, attained the astonishing speed of sixty five, seventy and seventy-five miles an hour. It must be confessed that the railroad officials at first viewed this experiment with some feelings of uneasiness and trepidation; but discovering that with stanch engines, plucky engineers and steel rails there was not the slightest increase over ordinary dangers of railroad travelling, the fast train became very popular. The first trip was probably the most interesting, as on it mainly depended the success of the experiment.

It was on the morning of Sunday, the Fourth of July, the hour half-past two. At the Grand Central Depot was gathered a party of ladies and gentlemen, numbering about 100, awaiting the opening of the doors to take their seats on a train that had just backed down on the Hudson River Railroad track. This train consisted of an engine, No. 70, with tender, a baggage car, in which a dozen men, stripped to the waist, were folding papers and arranging them for the various points on the route, and also for the far West, and there were also two passenger cars. It was the inauguration of fast railroad travelling as it is now known on the grand trunk lines. The experiment was particularly hazardous, considering the peculiar conformation of the Hudson River Railroad, so full of curves, tunnels and rock cuts. It was not likely to inspire confidence, even in the most experienced traveller. An old grizzled engineer, Captain Nat Sawyer, was in charge of the engine. As soon as the HERALD wagon had arrived at the depot and had deposited its load of papers, for which the train was waiting, in the baggage car, the conductor, Ed Lowery, swung his lantern, Sawyer pulled the throttle valve and the train started. The long bloused form of the engineer stretched along the seat on the right of the cab, his dark eyes peering out into the circle of light thrown forward by the headlight of the locomotive, his hand on the air brake lever; the rush of the train through the Fourth avenue tunnels; the gradual increase of speed, until the rails in front seemed to take on an incandescent form; the dash across Harlem bridge; then skirting the boundaries of Westchester county; the quiver of the iron monster when the speed of a mile a minute was attained—all made up an experience which cannot easily be forgotten by the one that rode on that eventful morning on the locomotive.

The speed increased constantly until the lights on the road and on the river seemed to be blended into one coruscating gleam. On the platform of the rear car sat a news agent flinging out bundle after bundle of papers with unerring accuracy. He had to calculate for the wind of the train; otherwise half the bundles would have been deposited in the river.

At Albany some time was lost, and when the train reached Syracuse it was over half an hour behind time. Here were met Jem Woods and his engine, No. 110. A prettier and a faster engine was never placed upon any track. The engineer, Jem Woods, is over forty years of age, and has been twenty three years in the service of the New York Central Railroad Company. He is rather shy and reticent, and thinks only of doing his duty faithfully. He is entirely devoted to his engine, and on one occasion expressed his desire that the HERALD train would be at least three-quarters of an hour behind time, so that he could "give his pet a chance to show herself."

On this Fourth of July he certainly demonstrated to an alarming extent the speed of this wonderful locomotive. He not only made up lost time but he brought the train into Buffalo five minutes ahead of his schedule. There were spurts of seventy-five miles an hour, during which all conversation was suspended. The cars swayed, and the current of air produced by the train seemed like a tornado. People who were walking on the track far ahead did not content themselves by merely moving aside, but climbed the fences on either side of the road, and many a terrified face glanced at the flying train from a ditch or a hill beyond the limits of the railroad. The country people who congregated at the various stations to see the train flash by were obliged to crouch against doorways and behind boxes lest the wind of the train should catch them in its deadly embrace. One remarkable feature about Engine 110 is, that never during the nine Sundays on which it took the HERALD train from Syracuse to Buffalo was it subject to heated journals, while every other engine suffered from that complaint. This can only be accounted for by the perfection of its mechanism.

THE FAST MAIL.

The example shown by the HERALD in rapid transit has borne abundant fruit. It led to the establishment of the fast mail by the United States postal authorities, the first train leaving for Chicago on September 16, and reducing the time between the great metropolis and the Lake City to twenty-six hours. Those postal trains have been running for eight months, and not an accident has occurred to mar their efficiency.

A COLOSSAL ENTERPRISE.

Messrs. Jarrett & Palmer, managers of Booth's Theatre, following the example of the HERALD, have determined to run a special train to San Francisco, leaving Jersey City on June 1 and arriving at the metropolis of the Pacific on June 4, making the trip in about eighty hours. The following prospectus will give an idea of the colossal nature of this enterprise:—

UNPARALLELED RUN
ACROSS THE CONTINENT.
JARRETT & PALMER'S
Special Fast Trans-Continental Train,
NEW YORK TO SAN FRANCISCO.
Leaving New York on Thursday, June 1; Arriving at San Francisco on Sunday, June 4,
Having the Right of Way Across the Continent,
Carrying the United States Mail, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Express
AND THURSDAY'S EDITION OF THE NEW YORK HERALD.

Jarrett & Palmer are enabled to announce the completion of arrangements with the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway Company, the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Company, the Union Pacific Railroad Company and the Central Pacific Railroad Company for running a special fast train, to be formed by one combination passenger, mail and baggage car and one Pullman palace hotel car. To leave the foot of Cortlandt street, New York, on Thursday, June 1, at one A. M., and will run through to San Francisco on express time, making but a very limited number of stoppages en route, and it is confidently anticipated that the guests on this trip will dine in San Francisco on the following Sunday, thereby assisting in the greatest and most remarkable railroad performance ever attempted.

TICKETS FOR THE TRIP

are elegantly bound in covers of solid sterling silver, of unique workmanship and superb finish.

These are limited in number to sixteen (several of which have already been engaged), and each entitles the holder—

1. To passage to San Francisco on the special fast train.
2. To one double berth on Pullman Palace car.
3. Meals en route, on the palace hotel car, à la carte.
4. One week's board at the Grand Palace Hotel, San Francisco.
5. First class return ticket from San Francisco to New York, good until used.

 A limited number of passengers will be taken to Chicago, through by daylight, arriving the evening of the same day they leave New York.

For passage and all further information apply to

HENRY C. JARRETT, General Manager,

FIRST MINISTER FROM PARAGUAY.

The Paraguayan Minister to this country, Señor José Machain, will arrive in this city within a few days on board the French steamship France, from Havre. He is the first Minister of the Republic of Paraguay to this country, and is reported to be a man of very great intelligence and experience. In addition to his diplomatic functions Señor Machain is also accredited as a Commissioner to the Centennial Exhibition. He left Buenos Ayres on the 10th of April for this country, by way of Europe.

A TIMELY RESCUE.

At four o'clock on Tuesday morning the pilot and watchman on board the Long Branch steamer Crystal Wave, which was on her return trip from Sandy Hook, discovered two men clinging to the bottom of a capsized sailboat, a little below the hospital ship. A lifeboat was at once sent to their relief and they were taken on board. They were subsequently transferred, at their own request, to the tugboat H. A. Crawford. The men stated that they had been seven hours in the water

BALTIMORE RACES.

Second Day of the Maryland Jockey Club Spring Meeting.

Pera, Tom Ochiltree, Chiquita and Egypt the Winners.

BALTIMORE, May 24, 1876.

The Maryland Jockey Club had delightful weather for the second day of the meeting, and Baltimore's beauty would not be denied the opportunity of witnessing the races. The attendance, consequently, at Pimlico was much larger than on the opening day of the meeting, and the running was of a superior order. Four events were on the card—the first a sweepstakes, for three-year olds, dash of a mile; the second the Baltimore Cup, dash of two miles and a quarter; the third a free handicap stakes, for all ages, dash of one mile and a half, and the fourth mile heats, for all ages, with maiden allowances.

The great event of the day was the cup race, and more betting was on that event than all the others combined. Tom Ochiltree, a great favorite with Baltimoreans, having won his best races on the Pimlico track, added to his fame by winning the cup in a manner that astonished every beholder, proving himself as good, if not the best horse on this continent to-day. He galloped along behind the others for a mile and three-quarters, when he made a dash, and in a moment had the field whipped and then galloped home at his ease. Tom Ochiltree has a grand prospect before him and will win his owner lots of money. He is the handsomest large horse on the turf and is perfectly sound all over.

SWEEPSTAKES—ONE MILE.

The first race had as starters Davis' Enquirer filly May D., G. Lorillard's Sunburst and Ambush, Mulkey's Lady Veto, P. Lorillard's Pera and Shirley, Carr & Co.'s Ella Wotton and Buff and Blue, Doswell & Cammack's Rappahannock and Outcast, McDaniel's Vigil, Wyche's Red Dick colt, Babcock's Woodland and D. J. Crouse's Serge. P. Lorillard's team were the favorites, McDaniel's second choice and Doswell & Cammack's third in favor, the others bringing low figures as fielders. Pera dashed off first when the flag fell, Vigil second, Rappahannock third, the Red Dick colt fourth, Outcast fifth, with the others following in very close order. Pera showed the way to the quarter pole, Rappahannock second, Vigil third, Outcast fourth, Serge fifth, Red Dick colt sixth, Shirley seventh, the others trailing on as fast as they could, but all practically out of the race. Pera maintained her advanced position down the backstretch, and at the half-mile pole was two lengths in front of Vigil, Rappahannock third, Outcast fourth, Sunburst fifth, Serge sixth, Shirley seventh. The latter dashed through the horses ahead of him, and at the three-quarter pole had taken second place to his stable companion, Pera. As the horses swung into the homestretch, Pera led three lengths Shirley second, a length in front of Vigil, Outcast fourth, Rappahannock fifth, the others hopelessly beaten. Pera ran in hand up the home stretch, and won the race by two lengths. Shirley was second, May D. third, Vigil fourth, Rappahannock fifth, Outcast sixth, the Red Dick colt seventh, Ambush eighth, Sunburst ninth, Buff and Blue tenth, Lady Veto eleventh, Serge twelfth, Woodland thirteenth, Ella Wotton fourteenth. Time, 1:46¼. Pera was ridden by Barret, Shirley by Sparling, May D. by Paxsen, Vigil by Clarke, Rappahannock by J. Richardson, Outcast by Lakeland, the Red Dick colt by Connor, Ambush by McCarthy, Sunburst by Donohue, Buff and Blue by Ford, Lady Veto by Farris, Serge by Harzo, Woodland by Slade and Ella Wotton by Hughes.

THE BALTIMORE CUP.

For the Baltimore cup seven horses came to the post. These were E. A. Clabaugh's bay colt Viator, D. McDaniels' chestnut colt Joe Cerns, George L. Lorillard's bay colt Tom Ochiltree, W. Cottrill's chestnut horse Stampede, J. F. Chamberlin's bay horse The Hoaxer, Oden Bowie's chestnut colt Ore Knob and George Longstaff's bay mare Osage. Stampede was a great favorite, Viator second choice, Ore Knob third in favor, Tom Ochiltree next in demand, with the others in a field. This was the order in the betting just previous to the start. The horses had a capital start, and swung into the homestretch nearly parallel. After a good strong run up the homestretch, The Hoaxer being sent off to cut out the work, he passed the stand first, Tom Ochiltree second, Osage third, Ore Knob fourth, Stampede fifth, Joe Cerns sixth, Viator seventh. When the horses passed the quarter pole The Hoaxer was leading four lengths, Ore Knob second, Tom Ochiltree third, Osage fourth, Joe Cerns fifth, Stampede sixth, Viator seventh. The Hoaxer showed the way down the backstretch, keeping the gap open, Ore Knob second, Tom Ochiltree third, Osage fourth, Joe Cerns fifth, Stampede sixth and Viator last. Going around the lower turn Stampede took second place, Joe Cerns third, Ore Knob fourth, Tom Ochiltree fifth, Osage sixth, Viator seventh. The Hoaxer having done all he was required to do now began to retire, leaving the race to better horses. Stampede then went to the front and showed the way up the homestretch and passed the stand two lengths in advance of The Hoaxer, Joe Cerns third, Osage fourth, Viator fifth, Ore Knob sixth, Tom Ochiltree seventh. Stampede led the way around the turn, Joe Cerns second, Viator third, Ore Knob fourth, Tom Ochiltree fifth, Hoaxer sixth, Osage seventh. Fast running was now the order of the moment, and the changes were very rapid after leaving the quarter pole, Stampede keeping in front, however. Down the backstretch Viator made a desperate effort to overtake him, Ore Knob third, Tom Ochiltree fourth, Jo Cerns fifth, Hoaxer sixth, Osage seventh. As soon as the horses passed the half-mile pole Tom Ochiltree made his run, and going like a flash was almost instantly in front and showing the way to the others, followed by Viator, with Stampede third, Ore Knob fourth, Joe Cerns fifth, the others beaten off. Tom Ochiltree then galloped away from his companions and came home an easy winner of the race by three lengths. Stampede was second, two lengths in front of Viator, Joe Cerns fourth, Ore Knob fifth, the Hoaxer sixth, Osage seventh. Time, 4:09. Barbee rode the winner.

FREE HANDICAP STAKES—ONE MILE AND A HALF.

The third event, a free handicap, had for starters, A. D. Brown's Palladin, carrying 106 lbs.; A. Hitchcock's Cariboo, 109 lbs.; W. R. Babcock's Oxmore, 109 lbs.; W. Cottrill's General Harney, 106 lbs., and W. Mulkey's Chiquita, by Hurrah, dam Sunrise, 105 lbs. General Harney was a great favorite at the start, selling for more than all the others combined. Chiquita jumped off with the lead, Paladin second, General Harney third, Oxmore fourth, Cariboo fifth. The horses ran around the lower turn in this order, and when they reached the stand at the completion of the first half mile, Chiquita was first, General Harney second, Paladin third, Cariboo fourth, Oxmore fifth. Chiquita showed the way in the upper turn, and was two lengths in front at the quarter pole, General Harney second three lengths ahead of Paladin, Oxmore fourth, Cariboo fifth. There was no change in the positions of the horses down the backstretch, but as they entered the lower turn Oxmore made strong running and soon captured Paladin, and, being forced up the homestretch, passed General Harney on the way, and was only beaten a length by Chiquita at the finish. General Harney was third, Paladin fourth, Cariboo fifth. Time, 2:42.

MILE HEATS, FOR ALL AGES.

The fourth race had for starters Patterson's Portland, Babcock's Egypt, Davis' Jest, Wilson's Tom O'Neil and Bethune's Burgoo. Egypt was the favorite over the field at 100 to 30.

First Heat.—Tom O'Neil was first away, Egypt second, Jest third, Burgoo fourth, Portland fifth. Going around the upper turn Egypt went to the front, Jest second, Burgoo third, Tom O'Neil fourth, Portland fifth. Egypt was half a length ahead at the half-mile pole, Burgoo second, half length in advance of Jest, Tom O'Neil fourth, Portland as before. Egypt galloped in hand around the lower turn, and was two lengths in front at the three-quarter pole, but coming up the homestretch his head was pulled to the right and left to such an extent that many supposed he intended to throw the heat. At the last moment, however, the horse was straightened, and he won the heat by a head, Burgoo second, four lengths in front of Tom O'Neil, who was half a length in advance of Jest, Portland distanced. Time, 1:47½.

Second Heat.—Tom O'Neil was first away, Jest second, Egypt third, Burgoo fourth. Going around the upper turn Egypt showed in front, Jest second, Tom O'Neil third, Burgoo fourth, the horses so close together that there was no daylight between them. Egypt led the way down the backstretch and around the lower turn, but coming up the homestretch Hughes brought Tom O'Neil up with a rush and came near capturing Egypt at the string, but the latter had some left, and won the heat by a short head. Tom O'Neil was second, Burgoo third, Jest distanced. Time, 1:49½. Hazard rode Egypt, Hughes Tom O'Neil, Hennessey Burgoo, Brown Jest and Beau Portland.

CINCINNATI RACES.

INAUGURAL MEETING OF THE CHESTER PARK ASSOCIATION—NOVITY, BOMBAY AND BOB WOOLLEY THE WINNERS.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, May 24, 1876.

The inaugural running meeting of the Chester Park Association began to-day. The weather was all that could be asked, the attendance large, and the track in excellent condition. The accommodation for visitors was superb in every particular. In shape the track is very much like a saucer. Major John K. Villey was appointed as starter, and, from his past reputation in racing matters, the selection pleased everybody. The ladies' stand, which is complete in all required appointments, was well filled. There were three races on the card—a trial purse, for all ages, one mile; the Ohio Derby Stakes, for three-year-olds, one mile and a half; and a purse of $250, for all ages, mile heats.

TRIAL PURSE—ONE MILE.

The first race was for a trial purse of $150; dash of one mile, no entrance fee being charged; the race closed with nine entries. After three false starts they were sent away with Novity in the lead, Evax second, Vinaigrette third, the balance in a bunch. Going down the back stretch the first time Crusian moved up and took second place with the others still trailing. Entering the hometretch for the first half mile, Grenoble came with a rush and passed Crusian, but he could not get nearer than two lengths to Novity, who was running easy.

She continued in the lead and won as she pleased. Crusian and Grenoble had a hard fight down the homestretch for second place, the mare beating Grenoble by one length. The mile was run in 1:49.

THE OHIO DERBY STAKES.

The second race was the Ohio Derby dash of one mile and a half for three-year-olds. This stake closed with twenty-four nominations, but only seven came to the post. These were:—W. T. Linck's Grit (winner of the Louisville Hotel Stake at Louisville); Oliver West's chestnut colt P. M. West, by Planet, dam Miss Morgan (the dam of Minnie Melton), by imp. Yorkshire; John Funk's Harry Hill; John B. Todd's bay gelding, by Phaeton, dam Alert, by Lexington; Samuel Salyers' brown filly Minnie T. Morgan, D. Swigert's Bombay and Stewart's Malmestic. In the pools before the start Grit and Harry Hill sold about even, Bombay third choice, Malmestic fourth, the remaining three in the field. In drawing for positions Grit has track, Todd's Phaeton colt second, Minnie Morgan third, Bombay fourth, Hill fifth, West sixth. Fortune favored the horses, Malmestic always difficult to start, got away in good shape, and ran well throughout. At the tap of the drum Hill jumped away, Grit following, with Minnie Morgan close up. Around the first turn Harry Hill held his own, the positions being the same as at the start. Going down the backstretch Grit went up to Hill's hip, but around the second turn he dropped back a length, and Hill entered the homestretch for the first time two lengths ahead, and continued in the lead to the stand. In the meantime Bombay was getting into position and running very steady. Going around the turn at the three-quarter pole Grit and Bombay were neck and neck, Hill still two lengths ahead. Down the backstretch West moved up to third place, the balance in a bunch, all running well. Entering the homestretch for the first mile Hill looked very much like a winner and went past the stand one length ahead of Grit and Bombay, who were parallel. The first mile was run in 1:49. After going by the stand at the end of the first mile Bombay went up and took second place. At the quarter pole he was in good striking distance and still running steady. Down the back stretch for the last time he collared Hill, and after a few strides took the lead and was never headed, winning by two lengths, Hill second, West third—the favorite, Grit, was in the rear. The mile and a half was run in 2:46. It was a pretty race, but Bombay won just as he liked.

MILE HEATS.

The third race was mile heats, for all ages, which brought to the string eight starters—Bob Woolley, Emma C., Sue Wynn, Camargo, Larry Hart, Goldmine, Pluto, by Planet, out of imported Eleanor, by Voltigeur, and Father Ryan, by Vandal, dam Rosalind.

First Heat.—They were sent away with Goldmine leading, Pluto second, Camargo third, the others well up in a bunch. In the run for the first half mile, Goldmine was leading, the positions the same as at the start with the others. Entering the back stretch for the final half mile, Bob Woolley moved up and took second place, Camargo third, Pluto fourth, Emma C. the favorite in the rear. At the three-quarter pole Woolley obtained the lead and came home winner of the heat, Camargo second two lengths behind, Goldmine third, the others strung out. Father Ryan bolted and was distanced. Time, 1:47¾.

Second Heat.—After the first heat Woolley was the favorite against the field. With several false starts the drum tapped with Woolley in the lead, which he kept to the finish, Pluto second, Emma C. third. Time, 1:50.

WEST SIDE PARK.

Yesterday was the second day of the spring meeting at West Side Park. The attendance was fair, the weather delightful and the racing spirited and exciting. The judges were Lewis E. Wood, J. Davey and G. Cowan. The first event was a double team race, best three in five, in harness; first prize, $80; second, $50; third, $20. It was won by C. Dickerman's Harry Spanker and Carrie N. The second was a purse of $150 for horses that never beat 2:42, and was won by C. Dickerman's Lady Lowe. George Jones' ch. m. Emily was ruled out after the third heat for running under another name at Fleetwood Park last fall. The following is the

JOCKEY CLUB BETTING BOOKS.

As the time approaches for the gates of Jerome Park to be thrown open to the public speculation waxes warm upon the probable performers in the several important stakes to be run during the coming meeting. With the increase in the activity of the betting element the bookmaker at the Jockey Club rooms, Twenty-seventh street and Madison avenue, has cut down the favorites several points, so there have been many changes recently and the ruling rates at present are far below those of a month ago. Much of the reduction is due to the performances of some of the favorites at the recent meetings in the Southwest, both the bookmaker and public accepting victories there as excellent criterions of what it is possible for the horses to do in the East. The following are the latest odds offered and taken on the principal candidates in the more important events to take place at the Jerome spring meeting:—

WITHERS STAKES—ONE MILE—RUN JUNE.
Brother to Bassett	2 to 1	Panic colt	10 to 1
Sultana	3 to 1	Garth	15 to 1
Freebooter	4 to 1	Crab Orchard	15 to 1
Baronet	5 to 1	Cornucopia	15 to 1
Pastor	7 to 1	Syren colt	20 to 1
Chamade filly	8 to 1	Dundreary	20 to 1
BELMONT STAKES—ONE MILE AND A HALF—RUN JUNE 10.
Brother to Bassett	4 to 1	Alaric	10 to 1
Sultana	5 to 1	Victory colt	15 to 1
Red Coat	5 to 1	Compliment	20 to 1
Baronet	6 to 1	Crab Orchard	20 to 1
Ambush	7 to 1	Danville	20 to 1
Donough	9 to 1	Wah-ta-wah	20 to 1
WESTCHESTER CUP—TWO MILES AND A QUARTER—RUN JUNE 6.
Viator	4 to 1	Damon	7 to 1
St. Martin	5 to 1	Lelaps	8 to 1
Big Sandy	5 to 1	Kildaro	8 to 1
Grinstead	6 to 1	Jenipher	10 to 1
James A.	6 to 1	Retriever	12 to 1
CENTENNIAL STAKES—TWO MILES AND THREE QUARTERS—RUN JUNE 17.
Aristides	Even.	Big Sandy	6 to 1
Olitipa	2 to 1	Grinstead	7 to 1
Stampede	4 to 1	Shylock	10 to 1
Tom Ochiltree	5 to 1	Atilla	12 to 1
Kildare	6 to 1	Lord Zetland	15 to 1

JOCKEY CLUB HANDICAP.

In addition to the ten declarations made in the entries for the Jockey Club Handicap, to be run at Jerome June 10, and already published in the HERALD, James Davis' chestnut colt Damon, 4 years, by Jack Malone, out of Fanny Barrow, was posted at the club rooms yesterday. This leaves seventeen acceptances, and it is a field of such character that a grand contest must take place.

CLAY'S RED COAT.

Mr. Green Clay's chestnut colt Red Coat, three years, by imp. Australian, dam Sallie (the dam of Experience Oaks) is now or will be to-day at Jerome Park, where he joins Mr. McGrath's stable. Red Coat's creditable victories of the Citizens' Stakes, two miles, at Lexington, and the Falls City Stakes, mile heats, at Louisville, makes him well thought of for the Belmont Stakes, in which he is engaged.

MUSTANG RACE TO-DAY.

At noon to-day Francisco Peralto, a Mexican rider, will commence the attempt to ride 155 miles in seven hours, over the Fleetwood Park track, having at his disposal twenty-five out of the thirty-six mustangs which have been recently brought from California. The track is in good condition, and yesterday afternoon the animals were exercised by the rider, who said that he felt confident of winning the race. Last evening Peralto was brought from the Park to the city, where "goggles" were purchased for him to protect his eyes against the sun and dust, this precaution being deemed necessary from the fact that on the last race Parker, the rider, was compelled to stop on account of blindness.

POLO.

ANOTHER DAY'S PRACTICE AT JEROME PARK—MR. SCHUYLER CROSBY'S SIDE THE WINNER.

The members of the Polo Club were out yesterday afternoon and enjoyed another series of thoroughly good practice games. Now that it is becoming more generally known that the polo players practise on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons, the number of carriages, laden with spectators, at each game increases, and yesterday afternoon there were some twenty or thirty vehicles drawn up on the road outside the grounds, and filled with ladies and gentlemen, who appeared to take a lively interest in the game.

The ponies were all on the ground, ready saddled and bridled at half-past three, and stood under a clump of trees to the left of the carriage entrance, waiting for the time to come when they should be called upon to show their speed and training. They are all greatly improved in appearance, and reflect credit on the gentleman in whose charge they have been. Mr. W. P. Douglas, with his coach, arrived shortly after four P. M., and drew up to the right of the entrance under the shade of some trees, whose rich foliage afforded a pleasant shelter. Another coach was also drawn up close alongside, and the ladies that occupied the roof appeared thoroughly comfortable and prepared to enjoy themselves. After some little delay the gentlemen that were going to play emerged from the marquee, clad in breeches and boots and the blue and scarlet shirts that form the uniform of the club. After looking to the girths and leathers and seeing everything correct, they threw themselves into the pigskin and took a gentle canter to breathe their miniature steeds. They finally came together and after tossing for choice, the following sides were picked, and

THE FIRST GAME BEGAN.

Mr. Schuyler Crosby,	Mr. Bennett,
Mr. Howland Robbins,	Mr. J. Mott,
Mr. Perry Belmont,	Mr. J. Kane,
Mr. Winny Thorne.	Mr. Griswold.

Mr. W. P. Douglas officiated as umpire, and, taking up his position in the centre, threw up the ball and gave the orders to start. On the first charge the leaders on both sides missed the ball, and in the general mêlée that followed Mr. Schuyler Crosby came to grass and his pony nearly tumbled on top of him. The playing was very lively, and the players exhibited considerably greater precision in handling their mallets than they have shown before. After some hard fighting the ball was landed within six feet of Mr. Crosby's goal, and a couple of fouls ensued that resulted in a knock out. After a few minutes squabbling round the goal Mr. Robbins, playing cleverly, carried the ball again to the centre, from whence the backers up on his side assisted him in driving it through the enemy's goal. First game for Mr. Crosby.

The sides then changed goals and at once charged the ball that the umpire, Mr. Douglas, had dropped in the center of the field. Mr. Robbins missed it, and the ball received its first blow from one of the opposition. After some close play Mr. Crosby and Mr. Robbins carried the ball close up to their opponents' goal, but by a good hit on the part of one of the members of the latter, the fortunes of the day were turned and the fight was resumed on neutral ground. There was still a certain free use of the mallet exhibited that some gentleman will find objectionable in case the butt end of a stick comes into contact with his head. After some pretty good play on both sides Mr. Crosby's party succeeded in driving the ball up to the enemy's goal, and a well directed blow sent it through and scored another victory for Mr. Crosby's side.

For the third game there were some changes in the players, and

THE SIDES STOOD,

J. G. Bennett,	Howland Robbins,
J. Mott,	P. Belmont,
J. Kane,	W. P. Douglas,
Mr. Griswold.	Mr. Francklyn.

Mr. Schuyler Crosby officiated as umpire. This game was short and sweet, as without Mr. Crosby, the side on which he had been appeared decidedly weak and allowed their opponents to carry the ball right through them and scored a goal in a very few minutes.

The fourth game played by the same sides was better contested, both sides making a determined fight. Mr. Griswold and Mr. Douglas were both playing well, and Mr. Francklyn also proved himself quite an adept in the use of the mallet. After some hard fighting they came to close quarters in front of Robbins' goal. In the excitement of the moment mallets began to be slung rather loosely, and Mr. Robbins got a smart tap on the eye. The damage, however, was slight. Mr. Perry Belmont finally made a clean hit and drove the ball away from his goal, sending the players once more to the centre. The ponies were all behaving very well, and appeared to be thoroughly well broken. The players now redoubled their exertions, and, after some sharp work on both sides, Mr. Douglas made a good hit, and, backed up by Mr. Francklyn, carried the ball again to the centre. It was brought back again to Mr. Robbins' goal, where a well directed hit finished the game.

In the fifth game Mr. Crosby again took part, and Mr. Robbins officiated as umpire. After the first charge for the ball the players all got jammed up together in the centre, the mallets rattled together, and the ponies danced to the music as if appreciating the excitement of the game. Both sides gained an advantage, and on several occasions the ball was driven out and the players ranged in opposite lines, ready to make a rush as soon as it was thrown back on the scene of the contest. Finally Mr. Crosby went to work and, backed up by Mr. Douglas, carried the ball down to the enemy's goal, where they were brought to a halt and a determined fight ensued. It was, however, only temporary, as one of the Crosby party sent the ball between the goal posts and scored another victory for his side.

THE SIXTH GAME

was commenced as soon as the parties had changed goals. It was by far the prettiest game to watch, as there was more riding, the ball being kept more on the move and not all the time between the ponies' legs. The mallets, however, were again being raised aloft and the warning cry of "Mallets down" that came from the umpire, Mr. Robbins, had to be repeated a good many times without receiving any attention. Mr. Francklyn finally made a pretty good hit and brought the ball once more to the centre of the field, from where the Crosby party getting to work, backing each other well up, succeeded in carrying it up toward their opponents' goal. This time their skill again received its reward, as, after an exciting struggle, the little ball was suddenly hit out of the forest of bamboo sticks and ponies' legs and, passing between the flagged goal posts, scored another victory for Mr. Crosby, making the total score four to Mr. Crosby and two to Mr. Bennett.

Some few of the members remained for about a quarter of an hour longer, but as it was getting late the majority relieved themselves of their riding costume. The horses were put to the coaches and, with a parting blast of the horn, the four-in-hands rolled out of the meadow and took the road for the city.

ATHLETIC SPORTS.

ANNUAL SPRING MEETING OF THE NEW YORK ATHLETIC CLUB—THE EVENTS AND ENTRIES—A BRILLIANT REUNION ANTICIPATED.

The first important athletic meeting of the season will take place on Tuesday next (Decoration Day), the occasion being the annual reunion of the New York Athletic Club on its own grounds, near Mott Haven. Year after year the games of this spirited association have increased in interest and brilliancy, so that they are now looked forward to and attract great attention from all lovers of out-door sports. There are twelve events on the programme, eleven of which were open to all qualified amateurs, and the responses to the same have been of a very liberal character, as the list of entries herewith appended will show. Among the names will be found many well tried performers, while the presence of that marvellous athlete, Mr. William B. Curtis, of Chicago, and also that other brilliant amateur, Mr. H. E. Buermeyer, of New York, both of whom were absent last season, will be heartily welcomed by every member of the club and thousands who have seen them in uniform on the cinder path. All the prominent athletic clubs in this city are represented in one or more of the events, while a few are from a distance, and not the least satisfactory nature of the list are the entries of several members of college associations, this being the first time that such representatives have ever thought it worth while to test their form and speed in this city.

The grounds of the Athletic Club are now in superb condition and the track in excellent shape. The accommodations for spectators are of the most comfortable and ample nature, the grand stand erected last year being able to seat a vast crowd of spectators. The games will be called at two o'clock next Tuesday afternoon. The events and entries are as follows:—

THE CENTENNIAL RIFLE MATCH.

THE PRACTICE MATCHES OF THE IRISH RIFLEMEN.

DUBLIN, May 13, 1876.

To day the northern men met their Dublin colleagues on the military ranges at Dundalk, and an excellent day's work resulted. The weather was charmingly fine, and on such a day the shooting, speaking roundly, should have been better. The men recorded their wind and elevation for each shot, and worked in this respect on the plan of the riflemen who carried the day at Dollymount. McKenna fired for the first time on his back, and this is held to account for the smallness of his score. Wilson was almost as sure as he ever was, but the rest of the Belfast men are not known in the shooting world. The shooters were divided into two squads, the northerners taking No. 1 target and the home team No. 2, and though a match, practically speaking, was fired, there was no money prize or cup awarded the victors. As Mr. Joynt is a new rifleman Major Leech put him into James Pollock's place, and though this latter gentleman fired the full number of shots, making a total of 184 points, his score is not taken into account in the grand total calculations, which show a success for the Dublin men by 51 points. The first of the competitions for places in the Centennial Team will be held upon this day fortnight, May 26. Appended is the score:—

RIFLE SHOOTING IN CANADA.

OSWEGO, N. Y., May 24, 1876.

A rifle match was shot at Belleville, Ontario, to-day by teams from the Forty-ninth Rifles of Belleville and Forty-eighth regiment, National Guards, of this city. The conditions of the match were:—Six men each, 21 shots, 7 each at 200, 500 and 600 yards.

SCHUETZENFEST.

The opening ceremonies of the fourth season at Schuetzen Park, Union Hill, were closed last evening with the distribution of nearly $4,000 worth of prizes. The elegant park was thronged with visitors and great interest was manifested by the representatives of the German, English, Scotch and American societies in the team shooting and outdoor sports. Five teams, of seven men each, fired over the 200 yards range, having ten shots each. President George Aery, Secretary B. H. Tienken, and Shooting Master Ph. Klein, superintended the shooting. The scores at the close of the day gave the following result in prizes:—

TEAM COMPETITION.

Helvetia Rifle Club, gold medal, total score	1,091
Newark Shooting Society, gold medal, total score	1,042
New York Schuetzen Corps, total score	1,037
Columbia Rifle Association, total score	860
Jersey City Schuetzen Corps, total score	830

PREMIUMS FOR BULL'S EYES.

J. J. Morf, 60 points, prize	$15
M. Lewis, 10 points, prize	41
M. Hay, 28 points, prize	28
W. Hahn, 20 points, prize	5
H. Ralchen, 17 points, prize	3

The other awards made yesterday have been published. The prizes were presented by Captain George Aery, with neat speeches. The best feeling was exhibited among the marksmen, and fair discipline was maintained on the range.

The out door sports consisted of running, walking, wheelbarrow and sack racing by men and teams. They were interesting and amusing because of their deviation from the recognized rules of such sports, every regulation of the field going down before the demand for fun. The representatives of the Caledonian Club, Chief McEwen, ex-Chiefs Walker and McInnes, Clansmen Wright, Alexander, Cook, A. Robinson and the bonnie wee piper, Johnnie McInnes, rendered good service in the games. The prizes for the hunting matches had not been decided when the reporters left.

INTERNATIONAL YACHT RACE.

A letter has been received from Mr. Gifford, the owner of the Canadian schooner yacht Countess of Dufferin, accepting the terms of the New York Yacht Club in regard to the sailing for the Queen's Cup in so far that he agrees to sail a series of three races, as proposed by the New York Yacht Club, over the courses designated in this harbor or its vicinity in July, or to sail the series over the courses proposed, starting from Newport, R. I., in August. Mr. Gifford, however, stipulates that one yacht shall be selected to sail against him, to be named by the 1st of July next. He objects to the selection of three yachts, one to be named as his competitor on the morning of the race, as the weather is light or rough, as was done in the case of the matches with the Livonia. A majority of the members of the New York Yacht Club are in favor of acceding to the proposition of Mr. Gifford, considering that it would be more sportsmanlike, and more conducive generally to the interests of yachting. The club however, has to determine the question.

YACHTING NOTES.

The yachts Wanderer, N. Y. Y. C., Mr. James Stillman, from New York for the eastward; Wayward, N. Y. Y. C., flying Brooklyn Y. C. signal, Mr. S. A. Willoughby, from New York for Boston, passed Whitestone, L. I., yesterday.

THE NATIONAL GAME.

ST. LOUIS VS. RESOLUTE.

The St. Louis Club went out to Elizabeth, N. J., to play with the Resolute Club yesterday, and came very near being defeated, as is shown by the following score:—

PRINCETON, N. J., May 24, 1876.

The Chelseas, of Brooklyn, were defeated here to-day by the Princeton College nine by a score of 14 to 8.

ANOTHER GREAT DRY GOODS AUCTION.

Another enormous sale of dry goods at auction, similar to that held on Tuesday at the store of Messrs. Wright, Bliss & Fabyan, will be held to-day. To-day's sale is by Messrs. Field, Morris, Fenner & Co., of No. 465 Broome street, and it is thought will nearly equal in magnitude that of Tuesday. The entire production of the Amoskeag, Langdon, Stark and Naumkeag manufacturing companies, amounting to over 6,000 cases of staple domestic goods, will be sold. A majority of the out of town merchants, who came to the city to attend the first sale, have remained to be on hand for to-day's, and if the rapid manner in which the goods were sold on Tuesday, and the evident desire for more than were offered is any criterion, the goods to be offered to-day will go off well. Auctions like these have not occurred before in a number of years, the last one being in May, 1867, when 3,000 pieces were offered and the receipts aggregated about $500,000.

THE EXCISE LAW.

Mayor Wickham was closeted with the Police Commissioners yesterday for half an hour, the subject of conversation being the raid on Sunday last. The doors were kept carefully closed while the discussion lasted. At its conclusion the Commissioners expressed opinions with regard to the raid and the future policy of the Board. General Smith said that in the enforcement of the law he insisted on the strictest impartiality. Mr. Nichols believed in a modification of the law, whereby an open traffic on Sunday might be done away with. The other Commissioners saw no remedy but to enforce the law so long as it remained on the satute books. The general opinion was that the Board would not recede from its present position, although it is probable that less harsh measures will be adopted in future.

MEETING OF LIQUOR DEALERS.

A meeting of liquor dealers was held yesterday afternoon at the call of the Central Committee of the Liquor Dealers' Association, to make arrangements for a general mass meeting to protest against the rigid enforcement of the Excise law. Major Sauer called the meeting to order and nominated Mr. Michael Hahn for chairman. Mr. Hahn was elected, and on taking the chair wished it distinctly understood that he was present at the meeting simply in his capacity as a private citizen. He has no financial interest in any of the various branches of the trade, but must enter his earnest protest against the action of the police last Sunday.

Dr. Schaible addressed the meeting in German and urged the appointment of a committee to make preparations for a mass meeting of citizens to take place early next week in Cooper Institute. He denounced the present Excise law as an outrage upon the liberty of citizens, affecting not only the persons engaged in the traffic, but materially striking at the right to exercise their free will by the masses of the people.

Mr. R. Kalzeinemeyer said it was no use for either the wholesale or retail dealers to attempt to make the question a political one or to attempt to throw blame either upon the Police Commissioners or the officials who did their bidding. The fault was in the law itself, and so long as it remained on the statute book the city officials had no alternative except to enforce it when called upon to do so. That this call had been made by a certain portion of the community who represent the temperance element was an established fact. What the meeting should consider was how either to obtain a repeal of the law or to so modify it that a distinction would be drawn between the sale of spirituous liquors and that of beer and light wines, both of which, he claimed, were not only harmless, but wholesome and nutritious beverages. Until this could be done the courts should be asked to make a temporary injunction in order to prevent a recurrence of the disgraceful scenes of last Sunday. A test case could be started at once, and if that failed such men should be sent to the Legislature as would either abolish or amend the law.

After some other speeches a committee on mass meeting was appointed, with power to add to their number, so that the committee when complete will have two representatives from each ward in the city.

After the adjournment of the meeting an informal meeting of the committee was held, when it was decided to await the result of the meeting of the German Saengerbund this evening before taking any definite action.

EXCISE DEPARTMENT CHANGES.

The Board of Excise yesterday officially appointed Casper C. Childs as Chief Clerk to the Commissioners. They also dismissed Inspectors Urban, Hunt, Coffin and Weeks, and appointed in their places Messrs. Oliver H. Kingsland, Thomas Kannady, James F. Cavanagh and James Gregory. It is probable that the position of chief bookkeeper, now held by Mr. Koerner, will be given to Mr. Donohue, of Albany, formerly Excise Inspector in that city. The Commissioners are unanimous in the opinion that the business of the department requires from six to eight additional inspectors, and if the appropriation asked for is given by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment the force will be so increased.

THE DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE.

CONTINUATION OF THE CONGRESSIONAL INVESTIGATION AT THE ASTOR HOUSE.

The Sub-Committee of the Congressional Committee on the Department of Justice (Mr. Meade, chairman) continued its session at the Astor House yesterday. The committee was engaged during most of the day in hearing testimony, hoping to gather some clews from which tangible evidence might hereafter be gained in furtherance of the purpose of the investigations. All the witnesses were examined with closed doors, not that the press might be denied admission so much as to prevent the possibility of persons subpœnaed utilizing the committee for the gratification of personal malice or spite. The committee have already had presented to them some charges against officials with which they have but little to do, and again they have heard serious statements made which, in the absence of any corroboration as yet, they do not desire to have made public. This silence will be removed should any information come before the committee which would render the allegations entitled to consideration.

Two United States Deputy Marshals, Harris and Bernhard were examined, their testimony having reference to the manner of the performance of their duties, a few recent cases being taken for example. This sort of testimony is of but little interest except to the committee itself, whose business it is to collect facts for a general revision of the Marshal's office. The testimony of John X. Brown, a printer, at No. 24 Beekman street, was also taken. Brown testified that he was little more than an agent in the business for John I. Davenport, who put $25,000 into the concern a few years ago, nearly all of which, however, was now gone; he admitted that a large number, if not all, of the election documents had been printed in the concern, Davenport having control of such papers as Supervisor of Elections; but he denied that any overcharges had ever been made; he stated that Davenport had always been particularly anxious to have the bills down to the very lowest figure, at which similar work would be done by any other firm.

In the evening the committee held a secret session. Considerable speculation was occasioned in the afternoon among interested outsiders as to the cause of the presence of two ladies at the door of the committee room seeking for admission, and hopes were entertained that the dull routine of the investigation was to be brightened up by some startling testimony involving somebody or other in "a case with a woman in it." The conjectures all vanished into thin air when it became known that one of the ladies called to see a member of the committee only to ask a question or two about some other man.

THE PICNIC HOMICIDE.

Coroner Croker held an inquest yesterday morning in the case of John Sexton, who was shot last Saturday night by John McMahon, Jr., while entering on the premises of the latter from the National Park, Sixty-second street and Tenth avenue.

Thomas McMahon, father of the prisoner, testified:—My garden is separated from the National Park Garden by a wooden fence; we were often troubled by people who attend picnics in the Park; last Sunday my garden was trampled over and my fence broken down by some persons from the picnic; they damaged my property in about $250; last Saturday night my son told me that some roughs had threatened to set the house on fire; I went to the police station and told the officer in charge, who said that policemen had been already sent to my house.

Catharine McMahon, wife of the preceding witness, said she was at home when the affray took place; she heard a noise and saw several roughs chasing her son and throwing stones at him; one of the crowd called out to her son, "I'll have your life and burn the house down;" they broke down the fence and followed my son to the door with sticks and stones.

Michael Platy, of Sixty-second street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues, said that he was with the accused last Saturday night sitting on a rock near the fence which divides the two lots; while there a young man came to the platform and ordered them away; John McMahon, Jr., said that he lived there; stones were then thrown across the fence and witness saw one man climb over; he did not wait to see the subsequent proceedings, but ran home.

John Ginley, who was also with McMahon, said that after the first man got over the fence several others followed and chased himself and companion into the latter's house; McMahon got two guns and gave one to witness; he told witness they were not loaded; they then ran back toward the fence; some one took hold of witness and broke his gun; McMahon also was struggling with some one and his gun went off; witness saw a man fall and then ran away; it was very dark and he did not see any one until his gun was grabbed; he had heard some one call out that they would burn McMahon's house.

Henry O'Donnell, a painter, of No. 514 Tenth avenue, said that he was with the deceased at the time of the row; no stones were thrown by them and no words were used about burning the house.

The case was then, at half-past one, adjourned till this morning at eleven o'clock.

A CLEVER CAPTURE.

Last night as Martin H. Jensen, of No. 414 First avenue, was passing through Bleecker street, in the direction of Broadway, he was assaulted by three men who knocked him down and robbed him of a silver watch. The men then ran off, but Jensen's cries for help were heard by Officer Franklin Lake, of the Fourteenth precinct, who at once started in pursuit of the criminals and succeeded, after an exciting chase of several blocks, in coming up with two of them. They were taken to the Mulberry street station house, where they gave their names and addresses as follows:—John Cudney, No. 42 Monroe street, and William Jones, of No. 27 Chrystie street. The prisoners were locked up.

MUNICIPAL NOTES.

Comptroller Green was absent at Worcester, Mass., yesterday, and will return to the city to-day.

Mayor Wickham yesterday signed warrants, amounting to $80,000, in favor of the estate of the late John L. Brown. This is in full satisfaction of all claims of the estate against the city growing out of the street cleaning contracts.

WALL STREET YESTERDAY.—Stocks were generally firmer, and the volume of short interest was reduced. Money on call was supplied at 2 and 2 1-2 per cent. Gold advanced from 112 1-2 to 112 5-8. Government and railway bonds were steady and investment shares firm.

THE ENGLISH FINANCIERS who go to Egypt come back like the doves to the ark, finding the watery condition of the Khedive's treasury too discouraging for fowls of the Threadneedle street breed.

THE VATICAN is still in a bad humor with the Spanish monarchy because of the toleration clause in the new constitution. As a consequence the Papal Nuncio is given by the Pope an indefinite leave of absence from Madrid, which city will probably be able to endure its loss.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL DISPLAY in Brooklyn yesterday was a beautiful and touching spectacle, and the forty-five thousand children who paraded in Prospect Park were a striking reminder that the City of Churches is surviving its reputation as the City of Scandals.

THE GENERAL DEPRESSION IN BUSINESS is pinching the cotton manufacturing interest in England sorely. The manufacturers of woollen fabrics on this side of the Atlantic who feel the pressure are only sharing the squeeze with the entire trade in textile fabrics.

THE PORTE seeing the difficulty of refusing the reforms proposed in the Berlin memorandum, and the impossibility of even attempting to carry them out as they stand, has asked the Powers to modify their demand. It is certainly an awkward dilemma, supposing the Turkish government to have the best intentions in the world.

ATALANTA BOAT CLUB.—On Saturday next this club will formally open its house on the Harlem for the season. The occasion is always embraced as a fitting time for trials of speed between scratch crews, and the present will not be an exception to past years. This association is the pioneer of rowing in New York, dating back as far as 1848, and from that time until this it has maintained a reputation for efficiency, discipline and expert oarsmen.

THE CARE OF THE FRENCH GOVERNMENT in selecting bonâ fide representatives of the various industries to make up the workmen's delegation to the Centennial will be well bestowed. If there is one character more disagreeable than another it is a "representative of the workingman" on the model of old Eccles in Robertson's comedy of "Caste." There is a well defined variation of this class in France, and the government will do well to keep them at home. Of her genuine workingmen France may well be proud, and such America will be glad to welcome.

THE STRAW BAIL MEN of New York have long been a stumbling block to the administration of justice. The professional thief knows where to find them, and it seems impossible that the principal offenders in this sinister line of business should not be sufficiently well known to the Court officials to prevent repeated imposture. District Attorney Phelps' efforts to purge the courts of these rascals will, even now, deserve the thanks of the law-abiding community. The proper reform, however, lies in a stricter inquiry into the truth of the statements of the would-be bondsmen.

Now or Never.

We, at the height, are ready to decline.
There is a tide in the affairs of men
Which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune;
Omitted, all the voyage of their life
Is bound in shallows and in miseries.

These oft-quoted lines of the great dramatist are among the many proofs of his keen insight as an observer of human affairs. Bacon, his greatest contemporary—as preeminent in philosophy as Shakespeare was in poetry—expresses the same idea as strikingly, but more quaintly, in that repository of sagacious sayings, his incomparable "Essays":—"Occasion turneth a bald noddle after she hath presented her locks in front, and no hold taken; or, at least, turneth the handle of the bottle just to be received, and after the belly, which is hard to clasp." We commend these wise observations to the democratic leaders as singularly apposite to this extremely critical conjuncture in the affairs of their party.

Less than a month ago all the political omens pointed to the success of the democratic party. The exposures of the investigating committees had made a deep impression on the public mind and had shattered the confidence of the republican party. The Bristow movement derived all its strength from a feeling inside the party, that it had been so damaged by these revelations that there was no salvation or rescue but in putting forward a candidate whose sole claim rested on his relentless war against the whiskey thieves. This fear was at the bottom of the Union League Club resolutions. It was a knowledge of the disintegrating tendencies at work in the republican party that led to the Fifth Avenue Conference and its declaration in favor of a reform candidate. It was this which gave Governor Tilden so much strength and prestige as a Presidential candidate on the democratic side. But a change has come over the spirit of the political dream with the events of the last week, and the democratic leaders are suddenly brought to confront a new situation. The action of the Ohio Convention threatens a formidable split and bolt in the democratic party; while, on the other hand, President Grant's unexpected coup d'état betokens republican unity and a compactness of organization which it will be difficult for the democratic party to cope with. Quite apart from the significant events of the last week, the wings of Governor Tilden as a rising candidate have been clipped by the vigorous opposition to him in his own State. It was a hollow and barren victory which he won in the Utica Convention. That body was "packed" in his interest by the activity of his friends in the Congressional districts. It did not represent the democratic sentiment of the State, although it reflected, faithfully enough, a considerable portion of it. But there was a strong dissenting minority—a minority more powerful and earnest than appeared on the surface—and the dissentients have succeeded in making it appear that Governor Tilden is by no means the unanimous choice of the New York democracy. The Tammany revolt was the first pronounced symptom of disaffection; but that alone would not have hurt him, for Tammany is in bad odor both in the State and out of it. Subsequent developments have shown that there is a strenuous opposition to Tilden among the New York democrats outside of the city. Even the city opposition is fatal to his hopes. The capture of the Express by the opponents of Mr. Tilden was suggestive and significant, but the surprising change in the proprietorship and editorial management of the World in this crisis of Mr. Tilden's fortunes is not merely ominous, but fatal. The World has long been recognized as the chief organ, not only of the democratic party of this State, but of the democratic party of the whole country. Its late editor has long been an intimate and confidential friend of Governor Tilden; its new editor has no illusions respecting the Governor, and while he is too wise to provoke the hostility of Mr. Tilden's friends he is too fully cognizant of the strength of the opposition to him in this State to allow the World to be the leader of a forlorn hope. The conversion of the leading democratic organ from a pro-Tilden to an anti-Tilden exponent of democratic sentiment will enlighten the party in other States respecting Mr. Tilden's real strength. The conference of prominent democrats held last evening in Albany will also serve as an "eye-opener" to the democracy of the country. It will convince them that Mr. Tilden's fancied strength is factitious; that the blowing of Tilden's trumpets was mere noise; that it is not the democratic party of New York, but only a faction of the party, that presses the Governor upon the St. Louis Convention. But if he be not the choice of New York he is the choice of nobody, for a strong opposition to him in his own State is as fatal to Tilden as it is to Thurman. Everybody sees that Thurman is out of the field since the Ohio Convention, and the revisory action of the New York democracy over the proceedings of the packed Utica Convention will dwarf the chances of Mr. Tilden in the same way.

The canvass has reached a pass at which Mr. Tilden must decide between his personal claims and the success of his party. Will he ruin it or will he save it? If he persists in pushing his own claims the democratic party will be cleft in two. The inflation democracy of the West will bolt and run a separate candidate, and the party will be beaten in 1876, as it was in 1860, by having two tickets in the field. It is mere verdancy and folly to suppose that the Western democrats are not ready to bolt. The intelligent Ohio letter which we printed yesterday should dispel this delusion. The Western inflationists are the lineal descendants and heirs at law of the copperhead Bourbons who made such a figure during the war. They are zealots and fanatics, and like all men of their type, they are prepared to go all lengths to support an idea. They believe in soft money. They have not taken up this heresy as a card to be played in a political game. On the contrary, they have a profound conviction that they are right. They are willing to suffer political martyrdom in attestation of their opinions. The greenback party of the West is composed of just the kind of materials which would glory in a bolt against doctrines they repudiate or candidates they detest.

The republican party has nothing to fear from such a source of weakness. It is united on the financial question and on other questions of general policy. The only divisions with which it is threatened are personal divisions respecting candidates, and these are in a fair way to be composed by the new attitude of President Grant. The republican party is not menaced with a great split on principles. According to present appearances it will concentrate on Senator Conkling as its Presidential candidate. If he should be nominated at Cincinnati the republican party would give him a unanimous and zealous support; but if Governor Tilden should be nominated at St. Louis nothing is more certain than a formidable democratic bolt and two democratic tickets. If Mr. Conkling should be strengthened by a good Western candidate for Vice President, like Governor Hayes, who would insure the State of Ohio, or Secretary Bristow, who would conciliate the reform element of the party, his chances of election would be excellent against any democratic candidate who did not thoroughly unite the party, and much more against a candidate like Governor Tilden, whose nomination would split the democratic party.

Even if Governor Tilden could feel sure of the St. Louis nomination it would not guarantee his election. The inflationists would bolt, put another candidate in the field and take more satisfaction in his defeat than they would feel in a democratic victory which should put him at the head of the government. With the strong opposition to him which has been developed in his own State Governor Tilden has hardly a chance for the St. Louis nomination, and the certainty that the Western democrats would split the party and render his election impossible is an additional reason why he should withdraw from the contest.

If Governor Tilden desires a democratic victory, if he is willing to subordinate his personal ambition to the success of his party, he ought to withdraw his claims and support Senator Bayard. Mr. Bayard is the only democrat on whom the party can be cordially united. He is as good a hard money man as Mr. Tilden, but he has done nothing to offend the pride or wound the sensibilities of the Western democrats. They cannot accept Tilden, they cannot accept Thurman, both of whom have been arrayed against them in such a manner as would make it a humiliation to indorse them. But Senator Bayard has done nothing offensive, and there would be no sacrifice of Western pride in accepting him as the democratic candidate. Mr. Tilden has an excellent opportunity to show his public spirit and magnanimity by withdrawing his claims and supporting Senator Bayard, the only genuine hard money candidate on whom the democratic party can be united.

If Governor Tilden is to do this at all he should do it at once. It is "now or never." He cannot expect to stand high in the counsels of a democratic adminstration if he pushes his personal claims to the utmost and evinces a willingness to ruin the democratic party to promote his personal aspirations. If he chooses he can make the nomination of Mr. Bayard smooth and easy; if he stands out he may ruin not only himself but the party. He is at "the parting of the ways." If he persists in his selfish canvass, or even if he hesitates and procrastinates, the canvass will pass beyond his control. If he has the foresight and decision to act at once he will be an important man in national politics, but if he fails to take advantage of the tide he will be "bound in shallows and in miseries" during the short residue of his public career.

No More Soldiers.

It is a very appropriate, seasonable, and certainly a pleasant labor that the World has entered upon, in calling the roll of democratic candidates and exhibiting to the country the wealth of its party in a commodity of so much consequence at the present moment. It demonstrates that it is untrammelled except as to party fealty; that it is not chained to the chariot wheels of any magnate, and it improves the shining hours that precede the days of the Convention by showing to delegates everywhere how promising is the record of many honorable and altogether worthy democrats. It has presented the name of General Hancock very handsomely. This gallant soldier has done the State some service, and no individual in the nation fails to appreciate it or is disposed to belittle it. He is one of our heroes to be cherished in the good will and gentle remembrance of the nation for many generations after all such facts will cease to be personally of any importance to him. His title to the national respect does not even stop with his service in the field. The nation is full of men who have served it bravely. One cannot pass down the main street of any city in the land but he will meet them. General Hancock is one of the few soldiers to whose duty it fell on certain conspicuous occasions to draw the line between the obligations of his position as a soldier and his obligations as a citizen to the law, and he drew it always with such a just discretion, he tempered the case so happily without delinquency on either side, as to earn for himself an immortal and peculiar honor. And yet we do not believe that the people wish to make him President. George Washington was the only soldier President we ever had who was a success, and his success was not in any sense due to the attributes that made him a commander. All the men who have been made Presidents since because they were soldiers are landmarks of calamity in our history, and the last experiment is so disastrous in this particular that the country cannot forget it or recover courage to try another soldier in a very great while. It is not to be said that General Hancock might be or would be a repetition of our bad fortune, but only that the distaste for military Presidents that Grant has given puts aside the claims of all soldiers, however good.

THE POLITICAL OUTLOOK in Mexico is gloomy enough. The active rebellion is supplemented by dissensions among the government supporters, who offer a number of plans for deciding the question of the Presidency.

The Conference at Albany—Governor Tilden.

There was a political conference at Albany last evening at the house of Judge Parker. The participants are understood to be hostile to Governor Tilden. We note the meeting as one of the many indications that the democrats of the Empire State refuse to be dragged at the chariot wheels of Governor Tilden. The feeling has become general that the indorsement of his Presidential claims at Utica was "a put-up job," accomplished by the wily activity of Mr. Tilden in securing delegates to the State Convention. The revolt and protests of the party in New York against that piece of machine work have taken many forms. Among the most significant are the changes in the democratic press of this city. The evening democratic organ, the Express, and the morning democratic organ, the World, have signified their dissent from the action of the Utica Convention, and the conference at Albany last evening is another indication that the party in this State refuses to be bound by the action of a packed convention at Utica, which was a mere registering body to record the wishes of our ambitious Governor.

These exhibitions of dissent will have a great effect at St. Louis. They will convince the national representatives of the party that Mr. Tilden is not the real choice of New York, and that the opposition to him in his own State is so formidable that he cannot be safely nominated. The interview of our representative at Albany with Chief Justice Church is more significant by its omissions than by its declarations. The reserve of the Chief Justice imposed upon him by his judicial station makes all that he does say more suggestive, and it is very clear that he does not think that the prospects of the democratic party would be improved by the nomination of any New York candidate. The conference at Judge Parker's was not a Church movement, nor a movement in the interest of any New York candidate. It was rather a declaration that New York withdraws all claims for the Presidential nomination, and the expression of a willingness to accept any candidate on whom the party in other States can cordially unite. The spirit of this conference is, therefore, hostile to Tilden, as all the manifestations of democratic sentiment have been since the adjournment of his Utica Convention. With so much active hostility in his own State he cannot reasonably expect the democratic nomination, and his last opportunity for establishing his influence in the party consists in his willingness to promote the chances of Senator Bayard. Even this opportunity will soon pass. If Governor Tilden expects to exert any influence in politics it is "now or never." Having no longer any power to help himself, if he declines to turn over his strength to Senator Bayard he will be of no more account in politics than any private citizen. With so large an element of dissent in his own State he cannot expect the St. Louis nomination, and if he has any political future it must grow out of his co-operation with the general sentiment of his party.

The America's Cup.

For the past few years, ever since the Livonia "topped her boom" and left these waters, the Hundred Guinea Cup offered by the Royal Yacht Squadron, and so gallantly won by the schooner yacht America, has remained in the undisputed possession of the New York Yacht Club. There have been no further challenges, and it looked as if the defeat of the Cambria and Livonia had forever settled the question, leaving the highly prized trophy to be handed down to posterity as a memento of the prowess of American yachts and American yachtsmen of the nineteenth century. This year, however, a new aspirant appears upon the scene, and while still on the stocks sends forth her challenge. In reply to the demand as to the conditions under which the cup would be sailed for an answer was sent from the New York Yacht Club to Vice Commodore Gifford, of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club, the owner of the Countess of Dufferin, the challenging yacht, that on the mornings of July 10, 12 and 14 the club would have a yacht at the starting point ready to sail over three courses, viz.:—The New York Yacht Club course, a course twenty miles to windward and return, outside Sandy Hook, and the third, in case each won a race, to be selected by lot from the two named. An answer has arrived from Vice Commodore Gifford which will be presented by the Regatta Committee before the meeting of the New York Yacht Club this evening. In reply Vice Commodore Gifford declines the pleasure of meeting a yacht to be named on the morning of the race, but proposes to sail the three races offered by the New York Yacht Club, provided they select their representative on or before the 1st of July. As the matter will have to be decided by the vote of the members of the club, in whose trust the cup has been left by the original owners, it would be advisable for them to take into due consideration Mr. Schuyler's interpretation of the deed of gift and give the challenger's proposal a fair hearing. Vice Commodore Gifford has shown himself throughout his correspondence a thorough yachtsman, anxious to measure the speed of his boat with those of the New York Yacht Club. As such he deserves a hearty welcome and every encouragement that, as guardians intrusted with the safe keeping of the cup, the club can afford to give him. It is reported that the Countess of Dufferin has been built from a model furnished by an American, and, furthermore, that an American expert has been engaged to sail her, and in consequence it is said that some of the members of the New York Yacht Club have been inclined to make the terms of sailing the race as stringent as possible. They should not, however, view the question in that light, as, if the Canadians have to send to our waters for a model to beat our yachts, the more credit will devolve upon American yacht builders; and, again, it can hardly be expected that a strange yacht will sail in these waters without obtaining the assistance of an experienced pilot. When Mr. Ashbury sailed his races with the Cambria and Livonia he always had one and generally two pilots on board. The majority, however, of the yacht owners appear to be inclined to give Vice Commodore Gifford's proposal their favorable consideration, and, adhering to the intrepretation of the deed of trust through which they hold the cup, will probably accede to his wishes and select the pick of the fleet to meet the Canadian representative.

Senator Bayard, of Delaware.

The World a few days since contained a leading article in which the claims of Senator Bayard to the nomination at St. Louis are set forth with great force and justice. The fact is that the last retrograde movement in Ohio, so damaging to Senator Thurman's candidature, makes it more than ever necessary that the different wings of the democratic party should unite around a name which would be acceptable to all sections of the country. It needs not the unfortunate experience of the past to prove that internecine dissensions are fatal to success, and the lessons so dearly bought should not only prevent the repetition of suicidal blunders, but should be a restraint upon those who, if they cannot rule a party, strive to ruin it. It is not, however, merely for the sake of party that such a union must be brought about, but it is essential to the interests of the whole country that any feeling of sectionalism which may exist between the East and the West should not be given an opportunity of asserting itself when it can be checked at the outset.

An article from the Lexington Press, which we print this morning in another portion of the paper, is full of suggestions on these points. "Save me from my friends and I will take care of mine enemies" is especially applicable to the period of a Presidential election. But to tell the truth plainly, and, moreover, to recognize it openly when it is found so clearly expressed as in the article to which we refer, are the first necessary steps in arriving at sound conclusions in political matters, and the friends of Mr. Bayard have every reason to desire that these principles should be the distinguishing marks of the present canvass. The more light that can be thrown upon Senator Bayard's past and present course the more will it prove to his advantage. The ordinary political hack and many a skilful tactician would find it impossible to appreciate the benefit of outspoken common sense, uninfluenced by local or sectional considerations. Indeed, the extreme wariness and shyness of many of the candidates themselves, of both parties, is almost ludicrous. They have learned by long experience that intrigue is a power, and are therefore employing all the political machinery at their command. But they forget that the power of intrigue is deservedly short-lived under the present temper of the people. This temper, of which the late "Advisory Council" is but one of the numerous indications, ill brooks the idea that the next President should come into office bound hand and foot to his following. This, the inevitable consequence of intrigue, would not be the reform of which our reformers are preaching. Our own State of New York is to-day suffering from this very evil from which the national administration must be preserved. Senator Bayard's position is such that very different results would follow his election, and, as the time approaches for the two conventions, his consistency and independence of character become daily more and more conspicuous. This contrast is very gratifying to those who wish that his name should come before the St. Louis Convention unhampered by political cliques and unembarrassed by previous obligations to selfish advisers. Incapability of intrigue is a tower of strength which grows from day to day, and the two-edged sword which has already given the quietus to more than one of the present candidates has never soiled the hand of Mr. Bayard. In this respect, aside from his personal character, the very fact that Senator Bayard is from a small State is an additional reason for his nomination, and one which grows in force as soon as presented to the minds of those who desire the Executive office to be as free as possible from local influences. Our Kentucky friend is a little severe on New York, but we agree with him in the main, and would moreover suggest that a President of intelligence, firmness and scrupulous honor, who is neither from the North nor from the South, and who stands midway between the East and the West, is to be preferred in the present emergency.

The Vice Presidency.

Our genial contemporary the Sun has put together a Presidential ticket that reflects the shrewd perceptions of the sagacious editor of that journal. We are happy to find that the Sun agrees with us as to the necessity that Senator Conkling shall hold the first place in any ticket that is to win; and that it is also of our opinion as to the main principles which should, and, indeed, must determine the choice of the second name. It assigns the second place to Bristow, but we still prefer Hayes as the stronger name. It is not to be denied that Bristow has gained a good position before the country by his splendid campaign against the whiskey thieves, and also that his name might be deemed a concession to the South as well as the West. But the people are not yet disposed to assent that Mr. Bristow is the only man in the country who would in the same circumstances have been honest and resolute enough to do his whole duty as Secretary of the Treasury. He was fortunate in his predecessors, and his achievements are brilliant by comparison with other men's failures rather than by a fair measure of the possibilities. Although the little known of him is good it is unfortunate that he is not better known in order that the nation might judge for itself as to whether he is equally good all the way through. Hayes has the positive excellence in this case of great strength in one pre-eminently important State; he has further a general strength with his party in the West. As to the South there is no republican power there apart from the administration, and that power will, therefore, be assured by the nomination of Mr. Conkling.

THE LAST DOLLAR having been squeezed out of Cuba Spain is trying to mortgage the Cuban customs dues to raise a loan of ten million dollars to carry on the war. This indicates a desperate state of affairs on the island.

New York Athletic Club.

This association has set Tuesday next (Decoration Day), for its annual spring games on the club grounds, near Mott Haven. The card is lengthy, comprising eleven open and one closed event, and, from the imposing array of entries, a most successful reunion is anticipated. The meetings of this spirited club have grown into great favor within the past two or three years, and the performances of its members and of visiting athletes have been very creditable. In the one hundred yards event, a distance calculated to attract both flyers and starters, there are sixteen entries, some of whom are really formidable, and the winner will fully deserve the prize he secures. The quarter-mile run, half-mile run, mile run, hurdle race and walking and jumping contests also have both quality and quantity, and there must ensue in each a fine struggle for victory. Among the names in the list, published elsewhere, are representatives of most of the leading clubs in the country, and there is the best of reason for believing the majority of those entered will put in an appearance. For the first time the games of the coming meeting will be taken part in by members of college athletic associations, and, judging from past records, these strangers, if in good health and condition, will be worthy of consideration.

Governor Hayes on the Canvass.

At a time when the people as well as the political managers are turning over in their minds the names of prominent citizens likely to contest for places in the race for national honors in November it is well to be able to see the candidates in a manner more personal than merely hanging them on to their respective States or sections when balancing the probabilities. Our correspondent at Columbus does this much in a pithy way for Governor Hayes, of Ohio, and the Governor himself speaks frankly out his views of candidates and the canvass, except where the question touches himself. What will most strike the reader in this conversation is the Western touchiness regarding what he terms the little pains taken in the East to "understand the West," except in a "hog and hominy sense," as well as his opinion of the greenback difficulty in the democratic camp. This, he thinks, the party will get over by some evasion in the platform, but that even then it will weaken the party. Among Western democratic candidates he thinks that "Thurman is stronger than the opposition to him," and that Allen is not his equal either "in ability or political experience." He does not think Tilden has strength in the West compared with Conkling in their respective parties. The former "hardly knows on what platform he stands," while "Conkling stands straight, square on the platform of his party, and has always stood there, beside being known as a powerful worker in the organization, a man of high attainments and unblemished character." This frank and hearty compliment from the most prominent republican in Ohio to our able Senator is an omen of good to the party. When the piqued vanity of the young Western giant at not having his newspaper articles more frequently copied into the New York papers has been soothed by the assurance that Boston groans under the same fancied neglect we are sure that the kindly feeling expressed by Governor Hayes will spread like a prairie fire among the rank and file of his numerous following.

MASSACHUSETTS MURDERERS.—To-morrow will witness the execution of two murderers in Massachusetts, and to one at least attaches a terrible interest—namely, the slayer of the little girl Mabel Young, who since his sentence has confessed to the murder of another female child. The story of his crimes and that of Frost, the Petersham murderer, to be executed at Worcester, will be found elsewhere.

Chief Justice Morrison R. Waite, of the United States Supreme Court, arrived in this city yesterday with his wife and daughter, and is at the St. Nicholas Hotel. The Chief Justice's purpose in visiting this city is to obtain medical assistance for his wife, who has been an invalid for some time past. On Sunday next the Chief Justice will leave for Richmond to hold a session of the Circuit Court.

ENGLAND.

THE COTTON INTEREST DEPRESSED—MANUFACTURERS CLOSING THEIR MILLS—PRICE OF SILVER.

LONDON, May 24, 1876.

Three cotton mills at Preston have commenced running on short time, and it is rumored that others will follow. The cause is the continued decline and irregularity in prices and the depression and uncertainty of the market. It is stated that prices are at present lower than for thirty years, with two brief exceptions, and the prospects are discouraging.

The mills in some parts of Lancashire will be closed during the entire Whitsuntide.

CANADIAN REPORT OF THE MERCHANT SHIPPING BILL DEBATE—CABINET CARE FOR COLONIAL RIGHTS.

TORONTO, Canada, May 24, 1876.

A special despatch from London to the Globe says that in the House of Commons, on the discussion of the Merchant Shipping bill, Mr. Jenkins, member for Dundee, asked the government whether they had received representations from Canada in reference to the clause requiring Canadian shipping to be excluded from the operation of the bill.

Right Hon. Sir S. H. Northcote, Chancellor of the Exchequer, replied that Canadian representatives in England had assented to the bill and that it was undesirable that a distinction should be made between Canadian and British flags. Canadian shipping, he said, would be subjected to no inconvenience.

Mr. Jenkins moved to exempt Canadian vessels not coming into ports of the United Kingdom.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer said he was framing a clause. An attempt would be made to adopt a Canadian law having the same regulations in ports of departure and arrival.

Mr. Jenkins' amendment was negatived without a division.

RETURN OF THE SCIENTIFIC EXPEDITIONARY SHIP CHALLENGER.

LONDON, May 24, 1876.

Her Majesty's ship Challenger has arrived at Spithead from her scientific expedition and deep-sea soundings' cruize.

HER MISSION AND WORK.

The British ship Challenger, which has just returned to port at Spithead, has been engaged during almost the whole of the past four years in most important works in the cause of science. The nature of her commission and the value of the duty which she has accomplished will be more fully understood by a perusal of the following points of the report of the Circumnavigation Committee of the Royal Society, on the work which was before the Challenger expedition in the month of January, 1873, thus:—The principal object of the proposed expedition is to be to investigate the physical and biological conditions of the great ocean basins, and it is recommended for that purpose to pass down the coast of Portugal and Spain, to cross the Atlantic from Madeira to the West India Islands, to go to Bermuda, thence to the Azores, the Cape de Verde Islands, the Coast of South America, and across the South Atlantic to the Cape of Good Hope, thence by the Marion Islands, the Crozets and Kerguelen Land to Australia and New Zealand, going southward en route, opposite the centre of the Indian Ocean, as near as may be with convenience and safety to the southern ice barrier. From New Zealand through the Coral Sea and Torres Straits, westward between Lombok and Bali and thence through the Celebes and Sulu seas to Manila, then eastward into the Pacific, visiting New Guinea, New Britain, the Solomon islands and afterward to Japan, where some considerable time may be profitably spent. From Japan the course will be directed across the Pacific to Vancouver Island, then southerly through the eastern trough of the Pacific and homewards round Cape Horn. This route will give an opportunity of examining many of the principal ocean phenomena, including the Gulf Stream and equatorial currents; some of the biological conditions of the sea of the Antilles; the fauna of the deep water of the South Atlantic, which is as yet unknown, and the specialy interesting fauna of the borders of the Antarctic Sea. Special attention will be paid to the botany and zoology of the Marion Islands, the Crozets, Kerguelen Land, and any new groups of islands which may possibly be met with in the region to the southeast of the Cape of Good Hope.

CAREFUL PREPARATION FOR A PROPER REPRESENTATION AT THE CENTENNIAL.

LONDON, May 24, 1876.

A special despatch to the Telegraph from Paris says most careful and elaborate preparations are being taken for executing the intention of the Legislature in sending to the Centennial Exhibition at Philadelphia practical representatives of all divisions of industry. Augusto Desmoulins has been chosen to investigate and prepare an exhaustive report on educational matters.

The government is taking measures to secure intelligent and honest delegates from trades organizations.

THE QUESTION OF THE INTERPRETATION OF THE CONSTITUTION—NATIONAL CONSIDERATIONS SUPERIOR TO POLITICAL INTERESTS.

VERSAILLES, May 24, 1876.

In the Senate to-day the Marquis of Franclieu moved his interpellation in regard to the interpretation of the constitution and the circular of the late Minister Ricard to Prefects stigmatizing as factious the hopes of the monarchists.

CABINET DEFINITION OF CITIZEN DUTY.

Minister Dufaure replied that the circular meant that members of political parties might retain hopes and even labor for their realization, but government officials were formally prohibited from adopting such attitude. He stated that both Chambers united in congress could alone decide upon the interpretation of the constitution. It would be dangerous to place an interpretation upon the constitution now, as revision was impossible until 1880, and the new Parliament which will be elected before then might interpret the constitution differently.

M. Dufaure concluded:—"I, therefore, say in reply to the interpellation, let us respect the fidelity of our opponents to their convictions and hopes, but combat all conspiracies."

DISPOSED TO ACCEPT A MODIFICATION OF THE BERLIN MEMORANDUM.

BERLIN, May 24, 1876.

Trustworthy intelligence has been received from Constantinople that the Porte will not absolutely reject the proposals of the Berlin Conference, but will ask for considerable modifications.

ALARMING NEWS FROM BULGARIA—A FORMIDABLE INSURRECTION AGAINST THE PORTE.

LONDON, May 25, 1876.

A Belgrade telegram to the Daily News says it is reported that 30,000 Bulgarians rose in insurrection yesterday from Slivno to Intiman, on the occasion of the feast of their patron saint Curil.

Twelve thousand Turks were sent against them from Uissa and Widdin.

CONFERENCE WITH COUNT ANDRASSY.

A despatch from Pesth to the Times says:—"The Turkish Ambassador has arrived here to confer with Count Andrassy.

SERVIA MOVING THE DIPLOMATS.

The Times' Berlin correspondent telegraphs that there are symptoms showing a turn for the worse in Eastern affairs.

The Servian representative at Constantinople has formally complained of Turkey's hostile acts.

RUSSIA PREPARING FOR A CAMPAIGN.

Twenty-seven Russian and a number of Swiss officers have arrived at Belgrade to take part in active preparations for a campaign.

It is foreseen that the present attempt at pacification will be as useless as that made by Baron Rodich. It is necessary to decide shortly whether this fresh failure is to be followed by further concessions to the insurgents, or whether an opposite policy is advisable. The preparations of Servia, assisted by Russian officers, seem intended to influence the decision of Austria.

EGYPT.

THE ENGLISH FINANCIAL AGENT ABOUT TO LEAVE.

LONDON, May 24, 1876.

Advices from Cairo state that it is understood Mr. Rivers Wilson, who went to Egypt in connection with the financial affairs of that country, will return to England next week.

MEXICO.

HAVANA, May 24, 1876.

The steamer City of Merida arrived to-day from Vera Cruz, bringing advices to May 14.

CONDITION OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS.

For several days previous to her sailing no news had been received from the capital.

At last accounts the military situation had not materially changed.

THE OAXACA REVOLUTION.

The revolutionists of Oaxaca have declared that they were acting not against the federal but the State government. The federal troops having been withdrawn from Oaxaca many insurgents had returned to their homes. The Pronunciados were still in great numbers, but only attacked the federals at small posts.

The revolutionary State government was in full power.

POLITICAL CHANGES IN THE CAPITAL.

The political situation at the capital was continually changing.

Great dissensions existed among the supporters of the government. The largest party favored Mejia, actual Minister of War, for next President; but a majority of the Congressional Deputies in caucus had renominated Lerdo de Tejada, and maintained that no legal election could be held while a number of States were in a state of siege and others were held by the rebels.

THE PRESIDENCY MAY LAPSE TO THE CHIEF JUSTICE.

If no general election takes place, then by the constitution Chief Justice Iglesias is entitled to the Presidency.

A DANGEROUS PROJECT.

A project was on foot for Congress to declare a prolongation of President Lerdo's term of office for one year as a political and military necessity.

This scheme if carried out would greatly complicate affairs, cause an increase of anarchy, and convert the Presidency into a dictatorship.

AMERICAN INVASION TO BE RESISTED.

The official Diario declares if troops of the United States invade Mexico on any protext, the government will defend the soil with energy.

AT JALAPA.

The federal troops have occupied Jalapa and the city government had been reinstated.

ON THE HIGHWAY.

The morning train from Vera Cruz for the City of Mexico was stopped and assaulted on the 11th near Tejeria, where the insurgents had torn up the tracks. Shots were fired at the passengers, one of whom was wounded and several were robbed.

CARRIED OFF.

The rebels carried off Señor Rafael Estrada, who had been appointed Political Chief of Orizaba, and was on his way thither.

The damage to the road was repaired and the train proceeded the next day.

AT VERA CRUZ.

General Alatorre was in Vera Cruz.

The United States man-of-war Huron had arrived at Vera Cruz.

FASHIONABLE MARRIAGE.

Daniel Richardson, Secretary of the United States Legation, has been married to Miss Taylor, daughter of Richard Taylor, of Kentucky.

CUBA.

HAVANA, May 24, 1876.

Mr. Henry Augustus Cooper, the newly appointed Consul General of Great Britain, has arrived here.

PRESBYTERIAN GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 24, 1876.

The Committee on Education in the General Assembly reported favorably this morning on the overtures of the Presbyterians of Mecklenburg and South Carolina to abandon the present system of education in theological seminaries.

The Publication Committee recommended the establishment of an infants' paper, which will be discussed on Friday.

The Committee on Bills and Overtures reported adversely to removing the Theological Seminary, at Columbia, to some point in the West. Various other points of unimportant public character were presented on the Pan-Presbyterian question. Dr. D. O. Davis, of Kentucky; General D. H. Hill, of Charlotte, N. C.; Dr. White and Rev. Mr. Branch, of Virginia, spoke in opposition. Judge Robert C. Ould, of Richmond, warmly and eloquently espoused the measure. Pending discussion the Assembly took a recess until 8 P. M., and in the afternoon, with a number of ladies, went on an excursion to the Tybee River and the ocean.

THE EXHIBITION.

First Meeting of the American and Foreign Judges.

CLASSIFICATION OF THE JURORS.

Speech of Sir Charles Reed, of England.

Enthusiastic Demonstration Opposing the Sunday Opening.

PHILADELPHIA, May 24, 1876.

In addition to the usual throng of visitors from all parts of the country and the wondrous attractions of the most valuable products of the world, the Centennial grounds were to-day enlivened by quite a number of events which, to the habitués of the international city, gave a much needed spice to the endless, yet tiresome variety.

Gilmore's band, after a brief morning concert in the main building, transferred their spirited music to the Judges' Hall, where the judges elected met for organization. The arrival of ex-Governor Curtin and the visit of inspection to the Pennsylvania State building by the State Board and Legislative Committee, combined with the informal yet general observance in the British departments of the Queen's birthday, added to the interest of the scene and rendered the day one of exceptional pleasure to all whose guiding star led them within the grand enclosure.

VICTORIA'S BIRTHDAY.

The birthday of "Victoria, by the grace of God Queen of Great Britain and Ireland, Defender of the Faith and Empress of India," was very generally observed yesterday by all the exhibitors in the British section of the main building. The cases were ornamented with miniature English and American banners, and in some departments the flags of all nations were artistically grouped about the English colors. One exhibitor had rich and handsome festoons of red and white extending from case to case, and caught in the centre with the royal coat of arms. The British buildings and the British colonial structures near State avenue were resplendent with patriotic decorations and from the white poles in front to the cornices of the structures were hung long halyards of flags of all nations. The windows of the large building were decorated with festoons of silk and bunting and above all rustled in the breeze the banner of Great Britain and the royal colors of St. George. The English Commissioners visited the principa building during the day, but no formal ceremonies in honor of the occasion were indulged in upon the grounds. This evening, however, there will be two banquets, one by English exhibitors at Doyle's restaurant and the other by the Royal Commissioners at St. George's Hall.

THE JUDGES OF AWARD.

To-day the Board of Judges appointed by the United States Centennial Commission to make the final awards upon the exhibits at the Centennial Exposition held their first meeting at the grounds. The Board comprises 125 American judges, who have been selected with great care from among the best experts in all the twenty-eight groups into which the exhibits are arranged. In addition to these American judges there are 100 foreign judges, selected by the representatives of the various foreign governments exhibiting at the Exposition. We may state here that the foreign judges will receive $1,000 in compensation for their services, and the Americans $600.

THE RECEPTION OF THE JUDGES.

All day yesterday workmen were engaged in preparing the main hall in the Judges' Pavilion for the meeting of the judges to-day. The floor was covered with matting and a sufficient number of chairs for the members of the Board properly arranged. Across the wall, behind the President's desk, a large American flag has been placed, and the commodious apartment has been given altogether quite an attractive and businesslike look.

At just twelve o'clock the members of the United States Commission, headed by General Hawley, President of the Commission, and Mr. Waddell, Chairman of the Executive Committee, entered the hall. The members of the commission seated themselves in front of the rostrum, facing toward the entrance, and, as soon as they were in position, the American Judges of Award filed in and seated themselves in the body of the hall, on the left of the main aisle, the band meanwhile playing "Hail Columbia."

No sooner were they seated than there appeared at the entrance door the head of the line of foreign judges. General Hawley arose and said:—

"Gentlemen, our friends from abroad. Please rise and receive them."

The American members of the jury arose and faced to the aisle, the band struck up "God Save the Queen," and the foreign members of the jury marched in and took seats on the right of the aisle.

GENERAL HAWLEY'S ADDRESS.

All being in position General Hawley arose and spoke, the welcome to the foreign judges being warmly applauded by the American members and the close of the address being received with long continued applause.

AN INTERNATIONAL LUNCHEON.

Upon the conclusion of the formalities in the hall the Judges and other invited guests, in charge of members of the Centennial Commission and Board of Finance, and under the special escort of Governor McCormick, and Messrs. Beckwith and Blake, of the Committee on Selection of Judges, with President Hawley and Director General Goshorn, headed by Gilmore's Band, proceeded to the Lafayette Restaurant, where, through the foresight of the special committee, a lunch had been hastily improvised. The guests and entire party, to the number of nearly 500, were here informally entertained.

When the demands of hunger had been appeased, the Chairman, General Hawley, after an allusion to the somewhat frugal repast as something for which a lack of time and opportunity had prevented sufficient preparation, alluded to the day as one which marked the anniversary of the birth of a most noble lady, one whom every American gentleman respects, not only because of her eminent virtues and well-known friendship for the United States, but because she is the sovereign of a great nation. In fitting recognition of the day, he proposed "The health of Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain and Ireland." (Applause.) All present here rose, while the strains of the band made the air vocal with "God Save the Queen." When the toast had been drank and the company again seated the next in the series of informal toasts—"An Assurance of Cordial Good Will to the Judges from Abroad"—was announced and received with general applause, the band playing "We Won't Go Home Till Morning."

PLEASANT SPEECHES.

Sir Charles Reed, M. P., President of the School Board of the City of London and British Commissioner on Education, being called upon to respond, replied that as a loyal subject of the Queen, speaking in a foreign land on Her Majesty's birthday anniversary, he could only reciprocate the hearty expressions of good will uttered by so worthy a citizen of the United States as was the President of the Centennial Commission. He had only one difficulty in responding to the toast, for, closely associated as he was with the American people, he never could regard himself as a foreigner among them, and if even that feeling was strong upon him it was so now, when all the ties of brotherhood were being closely drawn together. He continued:—My sympathy and that of those associated with me who have left the shores of Great Britain is entirely with this people, and if there has been any doubt upon our minds to-day as to the position we occupy as foreigners, the opening address of the President and of the Director General would have dissipated it, because the reception has been one of the heartiest and most cordial. (Applause by the Commissioners from abroad.) It is perhaps well that we should commence by meeting each other at the festive board; but we are entering upon a very important and responsible task, and I hope that we are now about to set to work most resolutely to discharge our duty before accepting any suggestions of hospitality or entertainment. I understand, Mr. President, that the present occasion is exceptional, and that in the future our daily meetings will be for sheer hard work. (Approbation.)

I must congratulate you, sir, in being at the head of an exhibition unparalleled in the history of international displays, so far as my observation has extended. I was upon the jury at the London Exhibition, in the year 1851, and have visited every European exhibition held since that time, and I say without hesitation that, so far as I have yet been able to examine it, the display you have made in Fairmount Park eclipses everything I have seen. It may be fitly compared to a great feast, an intellectual feast, and I believe it will greatly advance, not only the material position of our countries, but that it will afford to the world a guarantee that in gathering us together you have the interests of peace at heart and that this will contribute to cement the good feeling at present existing between the nations represented here. (Long continued rounds of applause.)

The next toast, accompanied by the usual complimentary allusion to their able and honorable membership, was addressed to the American judges, to which, after "Yankee Doodle" by the band, a response was made, on the call of the Chair, by Dr. Barnard, President of Columbia College, New York.

AN IMPOSING COMMITTEE OF THE PRESBYTERIAN ASSEMBLY.

The committee, appointed for the purpose by the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church, in session at Brooklyn, this afternoon waited upon the Executive Committee of the Centennial Commission and presented the resolutions of the Assembly upon the Sunday opening question. The resolutions emphatically commend the action of the commission in closing the Exhibition. President Hawley, of the commission, was in attendance as ex officio a member of the committee. The resolutions were presented by Rev. Dr. Prime, chairman of the committee. The venerable Rev. Dr. Adams, of Madison avenue church, New York, followed in an argument in support of the resolutions, concluding with an eloquent appeal, in the course of which he reminded the Centennial management of the warning of Washington in his Farewell Address, that there could be no such thing as liberty and prosperity for us without morality, and no such thing as morality without religion. He regarded the observance of the American Sabbath as the best feature of the Exhibition that could be shown to foreigners. He had heard of what had been termed "a Puritan Sabbath," but had failed to associate the usual recognition of that day with any ideas of compulsory restraint, and closed his remarks with a poetic description of the Sabbath as a day of rest and an expression of appreciation of the courtesy extended the committee by the commission in being accorded a prompt interview.

Judge Strong, of the United States Supreme Court, said that the statute books of each of the thirteen colonies forbade labor and amusements on the Sabbath; that these laws remained or were re-enacted when those colonies entered the Union as States, and that whenever a Territory is organized laws are immediately passed for the observance of the Sabbath. Should the commission now open the gates on this day they would violate the laws of Pennsylvania and bid defiance to the laws in all the rest of the States of the Union. It has been said that laboring men need the restriction to be removed. This the speaker did not believe to be true. Some laboring men wish to enter the grounds this day and some do not; so equally do men who are not under the necessity to labor; but he believed that the great mass of laboring men respect and love the Sabbath, and that they feel they are happier and better for so doing.

Rev. Dr. Beadle, of Philadelphia, said that the delegation thanked the President and the Commission most heartily for their decision, and that they might remain firm they should receive the prayers of all Christians throughout the land.

President Hawley, in conclusion, said that the occasion had been of great interest, since so much of the Christianity and also of the material wealth of the country were represented, and he was sure the Commission were pleased with the remarks that had been made. The interview was in the highest degree dignified and courteous.

As the Commission has formally adjourned until July 1, no action can, of courese, be had at this time.

EXHIBITION NOTES.

The number of admissions on Tuesdays were:—

Cash	17,542
Complimentary	577
Exhibitors and attendants	7,548
Total	25,667

A large collection of fossils for the Kansas State buildings and a section of a white pine tree from Canada are among the latest arrivals of exhibits. The latter is eight feet five inches in diameter, and although its age is estimated to be 664 years it is perfectly sound from bark to heart.

THE SUNDAY OPENING QUESTION.

One of the most extraordinary meetings ever held in this city took place this evening. It was a public gathering of those persons who desire to support the Centennial Commissioners in their decision in closing the gates against the people on Sunday. The meeting had been widely advertised to take place in Musical Fund Hall. Every preparation had been made by its organizers to secure a good attendance of the Evangelical Protestant Church goers as a counter irritant to the recent large and enthusiastic meetings of those in favor of harmless instruction and amusement on Sunday. The result must have astonished the manager of the affair, for not only was the hall filled, but what Mr. Moody calls "overflow" meetings were formed out in the street, and the First Presbyterian church, two blocks away, was also crowded to its utmost capacity. Altogether it is probable that over 4,000 people attended the demonstration. This certainly proves that the Protestant Evangelical church members of this staid and conservative Philadelphia are in favor of closing the Exhibition doors on Sunday, but as Philadelphia is not the world, and as this exhibition is a world's fair, the friends of the masses who cannot come if the doors are not opened on Sunday do not despair. The call for the meeting was signed by a large number of eminently respectable merchants and lawyers, of ancient Presbyterian stock mostly, and the platform of the hall was covered by well known Philadelphia churchmen, like George H. Stuart and others, in the list of Vice Presidents given below. The audience, largely composed of ladies, was thoroughly in sympathy with the cause, and applauded with extreme liberality upon the slightest provocation.

Hon. William A. Porter was chosen President of the meeting. A list of over 100 gentlemen was chosen for Vice Presidents. Among them were Hon. Alexander Henry, Hon. Joseph Allison, B. B. Comegys, Dr. D. Hays Agnew, Hon. J. J. Barclay, Hon. William H. Allen, LL. D., Hon. Richard Vaux, Hon. Joseph Pollock, Edwin M. Lewis, George H. Stuart, William G. Moorehead, Thomas C. Hand and many other prominent Philadelphians.

A LEGAL VIEW.

In taking the chair, Judge Porter made a carefully prepared address, discussing the question from a purely legal standpoint. It was filled with citations of the enactments of Pennsylvania on the subject and references to cases before the courts, in which these laws have been upheld. It was a cool, slow unimpassioned argument, but it seemed to rouse the audience to a strange excitement. He strove to make his hearers feel, and he succeeded perfectly; that it was sought to violate their laws, to outrage their homes and to insult their religion. The rounded sentences of the clever lawyer evoked the loudest, most enthusiastic, almost frantic applause. His most effective point was the reading of the famous law of 1792, which has never been repealed, and which is the same law by which the class of persons who attended this meeting fought so bitterly to prevent the street cars from running on Sunday in the city only a few years ago.

ANOTHER LEGAL VIEW.

Mr. T. Charlton Henry, the second speaker, made a good point by quoting the act creating the Centennial Commission, one section of which states that the Exhibition shall be subject to the laws of this State, which, as the President of the meeting had shown, were clearly opposed to the opening of the Exhibition on that day. The speaker also claimed that it would be unjust to the holders of Centennial stock to reverse a decision which had induced them to subscribe. The $25,000,000 given by Pennsylvanians, and Philadelphia would never have been given had the people thought the Exhibition might have been opened on Sunday. Further, had the Christian people thought of the danger in the dark days when money was so sorely needed, this Exhibition would never have been opened at all." (Applause.) "Sir," said he in conclusion, "revolutions never go backward." The opening of the gate means the opening of every theatre, concert saloon and drinking den in the city. It means the pouring upon us from that city, where I see they are rigidly enforcing the Sundy laws, of the scum, the offscourings of New York. It means the breaking down of our Sabbath forever more. It means a desecration of the 150,000 homes of Philadelphia. It means the compulsory labor of 10,000 workingmen in the exhibition grounds. I believe that in the institution of the Sabbath the Lord has graciously lifted from our shoulders one seventh of the curse condemning us to earn our bread by the sweat of our brows. We are told that this law has been abrogated, but I find it written in the book of books.

A THIRD LEGAL VIEW.

The next speaker was George Gunden, Esq., a member of the Bar. He read an extract from the first law of Pennsylvania, drafted by William Penn, in 1662, and the succeeding laws relating to the Sabbath. His speech was the argument of a lawyer to prove that the opening of the Exhibition on Sunday would be a direct violation of the law of 1792, which has never been repealed, and has been repeatedly recognized.

Several other speakers followed.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were adopted vociferously:—

Whereas the government of the United States was originally founded on those principles of the Christian religion which form the only sound basis of good government, and

Whereas in exhibiting to the world, after the lapse of a century, the progress which the nation had made in the arts and sciences, in commerce and manufactures, it is proper that we should exhibit our attachment to those institutions of religion, which are essential to all national prosperity and power; therefore,

Resolved, That the strict observance of the first day of the week as a day of religious worship and rest from all worldly pursuits is alike required by the true interests of civil society and the laws of God.

Resolved, That we do hereby testify our high appreciation of the course adopted by the United States Centennial Commission in closing the grounds and buildings of the Exhibition on the Sabbath day, and we do hereby tender to the members of the Commission our cordial support in the noble stand which they have thus taken.

Resolved, That the opening of the Exhibition on that day would not only have been in conflict with the statute law of the State of Pennsylvania and of a large majority of the other States of the Union, but would have brought upon us national dishonor.

Resolved, That a committee of twenty-five citizens be appointed by the chairman of this meeting whose duty it shall be to lay before the commission a copy of these resolutions and to assure the Commissioners of the satisfaction with which their action has been received by the great mass of our citizens.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be transmitted by the secretaries of this meeting to each house of the State Legislature and to each branch of the Council of the city of Philadelphia.

Below is the committee of twenty-five citizens appointed under the above resolution:—

Hon. Judge Porter, chairman; Hon. Alexander Henry, Hon. Richard Vaux, Hon. Peter McCall, George Junden, Thomas Robens, Edwin M. Lewis, Dr. Casper Morris, Dr. D. Hayes Agnew, William Adamson, Thomas Potter, Lemuel Coffin, Martin Buehler, Hiram Miller, Henry D. Sherwood, Samuel R. Shipley, Christian J. Hoffman, William Brockie, Hon. William H. Allen, LL. D.; Professor John S. Hart, LL. D.; Thomas Kimber, Edward S. Wheelan, John Sparhawk, Alexander Whelden and John R. Whitney.

EXECUTION.

LOUISVILLE, May 24, 1876.

Eli Sneedham, alias John Cannody, the murderer of Marcus Louis, and convicted of the same at the last term of the Marshall county (Mississippi) court, was hanged at Holly Springs to-day.

The Courier-Journal's special says he made a full confession prior to his ascent to the gallows and gave signs of great penitence.

Fully 6,000 people witnessed the execution.

WALL STREET,
WEDNESDAY, May 24—6 P. M.

There exists an old saying that "enough clear sky to make a Dutchman a pair of breeches" presages clearing weather. To-day there was a rift in the clouds which have so long hung over the market, and a streak of azure, narrow, but promising, revived the failing spirits of despondent brokers. At the close of business yesterday there was much more of an appearance of blue ruin than of blue sky in prospect, and Lake Shore seemed to be particularly tinged with the obnoxious color. The report prevailed that the "insatiate archer" had let fly a death-dealing shaft and that the Commodore was mortally hurt. Down went the stock accordingly, and although the official lists report no sales under 51½, transactions were made in brokers' offices and at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, in the evening, as low as 51. This morning, however, it was discovered that the bow drawn by the "insatiate" was a very long bow indeed, that the Commodore, instead of being in extremis, was decidedly better, and that there was every reason why the price of Lake Shore should become better also. And it did—the very first sales being at 51½, with a gradual but steady improvement, which carried the stock up to 52½, a fractional recession taking place at the close.

Besides the strength afforded by the purchases of disappointed bears, who, in selling shorts on the point of the Commodore's demise, had reckoned without their host, there was the added support of a long line of "puts" falling due to-day at 52 and under, which compelled the wise operator of William street to "hold the fort," if he desired to retain his "privilege" purchase. In Pacific Mail the old conqueror's cry of "Væ victis!" went up and the stock went up also. The vanquished had to look after their short contracts, and the victors rendered the search a painful one by throwing the obstacle of constantly advancing figures in their way. So there was a bounce upward to 28¼, at which point the successful Panama people, having no further use for the stock for election purposes now that the books are closed, attempted to place it upon the market, but the short interest had been emasculated, and there was not faith enough in the future to attract buyers for the long account. Consequently there was a natural break down, which brought the price to 26⅛, or one point under the finish of last night.

In New Jersey Central, and Delaware and Lackawanna, the scarcity of stock for borrowing purposes (the first lending at a bonus of ⅛ and the latter of 1-32 per day), rather than any other reason that was perceptible, produced a firmer feeling as well as better quotations, and prices at the close registered severally 83½ and 104⅛.

There was nothing remarkable in Western Union, the market remaining firm, with a fair amount of transactions. There is a liberal distribution of information as to the formation and intentions of a new party which is said to have taken hold of this fancy, but such generosity meets with but little recognition by the old files of the street, who, if they do happen to have a weakness for old rye, are not easily caught by chaff.

It is presumed that the soi-disant granger stocks still exist, but if they do their history is told in the published prices of the official list solely.

THE SALES TO-DAY.

The transactions at the Stock Exchange to-day aggregated 153,817 shares. ADVANCE AND DECLINE.

The following are the changes in closing prices compared with those of yesterday:—

ADVANCE.—Erie, ¼; Lake Shore, ¾; Michigan Central, ⅛; New Jersey Central, ¾; Ohio and Mississippi, ⅛; Producers' and Petroleum, Land Company, 1⅜; Quicksilver, ¾; St. Paul common, ½; St. Paul preferred, ¼; Western Union, ¼; gold, ⅛.

DECLINE.—Union Pacific, 1; Pacific Mail, ¾; Hannibal and St. Joseph common, ⅛; Atlantic and Pacific Telegraph, 1¼; Atlantic and Pacific preferred, ½.

STATIONARY.—New York Central, C., C. and I. C.; C., C. C. and I., Delaware and Lackawanna, Hannibal and St. Joseph preferred, Harlem, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, Northwest common and preferred, Panama, Rock Island and Wabash.

THE FOREIGN MARKET.

London advices indicate an unsettled and uneasy condition of affairs, both in Great Britain and on the Continent. The market for securities is depressed, and, while the complications with reference to the Turkish question and Eastern matters continue, there is little probability of a change for the better. Consols and United States bonds are heavier. The former, which opened at 96 a 96⅛, closed at 95⅞ a 95¾; £86,000 bullion went into the Bank of England to-day. Money in the open market is reported a little more active. Silver is down to 52⅛d. per ounce. The following are five P. M. quotations:—Consols for money, 95⅝ a 95¾; consols for account, 95⅝ a 95¾; 1865 bonds, old, 104¼; 1867 bonds, 109½ a 109¾; ten-forty bonds, 107; new fives, 106¼ a 106½; Erie, 12¼ a 12½. French funds are weak and declining on the bad feeling owing to war rumors. Rentes at Paris after the bourse closed declined to 105f. 7c.

THE MONEY MARKET.

Money continues easy and loaned at 2 and 2½ per cent on call at the close. Loans to government dealers are made at even lower figures. The extreme range of what is classed prime mercantile paper is 4 to 6 per cent; few sales are made, however, below 5 per cent, and the quotation which represents the most business is 5 a 5½ per cent. It is generally conceded that yesterday's auction sale of dry goods will have a beneficial effect on the dry goods trade and indirectly on other branches of trade. Foreign exchange was reduced this afternoon by the leading bankers to 4.88 for bankers' sixty days sterling and 4.90 for demand, with actual business at a fraction below these rates.

Reichmarks, 95½ a 95⅝ and 96¼ a 96⅜; cables, 96⅜; prime Paris, 5.13¾ and 5.11¼.

THE UNITED STATES TREASURY.

The gold payments at the Sub-Treasury to-day were $207,000 for interest and $48,000 for five-twenties redeemed. The silver payments were $68,724. Of this amount $34,724 was in exchange for fractional notes and the remainder on currency checks. The customs receipts were $274,000.

THE GOLD MARKET.

Gold declined to 112½ on the reduction in sterling, but afterward recovered to 112⅝ and closed at that figure. The two extremes of the day were 112½ and 112¾. The rates paid for carrying were 1 to 2 per cent and for borrowing flat.

The President of the latter company reports the opening of two new flowing wells on their tract in Bradford county, Pennsylvania, which increased the net earnings last week $250 daily. He also states that twenty or more wells are in different stages of completion.

BANK SHARES.

Bank shares were dull, the only reported sales being in City at 300 and Commerce at 115. The latest bids are annexed:—American Exchange, 108¾; Central National, 101½; City, 300; Commerce, 115; First National, 200; Fifth Avenue, 210; German-American, 60; Grocers', 93; Hanover, 72; Importers and Traders', 193; Manhattan, 135; Market, 113; Merchants', 110¼; Metropolitan, 119; Nassau, 100; New York, 116½; Ninth National, 80; Peoples', 135; Republic, 78; St. Nicholas, 98; State of New York (new), 114.

RAILROAD BONDS.

Railroad bonds are quiet and generally steady; the only changes were:—An advance of ⅜ per cent in Chicago and Northwest consolidated coupon gold bonds, ⅜ per cent in Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific sevens, and ½ per cent in St. Louis and Iron Mountain first; and a decline of ¾ per cent in Chicago and Northwest consolidated, ⅜ per cent in Lehigh and Wilkesbarre consolidated, ½ per cent in Union sinking fund, and ⅜ per cent in Union Pacific Railroad first mortgage. In the late afternoon dealings Milwaukee and St. Paul convertible sinking funds rose to 89¼, and were in demand. Morris and Essex firsts brought 115, and consolidated 107. New Jersey Central convertible sold at 101. Union Pacific firsts declined to 105, and the sinking funds to 89⅛. Central Pacifics sold at 108⅝, and Fort Wayne thirds at 105. The following were the closing quotations for Pacific Railroad bonds:—Union Pacific firsts, 104⅞ a 105; do., land grants, 99 a 99½; do., sinking funds, 89 a 89¼; Central Pacifics, 108¾ a 109.

STATE BONDS.

The only sales of State bonds were Missouri sixes (Hannibal and St. Joseph issue), which were steady at 102½. District of Columbia 3.65's declined to 70.

MEMORANDA.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad's gross earnings for the years of 1874, 1875 and 1876 compare as follows:—

	1874.	1875.	1876.
Third week of May	$204,209	$169,581	$187,000
Three weeks of May	624,800	510,020	523,765
Since January 1	3,255,045	2,441,829	2,787,027

A Philadelphia despatch says:—"The trustee of the estate of Jay Cooke & Co. has paid to the United States the sum of $678,000, being a claim which the Navy Department held against the estate, and which the Supreme Court decided had priority over other claims. The above sum had been realized from the sale of firm and individual assets, and as it was all the cash in hand a further dividend to the general creditors at the present time is impossible. The result of the dry goods sale yesterday has helped the cotton market, which is more active at 12 23-32c. bid for June and 12 15-16c. bid for July."

Canal freights from Buffalo to New York are reported at 6¼ cents on wheat, which is the lowest figure ever reached. By the lake boats the freight is 2¼ cents per bushel of wheat from Chicago to Buffalo.

COTTON ON THE SPOT FIRM—FUTURES UNSETTLED—FLOUR QUIET—WHEAT ACTIVE—CORN QUIET—OATS UNSETTLED AND LOWER—WHISKEY EASIER—PORK UNSETTLED AND LOWER—LARD UNSETTLED AND LOWER—PETROLEUM UNCHANGED—SPIRITS TURPENTINE QUIET—ROSIN FIRM—OILS STEADY—FREIGHTS, STEAMER ROOM FOR GRAIN FIRM FOR PROMPT USE, CHARTERING TONNAGE BARELY STEADY—COFFEE ACTIVE—SUGAR FIRM.

WEDNESDAY, May 24—6 P. M.

There was but little change in the general aspect of mercantile affairs, yet in a few instances there was decided activity, while in others as decided dulness and depression. On 'Change flour was quiet, but the chief feature of interest was the decided activity in wheat, which was taken freely for export at steady prices, except for low grades, which favored the buyer. Corn was in moderate demand, and prices were nearly the same. Oats were unsettled and lower. Whiskey was a shade off. Pork and lard were unsettled and decidedly lower. Freights—Grain tonnage at the moment was tame, with only a moderate demand; market otherwise was steady, with a fair demand for petroleum vessels and berth room per steam. Cotton on the spot was firm; futures were unsettled. Coffee was active. Naval stores were quiet, and lower for spirits of turpentine. Oils were quiet, but steady. Petroleum was quiet, but prices were unchanged. Sugar was firm.

COFFEE.—The market for Rio was a little more active, but prices remained the same as before reported. Sales were 1,253 bags, ex Imperio; 513 do., ex Kepler, and 517 do., ex John Bramhall. Mild coffee was quiet. We quote:—Ordinary cargoes, 15¼c. a 15½c.; fair do., 17c. a 17¼c.; good do., 17½c. a 17¾c.; prime do., 18c. a 18¼c.; extreme range for lots, 15¼c. a 19½c.; Santos, fair to good, 16¾c. a 17½c., gold, ninety days; Java, government bags, 20c. a 22c.; do., grass mats, 21c. a 24c.; Singapore, do., 18½c. a 20c.; Ceylon, 17½c. a 19c.; Maracaibo, 16c. a 19c.; Laguayra, 17½c. a 18½c.; Jamaica, 17c. a 18c.; St. Domingo, 15⅛c. a 15½c.; Porto Rico, 18c. a 19c.; Costa Rica, 17c. a 19c.; Macassar, 18½c. a 19½c.; Mexican, 17c. a 18c.; Manila, 17c. a 18c.; Angostura, 17c. a 18c.; Savanilla, 16c. a 18½c.; Curacoa, 16c. a 17½c.

COTTON.—There was a better inquiry for spot, principally for export, and the market ruled firm. Futures were unsettled. The closing prices to-day compare with Tuesday's prices as follows:—

CLEVER YOUNG BURGLARS.

On the 19th of this month William M. Hartzell, Chief of Police of Pittsburg, Pa., sent postal cards all over the country, giving information of the robbery of a safe of Messrs. Wilson, Walker & Co., of the Union Forge and Iron Mills, at Pittsburg, and stating that he wanted Pierre Langden and August Urban for the burglary by which those persons procured $3,300. The case was put by Superintendent Walling into the hands of Detectives Von Gerichten and Ferris, of the Central Office, who succeeded in arresting Langdon and Urban at a hotel in Cortlandt street, where they had given their names as John Smith and William Lynch. On being arrested they confessed that they stole the money; that Langden took the impression of the key of the safe, and that August Urban made the key with which they opened the safe. Both were employed by the plundered firm as clerks. After leaving Pittsburg they went to Baltimore and Washington, and thence came to this city yesterday morning. They were arraigned before Judge Smith, at the Washington Place Police Court, yesterday morning, and were by him remanded to the Central Office to await the arrival of the complainant and a Pittsburg officer.

AT DEATH'S DOOR.

Massachusetts Murderers Preparing for the Scaffold.

Piper, the Belfry Murderer, and His Terrible Crimes.

FROST, THE PETERSHAM BUTCHER.

BOSTON, May 24, 1876.

Public interest in Boston just now clusters around the fate of Thomas W. Piper, the belfry murderer, whose execution is arranged for next Friday forenoon. Indeed it may be said that not since the hanging of Professor Webster, for the murder of Dr. Parkman, has there been such a high and general excitement over any kindred event as that which seems to be generated by the pending or approaching fate of the murderer of Mabel Young and Bridget Landergan. The tragedy in the belfry was of itself sufficiently horrible to arouse a community, but since the convicted wretch has owned up to the commission and attempts of other tragedies equally diabolical the indignation and excitement has been almost unbounded. There seem to be few, if any, palliating features or extenuating circumstances connected with the unfortunate position in which the condemned man finds himself. On the contrary, the developments of investigation, as well as his own detailed confessions since there seemed to be no hope of escaping the gallows, all go to show that in Piper's execution the world will be relieved of the presence of one of who ever dangled from the end of a rope. It is hardly necessary to say that he finds little sympathy, for even the philanthropists, who usually seek to interrupt just so on occasions of this kind, have not seen fit to be very industrious in his behalf, a circumstance which indicates that the condemned man will find but little mercy this side of eternity.

THE VILEST AND MOST UNMERCIFUL VILLAINS

THE DOOMED MAN AND HIS VICTIMS.

The public are already too sadly familiar with Piper's infamous career. His name, however, can hardly be mentioned or thought of without recalling his appalling crimes and innocent victims—the bright little girl of five years, Mabel H. Young; the domestic, Bridget Landergan; the castaway, Mary Tyner, whom the fiend thought he had killed, but who miraculously recovered, and is now ending her life in an insane asylum, and the Sullivan girl, whom he knocked senseless, and would have killed if he had not been frightened by the sound of approaching footsteps. The murder of Bridget Landergan was the first of Piper's capital crimes. She was a domestic in the employ of Sheldon Barry, on Bellevue avenue, in the Dorchester district, and was beaten to death with a club made from the end of a wagon shaft, on the highway, near Columbia street, on the evening of December 7, 1873. Piper was arrested at the time, but afterward released, and shortly afterward Thomas Cahill, the girl's lover, was extradited from Ireland for the crime, but never brought to trial, and the murder was added to the long list of unsolved crimes until Piper confessed to being the perpetrator. Mary Tyner, a young woman of questionable character, his second victim, was found in her room on Oxford street, on the 2d of July, 1874, terribly mangled about the head, and she was not expected to survive. That she did was almost miraculous, but fully as strange as her recovery was the fact that she steadfastly refused to say anything regarding her assailant, and the affair remained a deep mystery until confessed and explained by the fiendish Piper. This woman is now in the Taunton Insane Asylum, whither she was conveyed from Deer Island, where she had been committed from Boston as a night walker. She is now violently and hopelessly insane. The butchery of Mabel Young was on Sunday, the 23d of May, 1875, in the Warren avenue church tower, into which Piper decoyed the little innocent, and then brutally murdered her with a bat stick. His attempt to conceal his crime and subsequent movements have all been described in the HERALD from time to time, and a repetition is not now called for. Suspicion and arrest speedily followed, but two trials were necessary before a conviction was secured, the jury having disagreed in the first instance.

THE MOTIVE

which animated Piper in committing his atrocious crimes appears to have been a morbid desire for bloodshed, supplemented with an almost animal lust, and these weaknesses of human nature, aggravated by constant and copious draughts of opium and whiskey. In view of the statement by Piper in his confession, that an irresistible influence impelled him to murder the Landergan girl, it is worth while to recall the testimony of a colored girl who saw the man stooping over the body and in such a manner as to indicate pretty clearly that the criminal, whoever he was, had for his object simply lust. The manner in which the Landergan girl's clothing was torn would also seem to demonstrate that Piper's "irresistible impulse" was traceable to a most brutish lust. It is a fact which has never been published, that the brute in his confession stated that he murdered the Landergan woman that he might experience the sensation of outraging her after death. The whole character of the man, as revealed in his conduct in prison and the stories told of his filthy habits by those who know him, are too disgusting for publication.

PREPARING FOR THE FINAL ORDEAL.

Ever since making his confession Piper has manifested the feelings of sorrow and repentance characteristic of the general run of murderous villains. It may be that they are deceived, but the clergymen who visit and administer consolation and spiritual advice to him believe that the wretch is sincerely sorry for his crimes. The general public, however, believe that his sorrow is more on account of being detected than for the crimes themselves. On one occasion, previous to the murder of Mabel Young, Piper spent the night at the residence of Rev. Mr. Pentecost, and after he had retired the clergyman heard groans proceeding from his chamber, and upon the door being forced open he was found in bed with his head wrapped in towels copiously saturated with chloroform. A physician was at once sent for, who declared that in two or three minutes more death would have ensued from suffocation. Whether the cause of this attempt at self-destruction was remorse or the effects of whiskey and opium is not known, but it is unfortunate that he did not succeed in ending his existence, and thus the life of Mabel Young would have been spared, even though the murderer of Bridget Landergan was never known. While the condemned man, as the end draws near, indulges in professions of repentance, it is nevertheless noticeable that even if his conscience is disturbed it does not tell upon him physically. He eats and sleeps as well as the best of us, and in appearance is as healthy and robust as a man could be expected to be after a year's incarceration in jail. The only ones permitted to visit him are the clergymen and his immediate relatives.

THE CROWDS OF APPLICANTS TO WITNESS THE EXECUTION.

It is surprising what a multitude of anxious people there are who are curious to witness this particular execution. Hundreds and hundreds of applications have been received daily by the Sheriff from all parts of the country and from all classes of people. The fact that there is such a universal curiosity to witness the hanging is evidence that the doom which awaits the condemned man is not generally lamented by the community. Besides the regular legal witnesses and representatives of the press the attendants will be very limited in number.

AN INNOCENT MAN'S NARROW ESCAPE FROM THE SCAFFOLD.

The uncertainty and unreliability of circumstantial evidence is well illustrated in a case where an entirely innocent man came near being convicted and hung for the murder of Bridget Landergan, the unfortunate woman slain by the fiend Piper on the night of December 5, 1873. The man who thus escaped was Thomas Cahill, who was extradited from Ireland, confined in jail in Boston for a long time, and finally set at liberty, but in such a manner as to have left an impression of his probable guilt if it had not been for the well authenticated confession just made by Piper. The circumstances, as they appeared at the time, were in many respects very strong against Cahill, but hardly sufficient to warrant the extreme measures which were resorted to by the officers seeking to find the guilty murderer. He was known to be a friend—a very intimate friend—of Bridget Landergan. On the night of the murder he was said to have been at a drunken powwow in the neighborhood of where her body was found, and the day following the tragedy he took the Cunard steamer Marathon for Ireland, and a fresh cut and fresh blood was noticed on one of his hands when he went on board.

THE REASON OF HIS TRIP TO IRELAND.

It has since turned out that the reason of Cahill's trip to Ireland was to help his old father in the work of carrying on an old farm near Galway, and his passage on the Marathon had been secured a week or ten days before the murder. On the afternoon of the day of the murder, at the very hour when he was alleged to have been prowling about the Dorchester district, he was changing greenbacks for gold at a bank on State street, and his transactions were the last recorded in the bank on that day. By his picking up a £20 bank note and giving it to a young man in the service of a neighboring bank Cahill was enabled to prove satisfactorily his whereabouts in the afternoon. He went out to visit his relatives in the Dorchester district later in the day, and in the evening, in company with his brother-in-law, walked over the very spot where Bridget Landergan was afterward found dead. Had his convivial time been held mainly in the Dorchester district, and had he, under the influence of liquor, walked alone to Roxbury,

AN INNOCENT MAN WOULD HAVE GONE TO THE SCAFFOLD,

in all probability. Certainly if he had been found by the roadside in a drunken stupor he would have long since suffered an ignominious death. But he went to his boarding house and finished up with a farewell spree. The wound on his hand, it has since been shown, was caused by a cut from an iron hoop on his trunk when he took it over to the steamer, and the blood spurted over his clothing in a very generous manner. These were only a few of the many suspicious circumstances which were brought up to secure the extradition of Cahill from Ireland to be tried for the Landergan murder, but, as already stated, he was never brought to trial.

FROST, THE PETERSHAM MURDERER.

ANOTHER MASSACHUSETTS FIEND TO BE HUNG AT WORCESTER ON FRIDAY—ONE OF THE MOST SICKENING BUTCHERIES EVER HEARD OF—A HARD STRUGGLE TO "DIE GAME."

WORCESTER, May 24, 1876.

On the same day that Piper gives up his life for the murder of Mabel Young in the Boston church belfry, there will be also executed at the jail in this city the perpetrator of one of the most fiendish and revolting human butcheries ever known in a civilized community. The murderer is Samuel J. Frost and the victim was Franklin B. Towne, his brother-in-law, whom he killed in Petersham on the 4th of July, 1875. The motive of the murder was to secure property and money, and after the deed was committed the body was cut up into sections and secreted in different parts of a dense wood, near the spot where the unfortunate man was killed. It was not until a month after the murder that any portion of the remains were found, and then only the trunk of the body, minus head and legs. A negro was walking through the woods one afternoon, and just before him rose up which was so dense as to attract his attention. Upon examination he found under some leaves the headless and legless trunk just described. The alarm was given, suspicion at once fastened upon Frost, and he was arrested in a hiding place on the same day. Previous to the discovery, and while Towne was missing, Frost gave it out that he had gone to California, and the story was more than half believed. The head of the body was found soon after, but the legs were never discovered, and even now, just as he is about to suffer the death penalty, the murderer refuses to give information which will lead to the discovery of the balance of the body.

A SWARM OF FLIES,

HOW THE KILLING WAS EXPLAINED.

The defence came before the jury prepared to prove that Frost was not guilty of the crime to the full extent charged by the indictment. The killing of Frank P. Towne by Samuel J. Frost they should admit, but they should deny him guilty of that degree of crime which is punishable with death. The counsellor called for pity for the wretched man the jury saw before them, who, with one fell blow, had destroyed the man who had been to him a friend and a brother; who was now deprived of the sympathy and support of a wife, whom the jury had seen, strangely enough, using every effort to secure her husband's death. Explaining the different degrees of murder the counsel said the defence would show that

THIS MURDER WAS NOT COMMITTED WITH MALICE AFORETHOUGHT,

or with unusual atrocity. The defence would show that up to the time of the murder both men were on friendly terms with each other; that on the morning the murder was committed Frost was milking a heifer in the barn, when Towne came up and remarked that he did not like Frost's style of milking; that both men became angered, a struggle ensued and both rolled together on the barn floor; that Frost, in trying to rise, placed his hand upon the kicker beam, when it unexpectedly fell upon a piece of iron broken off from the top of the sledge hammer; that, grasping this iron, in the heat of passion, the prisoner struck the fatal blow. The defence would show that the prisoner, even after he had struck the blow, did not think Towne fatally injured, but that when he found, after his milking was done, that his brother-in-law was dead, he was filled with utter dismay, and began following the suggestion of his first thought, to that he first buried the body in the barn cellar, and afterward, finding that the burial place had been visited by some one other than himself, cut up the body, placed it in sacks and removed it to the corn field, where it was found buried. The defence would deny that the body was buried at all in the swamp, and asked the jury to separate the events after the murder, the insults to the corpse, from the murder itself. The counsel declared the defence would show that all Frost's actions after the murder were those induced by attempts to conceal his crime, which filled him with terror unspeakable, and from which arrest was a welcome release.

The prisoner, not less than the audience, listened almost breathlessly to the unfolding of the theory which the defence wished to establish, and as the prisoner at its conclusion sank back into his chair with a relieved look he seemed to have more sympathy among the spectators than had been shown at any time during the trial.

A THRILLING ACCOUNT OF THE MURDER BY FROST HIMSELF.

Probably there never was a more tragic and thrilling scene witnessed in a court room than on the occasion when Frost gave his story of the tragedy for which he is to be executed. When he entered the witness stand the interest, curiosity and excitement in the case reached a climax. He stood as a witness for over three hours, and his demeanor during that time was marked by an earnestness which was almost painful to observe. At times, especially as was placed before him, he showed deep feeling; at other times he told his story with such an absence of hesitation and with such avidity as to cause his hearers to give but little credence to it. All his answers were clearly given, and he often stepped from the stand to illustrate the positions of the murderer and his victim during that fatal struggle in the barn. His testimony seemed to be rather a plea in his own defence, and, horrible as were the unfoldings, it charmed as a venomous snake every person in the audience. The prisoner related incidents before and after the murder substantially as witnesses for the government had detailed them. Here is his story:—

"Then Mr. Towne came along and stops beside of me, and says, 'I don't like your style of milking;' 'Well, the heifer does,' I said; he put his left hand on the pail and his right hand on my left shoulder; I reached down and took hold of the box; he tried to pull the pail away; I held on to it and tried to keep it from him; he pushed me, and I fell over and my head struck on the stanchion; I told him to let me up, and he said, 'Let go the pail, then.'"

Counsel—Where were you?

Prisoner—I was down.

Counsel—Where was he?

Prisoner—He was down, holding on to me; he could not get his hand down to shut off my wind.

Here the prisoner hesitated, and said he would rather not tell the exact words that followed, but counsel insisted, and Frost went on:—

"I said, 'Get off of me, damned quick!' he said, 'Not till you let go the pail;' I said, 'I shan't do that until I am forced to;' I reached for and which was in the rack, but let go because I couldn't get it out; then I got hold of another, which was called the "little boys' bat stick," from the boys using it for a bat stick; I raised my hand up so (illustrating) and hit Mr. Towne in the face; then I brought up my hand again and hit him again; then I brought it up again and hit him again; the first time I struck him I brought blood; he kept hold of the stick and undertook to pull it away from me; as he commenced to pull I commenced to pull; he was a heavier man than me, although he wasn't so quick and didn't understand handling himself quite so well; we had it there for some minutes; we were nearly side by side; we were near the side of the barn; he got his arm around my neck; I got his head down and tried to get hold of a stick there was there; I held his head down by his chin whiskers and he held my head down with his left arm; I tried to raise myself up, and with it there (pointing with his finger to a spot over and just back of the right eye. The skull was then produced and Frost pointed out the exact spot where the blow fell); I should think right on this bone here (pointing); I struck him twice, the first time right on the back of his head, there (pointing); he sings out 'By gorry!' I had his head down then and had my hand right in his whiskers, like that; the first blow struck Towne in the face there (pointing), and the last in the back of the head, here (pointing again); I said, 'you're satisfied now, are you?' This basket (pointing it out) lay right in his hand; all the hold he had of me was his left arm right over my neck; he was on his knee and I was on my knee; then I gets up; after he says 'By gorry,' I gets up;

MY RIGHT HAND FELL ON THIS PIECE OF IRON AND I STRUCK HIM

I HAD THAT IRON IN MY HAND;

I pulled that stick out of his hand and I pulled his hand out from under his head, and he put it back and stiffened out there, his face flat on the floor; I walked right out to the door and throwed the iron and bat-stick straight out across the road."

Counsel—Into the woodpile where it was found?

Prisoner—Yes, sir; then I sat down in the door.

Counsel—What did you do?

Prisoner—I straightened out my clothes; then I went back and took this pail (pointing) and began milking;

I DIDN'T KNOW THAT HE WAS DEAD

until after I got through milking the white faced heifer; after I got through I said, "Come, get up and finish milking;" the milk was spilled from his pail in the scuffle; after I got through milking I went over to him and said, "For God's sake, are you dead?" there was no blood there except what came from his nose and mouth; I examined him, but I couldn't see any sign of life.

Here the guilty man's voice trembled and almost failed him, and the court room was still as death. The testimony produced a strong impression upon all who heard it, but it did not persuade the jury.

PREPARING FOR THE ROPE.

Frost has never for a moment manifested any signs of repentance or contrition for his crime. On the contrary he has been remarkably cheerful, and has gained some twenty-five pounds in weight since he was sentenced to death. The other day, when weighed, he remarked that he "would soon be fat enough to kill." He has occupied much of his time in playing checkers, but early this week the officers of the jail cut short this amusement, much to the disgust of the murderer. In the absence of anything to occupy his mind he has since been very much downcast, but he still endeavors to preserve an indifference to his fate, and refuses to be repentant for his crime.

THE COURTS.

How Criminals Go Unwhipped of Justice.

RAIDING STRAW BAIL GIVERS.

Reforms That Are Very Much Wanted.

Arraignments and Pleas in the Crooked Whiskey Suits.

A great many people no doubt were surprised by the statement of United States District Attorney Bliss before the Congressional Investigating Committee on Tuesday in relation to straw bail. He declared that furnishing bonds for the release of offenders has now become a business, and that a man in Chambers street keeps a large safe full of deeds of water lots, property heavily encumbered or in distant States, occasionally of no property at all, or bogus deeds of good real estate which the party presenting says have not yet been registered, and all of them very ingeniously executed. These he rents or sells to persons desiring to raise bail, and it is often a difficult matter to detect them. The business, Mr. Bliss said, proves so extensive and remunerative that some one has now started a shop in opposition to the Chambers street man.

It is well known to criminal lawyers and detectives that there is in this city a class of persons who furnish straw bail at the police courts who have no deeds or bonds, bogus or otherwise, but whose whole stock in trade consists of implacable "cheek" and the ability to swear "powerful strong." There is a barroom near the City Hall where these people most do congregate, and for the price of a few drinks the friends of a prisoner can there find a professional gentleman who will swear he is worth any amount of money and will give bonds in any sum required. These people seem to be intimately acquainted with the topography of the town, and can tell without hesitation the precise location of any number of eligible brown stone front houses and fine building sites, which they perhaps never saw but once, although they swear volubly as to the date on which they purchased them, and evolve from their inner consciousness the whole history of the property for a quarter of a century past. District Attorney Phelps is determined to make things hot for these fellows, and extreme circumspection is now observed in releasing criminals on bonds.

An old man named Alexander P. McKenzie, who is said to have made straw bail giving a profession for many years, was arrested at No. 1,078 Third avenue yesterday by Detectives O'Connor and Field, of the District Attorney's office. The particular charge on which McKenzie was arrested grew out of a little transaction before Judge Morgan, at the Washington Place Police Court, on the 1st of February last. Arthur Seitz, an employé of the Domestic Sewing Machine Company, on the 24th of January drew from the Bank of the Metropolis, corner of Broadway and Sixteenth street, the sum of $2,500. While he stood in the bank counting the money it was snatched from his hands by one Henry Wilson, of No. 145 West Twenty-eighth street. Seitz managed to catch the thief before he reached the door, and Wilson, finding himself captured, very skilfully concealed a portion of the money and handed the rest back to Seitz with the remark:—"Here, take your money and don't make a fuss!" The ruse did not work, however, and he was given into custody and locked up. On the 1st of February he was arraigned before Justice Morgan, at the Washington Place Police Court, and applied for release on bail. The Court fixed the sum at $4,000, and McKenzie appeared and furnished bonds in the sum required. He swore that he was owner of a plot of ground on the north side of Eighty-fourth street, between Fourth and Madison avenues, worth $9,000. The questions relating as to how he came into possession of it were answered satisfactorily, the bonds were accepted and the prisoner released. When the time for the trial arrived Wilson failed to appear. His bondsman was then called for, but he, too, was missing. The bail was declared forfeited, and District Attorney Phelps had the title of the property on Eighty-fourth street examined, when it was found that McKenzie had never owned an inch of it. The detectives called then at the place he had given as his residence, but he was not found till last night, when he was found at the place stated above and arrested on a bench warrant. The prisoner was committed to the Tombs without bail.

SOME NEEDED CHANGES.

Judicial illness does not seem to be confined to the State courts, and the new Court House is not the only badly ventilated building in which the courts are held. Judge Sutherland was yesterday taken seriously ill while on the bench of the Court of General Sessions engaged in trying the case of Williamson, the bond forger. By a great effort he managed to bear up long enough to charge the jury and conclude the case. The attack is attributed to the poisonous atmosphere of the court room, which is absolutely without any means of ventilation, although it is crowded every day by jurors, counsel and witnesses, not to mention the fact that a score of filthy prisoners are frequently penned up in a box in one end of the room awaiting arraignment. The rooms on the third story which have been vacated by parts 3 and 4 of the Marine Court, and which Judge Gildersleeve will occupy with part 2 of the Court of General Sessions on the 1st of June, are, if possible, still more miserable in every particular. The accommodations provided for this court are ludicrously inadequate. Cases of larceny from the person are tried almost every day, in which the witnesses are women of the town, and a just trial necessitates the relation on the stand of occurrences which no honest woman of any class in life should be compelled to hear. Yet one side of the court room is constantly filled with women and girls of tender years summoned as witnesses in the various cases, and they are of course compelled to listen to the repetition of conversations made up of slang, obscenity and profanity, not unfrequently made still more disgusting by the questionable jokes of not over-fastidious counsel. All this could be avoided if there were a room provided for the accommodation of witnesses till they should be called. Another reason why there should be more room, and perhaps, so far as the administration of justice is concerned, a more important one, is that witnesses called in defence of a criminal sit in court and hear all the testimony for the prosecution, so that they know exactly what to swear to in order to make out a case for their friend. Assistant District Attorney Bell in important cases now forces all witnesses for the prisoner to withdraw while the examination is in progress, and this action is found sometimes to have a very disconcerting effect upon the prisoner's case. But this plan has many disadvantages apart from its inconvenience and loss of time, for the witnesses, being turned out into the corridor, frequently are not to be found when called for.

JUDGE SUTHERLAND'S WARD.

On the 9th of this month a woman named Catherine McCabe, of No. 431 Third avenue, went into the rectifying establishment of James Brannegan, No. 237 East Twenty-second street, and, presenting a $20 note, asked for the change of it. The bartender had no change, but accommodated the woman by getting small bills for the note at a neighboring store. The bartender, to his surprise, soon after discovered that the note was a counterfeit, when he at once started to hunt up Catherine, who in the meantime had gone on a big spree, and, being arrested and sent to Blackwell's Island, the victimized bartender could not trace her, and of course lost his money. After Catherine's release she paid another visit to Brannegan, was at once recognized and arrested, and was yesterday taken before United States Commissioner Shields. She stated, on examination, that Judge Sutherland was her guardian, and would go bail for her. But on application to the Judge he repudiated Catherine's claim, and she was held in $500 bail, which she could not procure.

THE CROOKED WHISKEY CASES.

The case of the United States against the parties indicted by the Grand Jury for alleged crooked whiskey frauds was called up yesterday, before Judge Benedict, in the United States Circuit Court. The parties with whose trials the District Attorney is prepared to proceed were brought into court to plead. These were:—John R. Ely, F. O. Boyd, Edgar P. Hill, Emanuel Eising, James Anthony, Edward A. Bowry, William Miller and William M. Rice. The accused all pleaded guilty, with leave to withdraw that plea and plead anew before the second day of the next term.

SUMMARY OF LAW CASES.

Mrs. E. Henrietta Whitehurst obtained a verdict of $500 damages in the Superior Court, before Judge Curtis, yesterday, against Charles Jackson and others, proprietors of the Twenty-third street and Broadway stages, for injuries received through the carelessness of one of defendants' drivers.

Attorney General Fairchild has directed a stay of proceedings in the Bleecker Street Railroad suit to forfeit the franchises of the company on the ground of its insolvency.

District Attorney Bliss received a telegraphic despatch yesterday from General Butler stating that he would be in the city to-day, and would be prepared to go on with the trial of Lawrence, and it may therefore be fairly expected that the case will at last come to an issue.

The case of Abraham Miller against the corporations of New York city and Brooklyn and the trustees of the East River Bridge, which was set down for a hearing yesterday, before Judge Johnson, on a motion for a preliminary injunction to restrain further progress on the construction of the bridge, was postponed till the 12th of July.

After nearly three weeks' trial the testimony in the suit brought by the widow of John Kellum, architect, against the city to recover some $190,000 percentage, claimed to be due for building the New Court House, was concluded yesterday. The respective counsel will sum up this morning, and it is probable that a verdict will be reached to-day.

In the suit brought by R. W. Martin against Jay Gould and others, to recover $84,000 on account of gold transactions on "black Friday," a motion was made yesterday before Judge Speir, holding Special Term of the Superior Court, for leave to serve a complaint, the time for such service having passed by unknown to the counsel. Judge Speir said it was a question in his mind whether he had the power to do so, but he would, however, do so with leave for the matter to be heard in the first instance at General Term.

A trial was commenced yesterday before Judge Dyckman, holding Supreme Court, Circuit, in which Pavenstedt & Co., brokers, are plaintiffs, and Gillespie, Trowbridge & Co., tea dealers, are defendants. Plaintiffs sold $18,000 worth of tea to defendants, who failed without making payment, whereupon plaintiffs directed the Sheriff to seize and take away their tea, and found there about $14,000 worth remaining. The suit was brought to determine whether plaintiffs had handed over title as well as possession to defendants. The trial will probably occupy a day or two.

After a long continued and acrimonious litigation the suit brought to remove from the bench Judge Flanagan, of the Tenth Civil Judicial district, on the ground of the alleged illegality of his election, has reached a final adjudication in his favor in the Court of Appeals. Judge Flanagan was elected to his present position at the next general election after the passage of the Annexation act. A quo warranto suit was instituted by Mr. James R. Angel, the defeated candidate, to effect his removal, because the election was conducted in accordance with the general election laws instead of city election laws. The case was tried before Judge Van Brunt, in Supreme Court, Circuit, and resulted in a verdict in favor of Judge Flanagan. This judgment was affirmed unanimously by the judges of the Supreme Court, General Term, and now, as already stated, has again been affirmed by the Court of Appeals. And thus ends this long legal controversy. Judge Flanagan's term of office continues till January 1, 1880, with a salary of $8,000 a year, instead of $6,000, the sum paid to the other Civil District Court judges. The victory, therefore, is something substantial.

DECISIONS.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

By Judge Barrett.

Everton vs. Everton.—I am not satisfied either with the proof of service or that of adultery. Dixon's testimony is not corroborated, and he gives no sufficient account of himself, nor does it appear how Brown came to point defendant out to the process server, nor how he knew him, and the subsequent identification through a third person is too remote.

Ward vs. Ward.—I am unwilling to grant a divorce on the unsupported testimony of the person who was called, nor without stronger evidence, and the proof of residence should be by some person other than the plaintiff.

The Mutual Life Insurance Company vs. Grant; in the matter of Margaret E. Jack, an infant.—Reports confirmed and orders granted.

SUPREME COURT—SPECIAL TERM.

By Judge Van Vorst.

Hatfield et al. vs. Macy et al.—Motion for a new trial denied, with $10 costs.

Marshall et al. vs. Macy et. al.—Motion for a new trial for surprise, &c., denied. Opinion.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Sutherland.

THE BOND FORGERIES—CONVICTION OF WILLIAMSON.

The trial of Charles J. Williamson, an alleged principal of the Roberts-Gleason gang of bond forgers, which was begun on Friday last, was yesterday concluded. Assistant District Attorney Rollins consumed about three hours in summing up the testimony on behalf of the prosecution. At the conclusion of his address the jury deliberated but a moment and returned a verdict of guilty of the second count in the indictment, which charged the prisoner with uttering forged bonds, knowing them to be forged. Williams was remanded to await trial on other indictments, of which there are about fifty pending against him.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

Detective O'Neil, of the Ninth precinct, arrested three boys yesterday who gave their names as George Vansickle, Edward Crospin and William H. Cornish, who were charged with stealing from an unoccupied house, No. 692 Greenwich street, leaden pipe valued at about $300. The prisoners were brought before Justice Smith, at the Washington Place Police Court, yesterday afternoon, who committed them in default of $1,000 bail each.

Jacques Trequire, of No. 79 Crosby street, was brought before Justice Smith on the charge of stealing from the person of Justin Guntz, residing at No. 47 Wooster street, a pocketbook, containing $12, in a Seventh avenue car, yesterday morning. The prisoner was held in $500 bail to answer.

Charles Houlton, a commission merchant, of No. 94 Warren street, charged Jonathan L. Godfrey, of No. 192 Raymond street, Brooklyn, with embezzling the sum of $41 65, which he received for his employer from J. F. Schott. Justice Smith held the prisoner for examination.

THE BROOKLYN BRIDGE.

GENERAL JOHN NEWTON THINKS IT CANNOT BE RAISED HIGHER.

General John Newton, of the United States Engineers, who was one of the commission of engineers who reported upon the details of the Brooklyn Bridge, in a casual conversation with the writer a day or two ago stated that he did not see how the courts could interfere with the completion of it since the action of Congress was final. The persons who now complain that it is too low and that the commerce of the port will be ruined are rather late in arriving at that conclusion. They had, when the bill was before Congress, every opportunity to present their objections, yet they failed to offer any that were considered tenable. The engineers might err, but they had carefully considered the whole subject and decided upon the present height, which is five feet in excess of what was originally intended. The General states that owing to the elevation of the land on either side of the river it is impossible to throw the span at a higher altitude. While the towers could be continued higher, the land where the approaches are to be made will not permit of raising the bridge. There is not a vessel afloat, he believed, which cannot pass under the span by striking the topmast. The Great Republic could go under with her topmast down. "The great hardship to commerce," he continued, "is that we no longer have experienced sailors. Nearly all the crews in the merchant marine are composed of inexperienced men, who have not sufficient knowledge to strike the topmasts, and shipowners will be compelled to call in the services of professional riggers to do the work."

BROOKLYN RAPID TRANSIT.

Yesterday ground was formally broken for the construction of the Brooklyn Silent Safety Elevated Railway at the intersection of Lexington and Reid avenues in the presence of about 500 persons. Mayor Schroeder, who turned the first shovelful of earth, was introduced to the assemblage by the president of the company, Mr. John H. Burtis. The Mayor said, on coming forward, that though he might differ with some of his fellow citizens as to the best mode of bringing about rapid communication between the outer wards and the City Hall and New York, while we live in this great Republic the majority must rule. After having expressed his views to the Board of Aldermen and found that they overruled him by a large majority, he said he was bound to submit to their superior judgment. He would wish "God speed" to the new Elevated Railway Company.

Remarks were made by President French, of the Common Council; Aldermen Fisher, Rowley and Hill and Rev. A. Stewart Walsh.

A.—A.—ALL PERSONS DESIROUS OF PURCHASING a genuine second hand Steinway Piano are invited to call at our warerooms, where a number of Steinway Pianos, all in perfect condition and some nearly new, are constantly on hand; also second hand Pianos of other makers.

Attempts are constantly made in this city and elsewhere by makers of bogus pianos and their agents to sell their inferior instruments, bearing our name or a name spelled so similar that many people do not notice the difference, and purchase the spurious, worthless instrument for a genuine Steinway piano. If persons, before purchasing such instrument, will take the number of same and call on or write to us, it can at once be ascertained whether the instrument is a genuine Steinway piano or a fraud.

WASHINGTON.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

WASHINGTON, May 24, 1876.

THE EXTRADITION IMBROGLIO—AN EARLY SETTLEMENT TO BE PRESSED BY THE WASHINGTON GOVERNMENT—THE MUDDLE GROWING OUT OF THE ATTITUDE OF THE BRITISH CABINET—OUR EXTRADITION RELATIONS WITH CANADA.

It is intended by the State Department to have an immediate settlement of the extradition question, and it is understood that the despatch of Secretary Fish, which went over by Wednesday's steamer, shall produce a decision in England without further discussion. There will therefore be no delay on account of the appointment of Mr. Pierrepont, who does not mean to sail until after the 1st of June. The long delay made by the British government embarrasses our extradition relations with the Canadian government. The authorities of Canada, both executive and judicial, have always, and even very recently, interpreted the treaty in its true and proper sense. They do not find any fault with our claims, but the contrary. But they are probably bound by the course of the British government, and of course our government is bound, however unwillingly, to include Canada as part of the British dominions in its dealings under treaty obligations. There are now held in this country one or two persons charged with serious crimes, one at least with murder, whose surrender under the Extradition Treaty is asked by Canada. There is every disposition to give them up, but compliance with the Canadian demand is delayed until the British government shall decide whether it means to observe or to violate the Extradition Treaty.

There is some reason to believe that representations have been made to the British government by some of its representatives in other countries that if England should insist on her present views in regard to the effect of local laws upon treaties she may experience trouble in pending negotiations with other European Powers, as, for instance, Spain. In fact, the muddle into which the British Ministry have got themselves in the Winslow matter threatens to produce trouble for them in various quarters. The Canadians will be very much dissatisfied if the course of Lord Derby should abrogate the extradition clause of the Ashburton Treaty.

Several attempts to form a new extradition treaty between this country and England have failed in recent years, for different reasons, all being objections made by the British authorities, whose aim seems to be to insist that such a treaty shall be made subject to the interpretation of an act of Parliament, which, of course, is inadmissable. It has been proposed to specify in the treaty that a person surrendered shall be amenable to trial for any of the offences mentioned and made extraditable in the treaty and for none others. This very reasonable and proper proposition has, it is believed, been declined by England.

THE BELKNAP JURISDICTION QUESTION—PRESENT ATTITUDE OF THE DISCUSSION—STRONG ARGUMENT ON THE NEGATIVE SIDE.

The impeachment question hangs fire in the Senate, there being still some long speeches to make, but the arguments of those who believe that the Senate has no jurisdiction are evidently having effect, as it is generally believed that within three or four days the majority for jurisdiction has diminished, and, at this time, report says the Senate is very nearly equally divided. The argument that an officer ought not to be allowed by his adroit and timely resignation to evade the punishment which can be inflicted by conviction on impeachment, is met by the provision of sections 5,501 and 5,502 of the Revised Statutes. The first section provides that:—

> Every officer of the United States, and every person acting for or on behalf of the United States in any official capacity, under or by virtue of the authority of any department or office of the government thereof, * * * who asks, accepts or receives any money or any contract, promise, undertaking, obligation, gratuity, or security for the payment of money or for the delivery or conveyance of anything of value, with the intent to have his decision or action on any question, matter, cause or proceeding which may at any time be pending, or which may be by law brought before him in his official capacity, or in his place of trust or profit influenced thereby shall be punished by a fine of three times the amount received, and imprisonment not less than three years.

The next section provides that:—

> Every member, officer or person convicted under the provisions of the two preceding sections, who holds any place of profit or trust, shall forfeit his office or place and shall thereafter be forever disqualified from holding any office of honor, trust or profit under the United States.

Mr. Belknap is now under indictment and it is held by those who maintain that the Senate has no jurisdiction, that impeachment has for its purpose mainly removal from office, and that the disqualification which conviction on impeachment may bring is also provided for in the statute, and will fall on Mr. Belknap if he is convicted by the jury on his civil trial; that therefore he does not escape the graver political punishment, disqualification, even if he is not tried by the Senate. This argument is found to have great force with Senators, it is said.

A RUMOR CURRENT REGARDING THE RESIGNATION OF SECRETARY ROBESON.

A rumor is current here at midnight that Secretary Robeson has tendered his resignation to the President, but that the President declined to accept until the Naval Affairs Committee of the House had passed upon the matters investigated by them affecting the administration of the Navy Department.

THE AUSTRIAN MISSION—SKETCH OF THE NOMINEE FOR THE POSITION.

General Edward F. Beale, who was to-day nominated by the President to be Minister to Austria, though at present a resident of Washington, lived until within the last two years at Chester, in Pennsylvania, and was for many years before a prominent resident of California. He was in early life an officer of the navy; took part, as a young man, in the series of actions which resulted in the capture of California, and for brilliant service was made bearer of the despatches which first announced that event to President Polk and brought over the earliest specimens of gold from California to the East. He was afterward employed with Kit Carson, Fremont and others in public surveys, and crossed the Continent several times to lay the thirty-fifth parallel wagon road; was Superintendent of Indian Affairs in California and New Mexico, where he won praises for his success in managing the Indians; was commissioned Brigadier General of California to complete an Indian war; was detailed by the Treasury Department to report upon the efficiency of camels upon the Western plains, and in 1861 was appointed Surveyor General of California and Nevada; sent his resignation to President Lincoln with a request for active service in the army, but his resignation was not accepted. General Beale is a scholarly and accomplished man, speaks several languages and is a man of large wealth. Though he has not in recent years been in the public service while a resident of Pennsylvania. He took an active part in the discussion of public questions, and was among the first in that State to urge in public speeches that the vote should be given to the colored people. More recently he has lived in Washington, in whose society his family are general favorites. He comes of an old naval family, being a grandson of Commodore Truxton, and he was himself educated at the Naval Academy; he graduated in 1842.

A NEW ARMY RETIRING BOARD—OFFICERS ORDERED TO REPORT FOR EXAMINATION—NOMINATIONS SENT TO THE SENATE.

The following officers compose a new Army Retiring Board ordered to convene next week at St. Louis:—Colonel J. H. Simpson, corps of engineers, and S. D. Sturgis, Seventh cavalry; Lieutenant Colonel Amos Beckwith, Assistant Commissary General, and Surgeons C. T. Alexander and B. A. Clements, with Captain Hale, Seventh cavalry, as recorder.

Major John V. DuBois, Third cavalry, and Major James Curtis, Tenth cavalry, have been placed on the retired list this week, as have also Captains Thomas L. Brent, Third cavalry, and Samuel K. Schwenk, Eighth cavalry. The nominations of Captain Carleton to be Major Third cavalry, and Captain N. B. McLaughlin to be Major Tenth cavalry, were sent to the Senate to-day. Captain Sheldon Sturgeon, Sixth cavalry, is also retired.

The following officers have been ordered to report for examination by the Emory Retiring Board in Washington:—Colonel George A. Woodward, Fifteenth infantry; Captain John H. Donovan, Seventeenth infantry, and Lieutenants C. C. Cresson and J. G. Kyle, First cavalry; R. Norwood, Second cavalry; W. T. Craycroft and C. Braden, Seventh cavalry; W. R. Dunton, Nineteenth infantry; J. A. Yeckley, Twentieth infantry, and Nicholas D. Badger, Twenty-second infantry. Captain Joseph Kerin, Sixth cavalry, has been ordered before the Board at San Francisco, of which General Schofield is President.

THE SINGER WILL.

TEXT OF THE NEWLY DISCOVERED TESTAMENTARY DOCUMENT—INCREASING COMPLICATIONS.

Under an order of the Supreme Court a copy of the will executed by Isaac M. Singer, deceased, in July last, was yesterday delivered to R. W. Van Pelt, counsel for the claimant (Mrs. Foster), by David Hawley, the executor named in the testamentary document already admitted to probate by the Surrogate of Westchester county. It will be observed that it is drawn in strict accordance with the technical instructions given by the English attorney, extracts from whose confidential letters appeared exclusively in the HERALD of last Sunday. The will reads as follows:—

In the name of God, amen. I, Isaac Merritt Singer, of the city of Yonkers, county of Westchester and State of New York, but at present residing at Oldway, Paignton, Devonshire, England, as to all my real and personal property which I have in England at the time of my death, exclusive of the stock of the Singer Manufacturing Company, do make, publish and declare this to be my last will and testament, in manner following, namely:—

First—I direct my executors, hereinafter named, to pay my just debts in England and my funeral expenses.

Second—As to all the rest, residue and remainder of my real and personal property which I have in England at the time of my death, of every name and nature, and wheresoever situated in England, notwithstanding the same may be bonds or stocks registered in America or other countries, exclusive of the stock of the Singer Manufacturing Company, I give, devise and bequeath to David Hawley and Charles William Pridham, in and under the trust, deed or settlement made and executed between me and the said David Hawley and Charles William Pridham, and bearing date the twentieth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three, to have and hold the same to and for the uses, trusts and purposes in the said trust deed or settlement mentioned and declared, to the same effect in every respect as if the said uses, trusts and purposes were herein repeated. And I do further, in pursuance and part exercise of the power of appointment contained in said trust deed or settlement, appoint and direct that the said David Hawley and Charles William Pridham, trustees as aforesaid, shall stand possessed of the moneys and securities for money mentioned or referred to in the said trust deed or settlement, or conveyed or given to them by this will upon the further trusts, to lay out such part or portion thereof as the said David Hawley and Charles William Pridham, their heirs, executors, administrators or assigns, shall think necessary and proper, in completing, painting, decorating and furnishing the mansion called "The Wigwam," with the grounds, houses and premises, and the halls, works, walks and carriage drives in and about the same; the request and consent of my wife, Isabella Eugenie Singer (if living) to any such outlay or expenditure of money having been previously given and obtained to and by the said David Hawley and Charles William Pridham, their heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns, and in all other respects I confirm the said trust, deed or settlement.

Third—I do not include in this will the stock of the Singer Manufacturing Company, or whatever real or personal property I may have in America, or in other countries than England at the time of my death; but as to the said stock of the Singer Manufacturing Company and all my real and personal property in America, or other countries than England, I give and devise the same to the persons named, and as the same is given in my will made and executed in Paris, France, dated the sixteenth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and seventy, or any codicil or codicils thereto I may have executed and leave in existence at the time of my death, hereby ratifying and confirming the said last mentioned will or any codicil or codicils thereto I may have executed and leave in existence at the time of my death as to the said stock of the Singer Manufacturing Company, and the said real and personal property in America or other countries than England, and direct that my said will, executed in Paris, and any codicil or codicils thereto I may have executed and leave in existence at the time of my death, be probated and administered upon in America for that purpose.

Fourth.—I mean by the person, whom in my said will made at Paris, and in the said trust, deed or settlement, made on the twentieth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-three and in this will is called and described as Isabelle Eugenie Singer, or Isabella Eugenie Singer, the same person who is daughter of Louis Noel Boyer and Pamila, as described in the registration hereinafter referred to, and was born at No. 13 Rue Monceau, Paris, on the seventeenth day of December, one thousand eight hundred and forty-one, and whose birth was registered before the Mayor of the First arrondissement of Paris, France, on the nineteenth day of December, one thousand eight hundred and forty-one, by the name of Isabelle Eugenie Boyer, and who was married to me at No. 14 Fifth avenue, in the city of New York, according to the form or rites of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States of America, by the Rev. Edwin R. T. Cook, rector of St. John the Evangelist's church, Hammond street, corner of Waverley place, in said city of New York, on the thirteenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, by the name of Isabella Eugenia Summerville, and who has lived with me since as and is my wife.

And I mean by the persons, who, in said will made at Paris, and in said trust deed and settlement and here in this will are called or described as Adam Mortimer Singer, Winnaretta Eugenia Singer, Washington Merritt Grant Singer, Paris Eugene (or Eugenie) Singer, Isabelle (or Isabella) Blanche Singer and Franklin Morse Singer, the same persons or children who were born of the said Isabelle Eugenie Singer, and named respectively Adam Mortimer Singer, Winnaretta Eugenie Singer, Washington Merritt Grant Singer, Paris Eugene Singer, Isabella Blanche Singer and Franklin Morse Singer, and so called, named or described, or intended so to be called, though spelled differently in said wills and trust deed or settlement. Lastly, I hereby nominate and appoint David Hawley and Charles William Pridam executors of this my last will and testament.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand this fourteenth day of July, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five.

ISAAC MERRITT × SINGER.
mark

Signed by the said Isaac Merritt Singer, the testator, as and for his last will and testament, in the presence of us, being present at the same time, who, at his request, in his presence and in the presence of each other, hereunto subscribed our names as witnesses, the same having been previously read and explained to him.

JOHN CUSHING, Oldway, Paignton, South Devon; W. JENNINGS, Painter, Paignton, South Devon; MARY JONES, Paignton, South Devon.

The trust deed referred to in this will was designed to settle upon the English widow and her children the property in England which Singer possessed at the time this deed was executed (August 20, 1873), but it was condemned by the English lawyers on the ground that Singer had married her by collusion, under an assumed name, and that she was not in law his wife.

This last testamentary instrument was intended to settle the same property upon her and her children, by devise, which requires no consideration to uphold it; and also his additional property in England, acquired since the making of the trust deed, and which would not pass under the deed, even if the same were declared to be valid, and which subsequently acquired property is understood to be upwards of $3,000,000 and consists mostly in United States government bonds, registered. It is evident, therefore, that

THE OBJECT AND EFFECT OF THIS LAST WILL

(executed by the testator when he was in extremis, only nine days before his death, and by making his mark), if sustained, would be to withdraw all the property in England devised by it from the operation of the will of 1870, which, by its express terms, disposed of the entire estate of the testator, of what nature or kind soever and wherever situated, and settle it exclusively upon the English legatees.

It is further evident that the document now brought to light purports and was intended to be and is a full and complete last will and testament of the testator, for it gives and devises all the rest of his estate (after disposing of that portion in England) to the persons named and as the same is given in his will made at Paris July 16, 1870, and it designates and describes the English legatees in such a manner as that they would take under it, even if they were rejected for illegitimacy from the will of 1870. The prior will ceases to be in and by itself any will whatever; it merely becomes auxiliary to and serves to supply the information requisite to the understanding and execution of the instrument of July last, the same as reference is made to the trust deed, to show upon what trusts the property in England is devised.

Mrs. Foster complains that both the making and the suppression of this last document was a fraud upon her, for by its making she would have been deprived of her distributive share of the personal legacies which might lapse to the estate from the English legatees, in the event of her being declared the widow of the testator; and by its suppression she was deprived of the evidence contained upon its very face in support of her claim.

The American legatees under the first will also complain that they are defrauded out of their share of the estate in England, which would almost double their legacies, by the contrivance of this last secret will, which they now hear of for the first time, after it has been admitted to probate in England, without notice or any opportunity to them to oppose it.

Evidently this Singer case, with its wills and wives, women, children and millions, is becoming somewhat complicated. It is understood that Commodore Cornelius K. Garrison is aiding Mrs. Foster in the prosecution of her claim.

AMUSEMENTS.

GILMORE'S GARDEN—MAX MARETZEK.

Quite a change for the better has taken place in this beautiful garden. Max Maretzek has replaced the incompetent conductor that alternated with Offenbach, and a marked improvement is visible. The veteran operatic manager who has passed over a quarter of a century in musical harness and whose musical attainments and experience in every branch of the divine art are recognized everywhere, was welcomed back to the orchestral stand by such an outburst of enthusiasm as has been seldom known in this city. The impresario was obliged to bow his acknowledgments over and over again before he was permitted to resume the baton. He conducted the following works with an élan and spirit that roused the audience to a degree of enthusiasm hitherto unknown in Gilmore's Garden:—Overture, "La Gazza Ladra," Rossini (one of the choicest morceaux of the fertile Swan of Pesaro); an effective fantasia from "L'Africaine;" selections from Verdi's "Macbeth;" the glorious entr'acte and bridal chorus from "Lohengrin;" the overture to the "Daughter of the Regiment;" the march from the "Prophet," and Maretzek's "Erie Galop."

The galop is entirely characteristic of the composer and gives the idea in the best musical language of sixty miles an hour on a HERALD train. It was tumultuously encored. M. Offenbach conducted some of his own works, but the effect of them seemed to suffer considerably beside the fine compositions that accompanied them. Mr. Henry Korvalski, pianist, will play the two last movements of Weber's "Concertstück" to-night at the garden.

MUSICAL AND DRAMATIC NOTES.

The management of Central Park Garden wish to combine Thomas and Downing in future concerts.

Mr. Butler, of the Globe Theatre, announces the arrival of the Briant family and the Count of Cagliostro, who ought to have been dead long ago, but who, it appears, still lives.

Mr. Thorne's benefit this afternoon at the Union Square Theatre will be interesting not only from the popularity of the actor, but because of the uniform merit of the performance. "The Hunchback" will present this fine artist in one of his most effective parts—Sir Thomas Clifford—and will introduce Miss Ida Jeffries for the first time in the charming part of Julia. The rest of the cast is strong, including Mr. Fred. Robinson as Master Walter, and theatre-goers have reason to anticipate an entertainment of unusual brilliancy.

THE BRAZILIAN EMPEROR.

DOWN THE "FATHER OF RIVERS" IN THE STEAMER GRAND REPUBLIC.

NEW ORLEANS, May 24, 1876.

At seven o'clock this evening the Emperor, Empress and suite arrived here on board the steamer Grand Republic after a pleasant but somewhat slow voyage from St. Louis. Their Majesties enjoyed the trip very much, but were somewhat disappointed by the deserted appearance of the river above Baton Rouge, they having formed the opinion that the whole valley of the Mississippi was almost entirely under cultivation. Cairo and Memphis were passed at night, so that it was not until Vicksburg was reached that their Majesties had an opportunity of seeing any of the secondary river towns.

The Emperor refused to go on shore at Vicksburg, as his visit would have delayed the steamer, and afterwards he decided not to land at any point before reaching New Orleans—a resolution to which he adhered strictly. Stoppages were made during daylight at Natchez and Baton Rouge. The Mayor of the latter city telegraphed an invitation to His Majesty to pay an informal visit to the public institutions of the place, but it was declined with thanks.

At all the landing places along the route the steamer was invaded by crowds of curious citizens of all classes and conditions, who took possession of the saloon and stared the imperial visitors out of countenance until the steamer's bell would ring out the warning for the departure, when our not over welcome visitors would scamper off and leave their Majesties in peace.

The Emperor bore this infliction with stoic fortitude, but it proved too much for the Empress on one or two occasions, and Her Majesty was obliged to retire to her room to get free from the intrusive attentions of the parti-colored mob. At Natchez the ladies came out in force and offered an agreeable contrast to the visitors at other points. They were accompanied by a local prima donna who sang a number of songs for the entertainment of their Majesties.

The voyage from St. Louis here offered a pleasant and welcome change from the railroad travelling of the preceding month, and though the Emperor chafed a little under the delay in coming down the river, he thinks that taking everything into consideration it has been an advantage, because it afforded rest that he very much needed. The first night on board the steamer His Majesty's rest was very broken, but the five days' repose which he has enjoyed has quite restored him to his usual vigorous health.

The Empress is also well in health.

As the steamer Grand Republic passed the shipping on her arrival here a salute was fired from a British steamer. Many ships were decked with bunting, and as the Grand Republic passed the shipping the flags were dipped in honor of the imperial visitors. His Majesty stood at the guard and acknowledged the salutes.

The point selected for the landing was near the foot of Canal street, where an immense crowd had assembled. The municipal authorities had thoughtfully sent down a squad of police to keep order, but the people showed so much good taste that fortunately the duties of the policemen were reduced to politely escorting the party to their carriages.

Their Imperial Majesties were immediately driven to the St. Charles Hotel, where apartments had been prepared for them.

To-morrow their Majesties will visit the chief points of interest in the city. At three o'clock His Majesty will confer with the Board of Health on the subject of yellow fever.

OUR MARINE CORRESPONDENCE.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 24, 1876.

During the thick fog Monday night the schr Catherine May, from Philadelphia for Boston, and the 3-masted schr Henry J May, from Philadelphia for Lynn, went ashore about the same time on the south end of Block Island. Guerrybutt Wrecking Company made a contract for $2,000 for the former and $3,000 for the latter to get them off. They got the Henry J May off last night and sent word here by a fishing smack for the revenue cutter Samuel Dexter, as they could not tow her to this port, as she had lost her rudder and was leaking. The cutter promptly went to her assistance and took her in tow. Soon after getting beyond the island the task of towing her was so difficult, owing to the loss of her rudder, that a steam vessel was signalled to assist. After reaching this port she was towed to Fall River for repairs. Advices from Block Island this evening state that the Catherine W May was floated and on her way to this port in charge of the wreckers. A committee of the Independent Wrecking Company have arrived here to prevent the payment of the claim of the successful wreckers, claiming as a reason, that they are entitled to a share in the proceeds, according to the arrangements entered into by both companies years ago. It is doubtful if the owners of either vessel consents to pay the contracts made by their captains, in view of the fact that the vessels were gotten off without scarcely any trouble. In fact the Henry J May would have come off without assistance.

Arrived this AM, New York Coast Wrecking Company's steamer Lackawanna, for the purpose of looking after brig Florence I Henderson, reported ashore on Beaver Tail and floated yesterday morning.

This PM, the fishing steamer Ida Augusta ran into, off Seaconnet Point coast, the sloop Falcon. She struck the sloop just forward of her mast and cut her down to the water mark, making an ugly hole. She at once left her fishing and took the sloop in tow and brought her into this port. The steamer is uninjured.

MARITIME MISCELLANY.

BARK REBECCA CARUANA, Johnson, before reported ashore near Little Egg Harbor, was gotten off at 6 PM 23d, and towed to the Coast Wrecking Co's dock at Staten Island.

BARK ALICE TAINTER, 570 tons, built at New York in 1856, now in this port, has been sold for Norwegian account at a private price.

SCHR J K MUNDELL, in charge of the mate, when nearing New London harbor 22d, on her trip up from New York, where she had left a large load of halibut, struck a rock and at once commenced leaking badly. A tug went to her assistance and brought her up, and after her ice, left over from the trip, had been removed, she was taken around to Bragaw's ways, where she will be hauled up for repairs.

SCHR J B ALLEN, from Belfast, Me, for New York, which had been ashore at Vineyard Haven since the 4th inst, came off night of 22d.

SCHR L STURDEVANT, from Newbern for Philadelphia, before reported taken to Newbern May 21, will proceed to destination with her cargo.

SCHR DANIEL BROWN, before reported ashore at Watchaprigue, arrived at Norfolk May 24 for repairs.

SCHR CAROLINE VIRGINIA, Haynie, of Tappahannock, Va, loaded with wood for Wm Michael, of Baltimore, sprung aleak in the Chesapeake Bay afternoon of 22d, about 2 o'clock, from a rat hole in her centre well. Finding the water gaining on her fast the captain put into Annapolis, where the vessel sunk about 5 o'clock. Part of the wood has been taken from the vessel.

SCHR M A MCGAHAN—Schr Bonnie Eloise (of Provincetown), Silvia, for Block Island fishing ground, in going out of Newport, 23d inst, collided with schooner M A McGahan, lying at anchor in the inner harbor, carrying away the former's bowsprit close to the stem.

STEAMTUG PAULINE WILBOUR, Captain Gray, in going through the lower bridge at Tiverton on the 22d, struck a large rock in the slew, stove a hole in her bottom under the engine, and it was with great difficulty they succeeded in reaching Fall River to get her on the marine railway.

Capt Henderson, of the brig Florence Henderson, returns his thanks to Capt Carson and officers of the cutter S Dexter for their prompt assistance in getting the vessel off the rocks near Beaver Tail Lighthouse and towing her into Newport.

CHARLESTON, May 22—The hull of the Norwegian bark N C Kierkegaard, previously reported sunk off the bar, was sold here on Saturday last for $15. The material saved from the wreck was disposed of at the same time for about $325.

QUICK PASSAGE.—Steamer City of New York, of Alexandre's Havana line, arrived here yesterday from Havana, making the remarkably quick time of 3 days 12½ hours. She brings an unusually large number of passengers.

LAUNCHED—At Belfast, Me, May 24, ship C P Carter, 1,836 tons register, from the yard of C P Carter & Co. This is the largest vessel ever built in Belfast. She will be commanded by Captain E H Herriman.
